SANDBRIDGE DREDGING PERMIT SOUGHT

SANDBRIDGE — The North Bay Development Corporation has asked the Army Engineers for a permit to dredge and fill in a marsh adjacent to North Bay at Sandbridge.

The project involves disposing of the dredged material behind dikes and is for the purpose of building up the existing marsh. Dredging will be performed by a combination of dragline and hydraulic operations, according to E. K. Jackson, chief of operations for the Army Engineers.

The permit depends largely on the effect of the proposed work upon navigation, Jackson said.

The marshy area is located between Lake Tecomseh and North Bay. It would be dredged and filled so that it would create a complex of building sites situated on channels available to open water.

Comments or objections to the proposed project may be made in writing to the Norfolk office of Army Engineers until March 11. The address is: U.S. Army Engineer District, Norfolk, Corps of Engineers, Room of Front Street, Norfolk, Va. 23510.

BULLETIN

Virginia State Police reported late Monday afternoon that a 3-year-old Virginia Beach child was killed instantly in an accident early Monday morning about one mile west of Ivor in Southampton County. Police identified the child as Jody Sue Bowker of 6237 Ranke Road. She reportedly was a passenger in a car that ran off U.S. 460 into a ditch after the driver, John Clayton Ulrich of Baltimore, Md., apparently fell asleep at the wheel. No further details were known at press time.

BEACH ARTIST EXHIBITS

RICHMOND — A Virginia Beach artist and illustrator has her work on exhibit at the Richmond Public Library till March 21.

Mrs. Nancy Gardner Thomas accepted an invitation to hold the exhibit in the Gellman Room of the Richmond Public Library during March. On exhibit is Mrs. Thomas' pen & ink and watercolor illustrations of children at work and play. These illustrations are featured in framed paintings, greeting cards, and hand-painted paper dolls.

Art objects designed by Mrs. Thomas have been distributed in Tidewater through Shomier's in Virginia Beach and the Toy-maker's shop in Williamsburg. The Gellman Room of the Richmond Public Library was established for the purpose of displaying cultural achievements by Virginians. In addition to art exhibits, the Gellman Room features musical recitals, auditions, and lectures.

Mrs. Thomas is the wife of Charles B. Thomas and has two daughters, Wendy, 6, and Anne, 2. The Thomases reside at 825 Deary Lane. She is a member of the Virginia Beach Jaycees and the Harbor Circle of the Kings Daughters. Mrs. Thomas is in Richmond this week with her exhibit and will return to Virginia Beach Sunday.

LARGE SCHOOL BOND VOTER TURN-OUT WILL LOWER INTEREST RATES

VIRGINIA BEACH — "The percentage of the vote may determine the percentage of interest charged on the sale of the bonds," was an important factor brought to the Virginia Beach Republican Women's Club by Joseph J. Owens, Jr., at the luncheon meeting held last week at the White Heron.

The administrative assistant to the superintendent of the school board was speaking on the vital School Bond Referendum coming to the voters on March 16. Mr. Owens was introduced by the vice president, Mrs. Carol Moore, after the business session, conducted by the president, Mrs. Ida May Esmond, was concluded.

Pointing out that because it is expected the School Bond issue will be approved by the voters, many registered voters may be "too busy" to bother to go to the polls. But an overwhelming vote in favor of the referendum will give City Council a better picture for favorable financial backing which in turn will cost taxpayers less money.

He also explained that the $5-million is for school construction only. All salaries, maintenance, and other educational expenses come from an operating fund out of the City budget.

Three elementary schools are under construction at this time with the help of "impact funds". This special fund is allocated by the federal government to specified areas where the population of federal employees' families create problems for educational facilities.

The $5-million will build two more high schools, one elementary school, and an addition to another school. Some help from the impact funds will also go into these new proposed constructions.

Many questions which the women felt deserved authorized answers were asked of Owens. It was felt that the reasons for constant change and yearly expense of parents for the purchase of textbooks and the payment of fees deserved clarification.

He commented that the school board feels this procedure is the least expensive for taxpayers and that if residents would realize that there is no school tax in the state nor any transportation costs in the city, they know it is the best solution.

He also made it clear that Virginia Beach students study from the most up-to-date text books available. Under this system, which would not be possible with "free textbooks,"

Students in other states which do provide books often study from the same books their parents used. He also emphasized that the price of books are exactly the same that the school board pays for them; there is no profit gained from the books.

Boy 4, Hit By Auto

GREAT NECK — A 4-year-old child suffered a broken leg and possible internal injuries when he was struck by a car at the intersection of Great Neck Road and Plantation Drive about noon Saturday.

Police said that James David Shomier, of 816 Simpkins Lane, was injured when he darted in front of a car driven by Aubrey Ingle Austin, 36, of 2704 Robbins Drive.

Patrolman Edward A. Casey reported that the young victim and a companion were standing on the east side of Great Neck Road preparing to cross when Austin's view was blocked by a passing truck and the child ran in front of his car.

Casey said there was no negligence on the part of either driver and that no charges had been placed.

Back To School Go Local Farmers

PRINCESS ANNE — Virginia Beach farmers are going back to school in a series of educational training programs in various fields of agriculture.

The first in the series was held yesterday with a training meeting on sweet potatoes at the Virginia Truck Experiment Station. But more are in store.

Three agronomy schools have been scheduled at three different locations. The first will be held at Creeds Fire Station this Thursday, the second at the Agricultural Building at Princess Anne Court House March 8 and the third at Blackwater Fire Department March 10.

All of the agronomy schools will start at 7:30 p.m. and continue until 9:30 p.m. Corn and soybean production will be the major topics of discussion.

A beef cattlemen's school will be held March 9 in the Agricultural Building from 1 to 4 p.m. with Curtis Mast, beef cattle specialist at VPI as guest instructor.

"These schools are excellent opportunities for farm people to receive the very latest information in production and management of sweet potatoes, corn, soybeans and beef cattle," Agricultural Agent E. R. Cockrell Jr. said.

All farmers are invited to attend and further information may be obtained from Cockrell.

LATE HOUR PRACTICE DRIVING TEEN-AGERS CAUSING CONCERN

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach juvenile authorities have been plagued in recent weeks with late hour joy-riding teenagers who have sneaked out of their homes and made off with the family car.

Lt. G. K. Bryan of the juvenile bureau said Monday that the reports on such cases have been steadily growing and has urged parents to place ignition keys under safekeeping at night.

Police have found that most of the youngsters apprehended had taken the car and left the house without their parents' knowledge.

Most of the reported incidents took place late at night and the majority of the young offenders didn't have drivers licenses, Lt. Bryan said.

The main dangers in these ventures is, of course, the possibility of accidents with an inexperienced driver behind the wheel.

And in trying to apprehend the youngsters police are often faced with a high speed chase that could so easily end in tragedy.

One young driver nearly caused disaster when he ran a police roadblock and speeded through several busy intersections while fleeing a patrol car. When police finally cornered him, he jumped from the car and ran. He was taken into custody a short time later.

"Because the youngsters are inexperienced drivers, they panic when they see a red light," Lt. Bryan explained. "Their first instinct is to run and they cause a terrific hazard on the highways."

Most of the offenders have been boys but there have been a few girls. Those that have been apprehended have claimed they were either practicing driving so they could get their licenses or were doing it "just for kicks."

"There is a time and place to learn to drive," Lt. Bryan said. "But late at night without supervision is not it."

There have also been one or two cases of youngsters "borrowing" someone else's car. After sneaking out of the house, the would-be drivers go about the neighborhood looking for a car with keys in it. Occasionally these "borrowed" vehicles are damaged, even wrecked, before being returned.

The penalty for such offenses depends on the severity of the case, Lt. Bryan said. But in all cases parents are called in to consult with juvenile authorities. In some instances where parents discovered the act before police, they asked that a juvenile officer talk with their child.

"All of these things tie up the personnel in the Juvenile Bureau for quite a while," Bryan said. "That's one of the reasons why we urge parents to keep a close check on their car and keep the keys out of it. But mainly, we want to prevent a tragedy on our highways."

Runaway Car Causes Broken Jaw

THOROUGHGOOD — A 42-year-old man suffered lacerations of the face and a broken jaw late Friday night when his car went out of control and struck a tree on First Court Road at Robbins Corner.

Police identified the injured man as Eugene L. Manning of 833 Brinson Lane. The accident caused about $400 damage to his car.

According to police reports, Manning lost control of the car as it was rounding a curve. It ran off the left side of the road, came back across the highway, climbed a 12-foot embankment and struck a tree.

Officer C. D. Hathaway, who investigated, said Manning had been charged with reckless driving. Time of the accident was about 10:30 p.m.

TEEN TOPICS

By Carolyn R. Pettibone
Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

Most of us like to give parties, and all of us like our parties to be successful. One should remember that the successful party is always enjoyable. Here are some suggestions on how you can make your parties more enjoyable, and thus more successful.

In planning a good party it is necessary for you to plan your activities so that your guests have an opportunity to do what they enjoy. For example, some of your friends may enjoy quiet conversation, and for them a small dinner party might be most pleasant. Some of your other friends, however, might prefer more active parties where they have an opportunity to meet new people, and for them a larger and more informal party with dancing would probably be the best.

When making out your guest list, you should try to invite people who bring out the best in each other. In other words, every good party should have some good listeners along with some outgoing individuals who add life to the party. If you are planning to invite some new friends to your party it is generally a good idea to invite some of your older and closer companions who will aid you in making your new acquaintances feel more at home. It is generally a good idea to invite some new comers to your parties since they often provide variety by adding new interests and viewpoints.

Once you have decided upon your guest list you must of course either send out invitations or notify the guests about the party by phone. The written invitation should include the following information: (1) What kind of party is being given; (2) Where it is being held; (3) When it will be held; and (4) Who is giving it. In addition to this information you may also want to indicate how long the party will last and what people should wear. If you are sending out written invitations you should mail the invitations at least two weeks in advance of the party. Include an RSVP if you want to know ahead of time how many people to expect at the party. Written invitations are generally a good idea since they provide your guests with a handy reminder of time and place. If you don't want to send out written invitations you can notify your guests of the party by phone. When notifying your friends about the party by phone it is best to leave messages with someone other than your guest, since they may fail to relay the information or if they do relay it they may relay it inaccurately.

When preparing for your party you should remember that your personality is revealed through the appearance of your home, the enthusiastic welcome of your guests, and the refreshments and activities planned for your friends. Your house should be neat and orderly and the refreshments well planned and prepared. When meeting your guest, you should greet them with relaxed hospitality which makes them feel that you are glad that they came. Remember, every party starts at the front door and your welcome must make your guests feel that they are glad to be in your home. When your guests include strangers, you should make sure that they are introduced to some of your other friends, and that they are made to feel at home.

Finally, the good hostess should also consider herself. You should not only make sure that your guests enjoy themselves, but you should also make sure that you enjoy every minute of your own party. Everyone likes a relaxed hostess, so you should make sure that you act like the kind of hostess you would like to meet if you were going to a party and not giving it.

MISS CAROLYN PETTIBONE

YOUNG CAMPER NARRATES SLIDES

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Whispering Pines Garden Club met recently at the home of Mrs. C. A. Walker on Pinewood road with Mrs. B. H. Murden as co-hostesses. Club president, Mrs. J. M. Meredith, presided.

A program of slides depicting camp life at the nature camp in Vesuvius, Virginia, was shown and narrated by Miss June Adams, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Adams. She has attended nature camp twice in the past years and plans to return in 1966.

The club welcomed Mrs. A. E. McBee into membership. Mrs. L. T. Navarro attended as guest of Mrs. Adams.

She Follows In Mother's Footsteps

PRINCESS ANNE — Miss Carolyn Pettibone, author of this paper's "Teen Topics" column, was following in her mother's footsteps when she recently took over the position of assistant home demonstration agent for the city.

Her mother, Mrs. Russell Pettibone, has been the home demonstration agent for Arlington for the past eight years and her enthusiasm for the work was inherited by her 22-year-old blonde daughter.

The head of the Pettibone household is an attorney in Arlington and a son is studying for his Ph.D. degree in industrial engineering.

As assistant to Mrs. Elizabeth Deal, Miss Pettibone will work mostly with 4-H clubs and youth programs, a field she is well prepared for.

She graduated from Cornell University in New York City last June with a degree in Home Economics and a major child development and family relationships.

Along with other 4-H leaders, Miss Pettibone hopes to create a larger interest in 4-H work in all areas throughout the city, not just in the agricultural communities.

In The Good Old Days—

When it came to heating, Grandpa had no great problem. Just keep the old pot-belly stove roaring—no worries about steam pressure, or explosions! But, as a house warmer the old fashioned stove was a flop. Ten feet away from it you were in a deep freeze.

Modern heating plants keep the whole place snug and warm but they do sometimes explode and can cause extensive damage. Steam boiler insurance not only indemnifies in case of loss—but the inspection service that goes with it guards against such loss occurring. Let us tell you more about this protection.

ARCHERS HAD BIG SEASON

RICHMOND — Virginia archers bagged 354 deer and 2 bear during the 1964-65 hunting season, according to Game Commission tag returns.

This is the best bowhunting harvest to date and is about a 30% increase over 1962 and 1963 totals. The highest previous year was 1961-62, when the state's archers bagged 326 deer.

A total of 266 deer bagged by archers west of the Blue Ridge was largely responsible for the big increase. East of the Blue Ridge, the bow and arrow kill was 88, slightly below last year's take in this section. The highest kills were reported in Augusta where 36 were bagged, in Pulaski where 30 were taken and in Wythe where the bowhunters downed 26.

A Word On Surfing

The move by City Council and the Recreation Commission to form committees to study the surfing problems at Virginia Beach is a sound idea and one we hope will bring some solutions agreeable to all sides in this somewhat controversial issue. There is much to be said both pro and con for surfing but we are inclined to think that the pros outweigh the cons.

Looking at the sport from the participants' angle we can well understand their concern, perhaps irritation, at being confined to an area that has long been too inadequate to accommodate the growing number of surfers. This situation creates a mental picture of so many fishermen trying to net a catch in a washtub. Surfing, under the most favorable conditions, can be a dangerous sport. This becomes more intensified when surfers must be crammed into an area too limited to allow proper space for safe clearance between the participants. Controlling the boards become the prime objective of the surfer: straying too far on one side they might strike a swimmer; too far on the other side they might become entangled in fishing lines, or, worse yet, plow into a piling under the fishing pier. Pleasure in the sport must take a back seat to controlling the boards.

Yet, we realize that surfing cannot be permitted just anywhere along the beach. An onrushing board can, and does, cause serious injury if it strikes a swimmer. Controls must be set to protect them as well as financially protect the hotel and motel owners whose income depends on the availability of the ocean and direct access to the beach. The city is in the precarious position of owing a certain responsibility to the surfers, the swimmers and the hotel-motel owners.

When City Council first set up its restricted surfing area the sport was in its infancy in Virginia Beach and the area's limitations were understandable. But surfing is growing by leaps and bounds and this resort city is fast becoming known as the leading surfing spot along the East Coast. The city may not yet be prepared for the popularity surfing youngsters have thrust upon it but surely the time has come to face up to the situation and see what best can be done with it. It could cause problems if improperly handled. But it could just as easily benefit the city in many ways if plans are carefully laid and executed.

The city's new promotional film opens with a surfing scene and those who have seen the movie must be aware of the impact this will have on young television viewers all over the country who see the film. Surfing often seems to be the major concern of today's youth. They absorb every bit of information on it they can and support anything pertaining to surfing. We cannot overlook the financial benefits that might be derived from this sport but it would seem even more important to give our youngsters a helping hand and try to solve some of the problems surrounding surfing.

We must keep surfing in its proper perspective but we cannot ignore it. It's here to stay and is going to become more prevalent as the months go by. Why not accept it and find ways to weave it into the normal resort routine, free of controversial overtones?

The Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce has boosted the sport with its annual surfing championships which each August draws hundreds of surfers from all over the United States and thousands of spectators. Another surfing contest is scheduled this May and it, too, will draw additional interest. If we look only at cold facts, it's easy to see that surfing is big business. Virginia Beach could well afford to back up such a business—especially when it's being handed to them on a silver platter.

But looking at it from the human side, surfing is the major recreation of our young people. It is the only recreation the city has in any way supported for our teen-agers. We have no youth centers or special programs to keep them off the streets. Our teen-agers are not asking for a recreation center. They ask only for more space on the beach.

Dr. Johnston

Is Elected

College Pres.

NORFOLK — Dr. Joseph Shackford Johnston, Superintendent of the Norfolk District of The Methodist Church for the past six years, has been elected president of Virginia Wesleyan College, the new four-year liberal arts institution to be built in Norfolk-Virginia Beach.

The announcement of the election was made by Judge Jerry G. Bray, Jr., of Chesapeake, chairman of the college Board of Trustees, following a meeting of the board in Norfolk.

Dr. Johnston will immediately assume the responsibilities of his new position.

Construction of the first college buildings will begin this spring, with the expectation that they will be ready to receive the first freshman class in the fall of 1966.

Virginia Wesleyan College will be built with funds provided jointly by Virginia Methodists and the citizens and businesses of the Tidewater area.

The campus will occupy a 300-acre site, lying astride the corporate limits of both Norfolk and Virginia Beach. Buildings are planned to house an eventual student body of 1,200, with the possibility of enlarging far beyond that figure if future needs should make it desirable.

It will be a residential, co-educational, four-year liberal arts college. Immediate steps are to be taken by the new president toward the formation of a faculty and administrative staff.

A NIGHT ON THE TOWN — AND WHAT A NIGHT IT IS! In this scene from "Sylvia," the explosive Martin Poll production for Paramount, which opens Wednesday at the Beach Theatre, Carroll Baker entertains a cash customer at a swank night spot. Based on a best-selling novel by E. V. Cunningham, "Sylvia" stars Miss Baker and George Maharis.

Maharis Co-Stars In 'Sylvia' At Beach

George Maharis, who labored unacclaimed through dozens of television and stage shows before achieving stardom in the popular "Route 66," has a leading role opposite Carroll Baker in "Sylvia," Paramount's romantic drama which opens Wednesday at the Beach Theatre. Based on a novel by E. V. Cunningham, this explosive Martin Poll production also stars Joanne Dru, Peter Lawford, Viveca Lindfors, Edmond O'Brien, Aldo Ray, Ann Southern and Lloyd Bochner.

Strangely enough, Maharis is glad that it took him so long to make good. "I now that this will sound odd, but I'm grateful that my training has been gradual. Let's face it. There's no substitute for experience. You learn to act by acting. The more of it you do, the better you become."

Maharis' success wasn't easy and it wasn't sudden. He scuffled in the dismal tradition of the acting profession for several years before gaining his first national recognition in "Route 66." He played Buzz Murdock, the dark, moody, handsome landowner who gave the show its real distinction. Prior to that, Maharis worked in summer stock, television, theatre, nightclubs and off-Broadway, doing everything from bits to leads. One night he would star in a Little Theatre production, and the next night he might play a bit part on television. It wasn't an easy life for Maharis, but he worked often and learned his craft. When "Route 66" came along he was ready.

Maharis, who in "Sylvia" plays a private detective in search of a girl's hidden past, offers this word of advice to all aspiring actors. "Don't look for the shortcut." Start at the bottom and work hard. It will take you a few years but you will learn to act. Once you do, success might come."

THIS IS WEIGHTS AND MEASURES WK.

RICHMOND — Governor Harrison has announced that the week of March 1-7 has been set aside to honor the third man in all business transactions, the weights and measures inspector.

In his statement on National Weights & Measures Week, the Governor praised the work of this indispensable segment of the government, asking all Virginians to join with him in recognition of their service.

National Weights & Measures Week is an attempt to make people more aware, for one week, of the importance of this service which functions for them each day of the year.

The Virginia weights and measures regulations are enforced on both the state and local levels. The state's main regulatory agency is the Virginia Department of Agriculture, which cooperates with local agencies in some areas.

Working under VDA's division of regulatory services, the weights and measures section maintains 29 inspectors in the field.

J. F. Lyles, supervisor of the section, in explaining the duties of a weights and measures inspector said, "His basic duty is to check commercial weighing and measuring devices and to periodically checkweigh prepackaged items throughout the state to make sure that they meet required standards. This assures that buyers get what they pay for and that sellers don't give away profits through faulty or inaccurate equipment. We estimate that this service saves the average Virginia family approximately $150 a year at a cost of less than 5-1/2¢ per person."

POPE AND VATICAN NBC TOPIC TUESDAY

The new force and vigor of the Roman Catholic Church as it seeks to chart its course amidst the complexities of the modern world will be the subject of a special NBC News colorcast, "The Pope and the Vatican," Tuesday, March 9 (10-11 p.m. EST), Julian Goodman, Vice President, NBC News, announced today.

The program will be produced by George A. Vicas, head of the NBC News European Production Unit, and narrated by Irving R. Levine, NBC News correspondent, Rome.

Vicas said he hoped to record the vast changes that have been sweeping through the Church and the impact of these changes by establishing a portrait of Pope Paul VI, the man who took over the reins of the Church, in the midst of these changes.

"The Church is now at the crossroads," Vicas said. "What it does now will affect not only the 500 million Roman Catholics all over the world, but the rest of the world as well. It is our hope to better understand these currents in the Church today by building a program that focuses on the Church's two main pillars — the Pope and the Vatican."

Symbol of the changing complexion of the Church today is the Ecumenical Council, which is scheduled to hold its fourth and last session later this year. The Ecumenical Council first was convened in 1962 by the late Pope John XXIII and marked the climax of his efforts at "aggiornamento" — "bringing up to date."

One of Pope Paul's first acts upon becoming Pope in 1963 after the death of Pope John was to announce that the Ecumenical Council would continue to convene until it had achieved its purpose of "aggiornamento." It is the Council, its decisions and the direction Pope Paul has given it that form an important part of "The Pope and the Vatican."

The European production unit spent six weeks on location in northern Italy, tracing the early life of Pope Paul; and in the Vatican, recording the flavor and substance of the everyday working of the Church's governing hierarchy.

While at the Vatican, Vicas and his crew were granted an audience with Pope Paul and also filmed many of the everyday activities and ceremonies that continually occupy him and the Roman Curia, the administrative body of the Church.

But these ordinary activities merely serve to acquaint the non-Catholic with the Catholic Church, Vicas said. This may enable him to better understand the importance of such deep-rooted questions as decentralization of Papal authority; modernization of ceremonies; religious liberty; elimination of anti-Semitism; and reconsideration of birth control, in which the Church is now involved, he added.

Let the weak say, I am strong—(Joel 3:10)

There is never a time when we do not have available to us all the strength, all the power, all the help we need to cope with anything. God, in His infinite mercy provides all these things. All we need do is to seek His assistance

NEWS REPORT FROM THE UNIVERSITY

A new medical research facility has been established at the University of Virginia this year as the site for extensive studies in the field of heart and circulatory disease and particularly of a common type of high blood pressure.

The Virginia Heart Association has provided funds to assist with the new laboratories and is supporting the professorship in cardiovascular research to which Dr. J. Edwin Wood III, a former faculty member at Boston University School of Medicine and the Medical College of Georgia, was appointed last year. Support also comes from the University and from the National Institutes of Health.

The primary subject of research in the new laboratory will be the condition known as essential hypertension which is the most common type of high blood pressure and is passed by inheritance. Dr. Wood and his associates will focus their work on an apparent inherited metabolic defect which may produce abnormally elevated blood pressure.

Medical scientists for years have attempted to establish causes of this type of hypertension. Much of their work has been a search for an abnormal substance in the patient's system which would cause the constriction of blood vessels and consequent increased pressure.

Dr. Wood's work represents a different type of approach in which he seeks to determine if the constriction results from the body's inability to handle or metabolize a substance which is normally present in the body.

For this work, the new laboratory has been equipped with a twin-probe scintillation counter that is used in conjunction with radioisotopes to measure blood flow under various conditions in patients with high blood pressure and those without. This work is done in a specially controlled temperature room.

The data collected by this measuring device is so extensive that it will be put on tape and analyzed in the University's new computer center.

Another project underway in the Virginia Heart Research Laboratory under the direction of Dr. Julian Beckwith, professor of medicine, involves studies of heart sounds. This utilizes a special soundproofed room for detailed evaluation of heart murmurs in combination with measurement of the impulse or force of the heart beat.

The laboratories also are equipped for biochemical studies involving patients with high blood pressure and other types of heart disease and for blood pressure studies on rats whose circulatory responses can be similar to those in humans.

Members of this heart research team will work with members of the neurology staff on methods of diagnosis and treatment of strokes. They also plan studies of circulation in the extremities with particular reference to changes produced by arteriosclerosis (hardening and stiffening of the arteries).

Dr. Wood is the first incumbent of the chair of cardiovascular research established by the Virginia Heart Association and its member chapters. A similar chair also has been established at the Medical College of Virginia. Purpose of this support of faculty positions is to help enlarge heart research programs of the schools and to broaden training opportunities for physicians specializing in cardiovascular research.

New Book Out On Chesapeake Bay Area

The Chesapeake Bay region and its people come to life in the new book, "Chesapeake Duke," by the Talbot County author Gilbert Byron. Just off the press, it deals with a Chesapeake Bay retriever who, with his young master, explores the creek, the river and a great tide-water marsh of the Eastern Shore.

Critics reading the book claim it has the possibilities of an enduring the widespread success rivaling the other Chesapeake Bay area classic for young people, "Misty Of Chincoteague," by Margaret Henry, which tells of a wonderful Chincoteague pony. "Chesapeake Duke" gives details about the training of the young dog by his master, along with "a vivid picture of the leisurely life of a small river town of the Eastern Shore just before the outbreak of World War I." It is also described as "a moving, entertaining story of a friendship based on affection and trust, and the growth in understanding as boy and dog become more mature."

City's Industrial Outlook Better

VIRGINIA BEACH — The acquisition of property for the city's first industrial park and announcement of a proposed asphalt plant within the city has brightened Virginia Beach's industrial outlook.

Industrial Director Dean Curtis said Tuesday that the city had purchased 25 acres of land just west of London Bridge Creek for development as an industrial park.

The land will be cleared and platted into one to five acre sites before it is ready as sale property, he said.

It is bound on the south by the Norfolk and Southern Railroad and at the rear by the proposed Norfolk-Virginia Beach Toll Road.

These assets prompted Curtis to predict that the entire acreage will be sold "by the end of year."

The city purchased the property from A & W Realty Co. for $80,000, an appropriation approved by City Council in January for this purpose.

Curtis also announced that the Atlantic Construction Corp. has bought over five acres on Bonney Road, adjoining the proposed toll road, for construction of an asphalt plant.

Joseph F. Kakol, vice president of the firm, said that they hope to have the plant in operation by the first of April. Overall investment of the new industry is valued at about $275,000.

and will employ about 15 persons.

Purpose of the new plant is asphalt paving of roads and parking lots.

Railway access to the plant will be made available when Norfolk and Southern lays a side track to hold about 10 cars.

Council took plans for the sidetrack, which must cross Bonney Road, under advisement at its last meeting and is expected to approve the plans at next Monday's meetings.

Floyd M. Rowe is president of the new firm which has offices at Princess Anne Plaza.

VIRGINIA BUSINESS UP FOR FIRST MONTH

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Business in Virginia for the first month of 1965 continued the favorable trend experienced in 1964. With all indicators up, 1965 has started well according to the Virginia Business Index Report published by the College of William and Mary.

Retail Sales for January 1965 were up 7.5 per cent over January 1964. The bad weather experienced by most areas of the Old Dominion during the month seemed to have had mixed effects on Retail Sales. Some merchants experienced a decline as customers were kept at home by the weather. Others were able to reduce their inventory of winter wear. The 7.5 per cent gain for the month of January 1965 over the month of January 1964 compares favorably with the 7 per cent gain for the nation for the same period as reported by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

New Car Registrations in the state posted a 5.2 per cent gain over January 1964 and were up 46.3 per cent from the base year, 1960-1962. The record production in the auto industry would seem to be matched by continuing impressive gains in new car registrations in the state.

Building Permits, off 8.9 per cent for December 1964 in comparison to December 1963 were up 26.8 per cent in January 1965 to January 1964 comparison. Building Permits continue to be the most volatile of the indicators.

Bank Debts were up 10.2 per cent from January 1964. No comparison to the base year is shown in this issue due to a change in the Federal Reserve's method of compilation.

Building Permits were up 26.8 per cent from January 1964. The base year comparison shows an increase of 90.9 per cent.

Electricity Consumed in January 1965 was 8 per cent greater than in the same month in 1964.

COUNCIL ASKED TO PUBLISH BUDGET PRIOR TO REFERENDUM VOTE

SCHOOL ISSUE SET MARCH 16

VIRGINIA BEACH — Dan H. Hefflin Jr., chairman of the newly organized Virginia Beach Republican City Committee, issued a statement this week asking that the city "take the wraps off" the school bond referendum and "let the tax-payers see the whole picture."

He suggested that the proposed city budget be made public before the bond referendum goes before the voters on March 16 and before the city gives further consideration to the proposed sales tax.

"The electorate needs to know how the sales tax would fit in with the bond issue; how the needs of the next several years will be served," Hefflin said in the statement.

Although the committee has offered its "reluctant" endorsement of the bond referendum based on the "scant information" now available, Hefflin said the group is unhappy with the "dietetic feeding of financial information from City Council."

"We feel that the complete story should be made available to the voters who will be asked to approve this bond issue," he said.

He urged City Council to publish the budget.

Hefflin said the committee is not happy with the "dietetic feeding of financial information from City Council."

lish facts upon which the proposed bond issue is based, "then let an informed electorate decide."

The $5-million referendum, if approved by the voters 12 days from now, will finance construction of two high schools, one elementary school and an addition to one existing school.

These funds will also supplement the $1.7-million federal grant the city is scheduled to receive as an impacted area which is being used to build three elementary schools for the 1965-66 term.

Virginia Beach has been the fastest growing locality in the state for the past few years, drawing about 15,000 new residents each year.

This has swelled the city's school enrollment at the rate of 3,500 students annually, necessitating the construction of at least 125 new classrooms each year.

"When one is reminded that the annual increase of pupils is equal to the total school population of the former Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach some 30 years ago," said the statement, "it is not surprising that the school authorities have experienced in providing enough classrooms to meet the need on a current basis."

The school enrollment has doubled during the past few years, jumping the Virginia Beach school system to fourth in size in the state. The city's annual increase is higher than the combined increase of all other Hampton Roads cities.

By this fall school officials expect at least 1,400 new high school students and predict that this figure will reach 3,000 by 1966. The projected occupancy date for the two proposed secondary schools is September of next year.

During the past five years the School Board has spent over $15-million for new school buildings. Local funds from two bond issues supplied $10-million of this amount and federally impacted funds provided the remaining $5-million.

Interstate Will Save Many Lives

VIRGINIA BEACH — A state road authority told the Ruritan Club Tuesday night that the 41,000 Interstate Highway System, when completed, is expected to save 8,000 lives annually and that if all roads were brought up to minimum standards they would save 20,000 lives a year.

Frank A. Howard, engineer-director for the Virginia Road Builders Association, made the "The Impact of Interstate on Industry." He was introduced to the club by Del. William P. Kellam.

Financially speaking, the expanded highway program, since its inception in 1956, has saved highway users about $6-million by cutting down on accidents, fuel, wear and maintenance of cars, and other such benefits, he said.

"A new modern highway facility anywhere creates new property values, generates new industry and commerce, provides greater wealth for the area, and results in increased tax returns to the government which, discounting the highway user taxes, will eventually reimburse the taxpayer for the facility," Howard told the Ruritans.

Good highways promote industry by making it possible for large plants to move into suburban and rural areas and that an Interstate is "a terrific boon to business," he said.

He added that traffic problems are solved by the people, not at City Hall, who know the need and value of good highways and are willing to invest in them.

Most guides for budget-wise food buyman's start with these three rules — planning your menus, making a list, and keeping it flexible. These are good rules but there are some other considerations, too.

Choosing your store is important. In almost all cases, a store pre-chosen food items for you. To stay within a fairly narrow price and quality range, according to what it's trade wants.

Most stores today try to create an "image" in our minds. It may be a low price image, a quality image, a convenience image, or a service image. So, look at stores and decide which one suits you best.

It's also interesting to note that stores tend to emphasize different departments. One may spend extra time on and push his meat department. Another may have an exceptional produce department. Still another may tend to emphasize dry groceries. This, in turn, may be a good reason for "store-hopping" or looking at departments as well as stores.

If rules for food shopping are followed, they will help balance that food budget. Yet, an even more basic rule is to choose your store carefully. Ask yourself, "Does it carry the quality and items I want? Are the prices favorable to me? What departments does it emphasize? Which store (or stores) is best for me?" This, too, is budget-wise food buyman's. Let's go to the store! Few items are used more often and probably more incorrectly than "best buy." Often it seems that everyone wants to get into the "best buy" act. As a result, you hear that this is your "best buy"; that is your "best buy," or one of a dozen other things is your "best buy." It seems the list of "best buys" are as confusing as having no information at all.

There are several things which make it almost impossible to define a "best buy" for another person. One is that we cannot know all the things which are important to someone else when they buy something. A few things usually considered are price, material, fashion, plans for wearing, time before you can buy another, color, and fit.

Secondly, it's almost impossible to tell the relative importance of all these things for someone else. To me one price may be very important; to others, fashion may outweigh almost everything else; someone else may want something that can be worn on any occasion. Each of us has a different set of values as we go to shop. And it is a set of values rather than just one value. It combines fashion, price, material and so forth, into a set. Price is not a true indicator of cost. For example, part of the price may be for fashion or style rather than for wearing quality. The cost-per-wearing may well be less for a lower priced suit.

So, no one else can really define a "best buy" for you. Only you can do that. Others, however, can help you decide by furnishing you with the information you need.

That's the way I see it! Happy Weekend Everybody.

In The Good Old Days—

When it came to heating, Grandpa had no great problem. Just keep the old pot-belly stove roaring—no worries about steam pressure, or explosions! But, as a house warmer the old fashioned stove was a flop. Ten feet away from it you were in a deep freeze.

Modern heating plants keep the whole place snug and warm but they do sometimes explode and can cause extensive damage. Steam boiler insurance not only indemnifies in case of loss—but the inspection service that goes with it guards against such loss occurring.

Let us tell you more about this protection.

FT. STORY WIVES "GRAY LADIES"

FORT STORY — Several wives of service men stationed at Ft. Story recently graduated from the Volunteer Service of the American Red Cross course and were capped "Gray Ladies" by Mrs. June Boykin, chief nurse at the Ft. Story Dispensary.

The graduates included: Mrs. Evelyn Bishop, Mrs. Shay Booth, Mrs. Carmen Geshwandtner, Mrs. La Verne Munson, Mrs. Christiana Sapp and Mrs. Dorothy Smith.

Principal speaker at the exercise was Colonel Jerome K. Hostetter, Fort Story's post commander, whose wife presented the ladies with certificates of membership in the organization. First Lieutenant John C. Bailey, the post's Protestant Chaplain, delivered the invocation and benediction.

Mrs. Robert W. Gentleman, Chairman of Volunteers and wife of Lieutenant Colonel Robert W. Gentleman, commanding officer of the 10th Transportation Battalion presided at the meeting.

Gray Lady service had its beginning in 1918 when a group of volunteers began serving patients at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C. At first they worked only as hostesses and in recreation activities, but when the sick and wounded returned from the battlefields of Europe, the volunteers began to give more personal service to the patients in the wards. When the gray dress was adopted as the official uniform, the women became affectionately known as the "Gray Ladies."

This is the first time a Gray

Lady capping has been held at Ft. Story. The local volunteers will give most of their service at the post Dispensary and Dental Clinic.

The Virginia Beach representatives on the metropolitan board of directors are Mrs. Crutchfield, Mrs. Lott, and Mrs. Tarrall.

expected to be composed of Beach residents other than members of the committee on administration. It is our sincere hope to interest a greater group of people in more phases of Y work in the forthcoming year. Therefore, if one of you is asked to serve with us, please recognize our need for you and agree to help. The aims and plans for the YWCA are truly worthwhile and can be a great contribution to both individuals and the community. It must be remembered, though, that any organization is only as effective as its members and so we are counting on you!

Currently, Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Simpson are busy formulating plans for the next series in the adult program; the spring session of swimming lessons is about to get under way, and the Y-TEENS are working furiously on arrangements for their annual ball. As soon as dates, places, etc. are firm you'll be hearing more concerning these. Come join us in our fun and growth!

We Hope GOP Stand Won't Muddy Water

The Virginia Beach Republican City Committee's public request that City Council publish the proposed city budget seems timely in some respects, untimely in others. To ask that council make the budget known before proceeding with plans for a sales tax is timely. If the citizens of Virginia Beach are going to have this tax they are entitled to a clear financial picture of their city government to better understand the merit of the tax. We would assume, of course, that City Council fully intends to publish the budget before taking final action on the tax. The proposal was just made at the Feb. 23 council meeting and even if the tax ordinance should be ready, by next Monday's meeting it would require a second reading at a later date.

The aspect of the request that seems untimely is in urging council to release the budget before the March 16 voting on the school bond referendum. There are only 12 days remaining before the voters go to the polls on this vital issue and any controversy that might arise could seriously affect the voting. It is important to the city, and to each individual taxpayer, that an overwhelming number of voters turn out in support of this referendum because the interest rate on the bond will be determined by this factor. If a large percentage of the registered voters endorse the issue, it will lower the interest rate and save many tax dollars.

But there is far more at stake than the saving of interest. Without this $5 million dollar bond issue, the School Board cannot construct the three new schools and one addition it feels will keep the city abreast, even temporarily, of its mushrooming school enrollment. When schools open in 1966 the city must have two new high schools to accommodate a predicted 3,000 additional students. School officials have already said that by this September the secondary schools will be filled to overflowing with an increased enrollment. Three new elementary schools, being constructed with federal funds, are scheduled to open this fall and will relieve crowded conditions in the lower grades for the present time. But little relief can be anticipated at the high school level unless voters support the forthcoming bond issue.

Faced with these facts and figures released by the School Board on the necessity of these funds, we cannot believe that any voter within the city could justifiably vote against the referendum. Parents are well aware of the problems confronting the School Board and, though they may complain about various aspects of our education system that are obviously lacking, they can see the necessity of more schools and will surely support the referendum.

But what about the voters who have no children in public schools? Could their decision be swayed by controversial undertones in the Republican Committee's statement? We would hope not but we must look at it realistically. There could be some within our city who might consider the bond referendum another drain on their pocketbook rather than a necessity in the education of our children. They might possibly vote against the issue. There could be some who might consider the referendum a political football rather than an investment in the future. They, too, might possibly vote against it. If there are such voters who presently think this way, the slightest hint that the city or the School Board is trying to keep the issue under "wraps" so that the taxpayers can't see the "whole picture," could well persuade them that a "no" vote would indicate their political stance.

We believe that every American has the right to think and believe according to his own convictions and to express himself accordingly. The Republican Committee has this right and we do not condemn their demands, only their timing. We strongly feel that only an uninformed citizen would vote against the school bond issue. If there are those who question it, we urge you to look at the facts and figures released by the School Board. School officials have worked well beyond their required responsibilities in attempting to educate the public on why the city must have more schools. They have made every possible effort to inform the voters on the needs of the school system. To those who read and listen to these statistics, there can be no decision; to those who have not read and listened, we sincerely hope the Republican Committee has not muddied the waters and blurred your view.

THE KEEP HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY

Historic briefs about the area now known as Virginia Beach.

A member of the General Assembly from Lower Norfolk County (presently Virginia Beach), recognizing the need for expansion, was the agent who purchased from the Indians the Eastern part of North Carolina "the extent of three rivers". He was Francis Yearley, son of Governor Sir George Yearley, who was born, circa 1621, at Jamestown, Va. Educated in England he returned to Virginia's Eastern Shore to receive his share of his father's estate, then came to live at Lynnhaven upon the plantation of his wife, the former Sarah Offley (which plantation she had gotten from her first husband, Adam Thoroughgood). On May 8, 1954, he wrote to John Ferrar, his father's friend and a member of the Virginia Company who resided in England, saying he had purchased the eastern part of Carolina from the Indian Chief "by a treaty and the payment of 200 pounds."

VIEW of VIRGINIA BEACH

By DORIS PADRICK

Volunteer service is a way of life for Mrs. Annie S. Bunting of the American Red Cross. And after 20 years of varied duties and an injured knee which necessitated some changes, she is now on her 21st year with no thought of curtailing her efforts in any capacity where she can be of use.

Beginning with the making of cancer dressings, she soon branched into the teaching of First Aid. That wasn't enough so she learned about the care and treatment of polio victims and was in the first graduating class of polio emergency volunteers to graduate from Maryview Hospital.

All this was being accomplished while she was a full-time employee of Colonial Stores, Inc. An unfortunate accident in the store occurred when an orange crate fell on her leg causing serious injury to the right knee cap. After three operations, she still must wear a brace to keep herself going. But she feels no bitterness. "Lots of people are so much worse off than me," she declares. "And I feel fortunate that I am still able to serve others."

Not being able to stand for any length of time or to bend or stoop, Annie Bunting sits and works as the office assistant and makes arrangements with the other volunteers to carry on the more active labors. She keeps the telephone wires hot.

Having worked in all phases of volunteer service she knows what must be done, and after so many years, she is known and loved by all the volunteers she calls on for help.

Working for her church is another part of her busy contribution to humanity. She is a member of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church which has its dedication service last Sunday. "We are so proud of our new church," she said. Everyone worked so hard and have accomplished so much. She didn't mention what part she played in bringing this mammoth task to accomplishment, but it is evident by the sparkle in her eyes that working for anything she believes in is payment in itself... and the best kind.

She is the wife of Thomas Bunting and they live at 1375 North Oceana Boulevard. They have one child, five grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren. They are all near-by and a close-knit family. "We are just one big happy family," she says... and you get the feeling she is not talking just about her own relatives. She feels close and contributes to the happiness and needs of the entire community.

THEREFORE, I, Frank A. Dusch, Mayor of the City of Virginia Beach, do hereby proclaim that period of March 1 through March 7 as "Weights and Measures Week" in our city; and do hereby urge our citizenry to take cognizance of and recognize the very valuable contribution to the economic welfare of the communities of this nation being made by the Departments of Weights and Measures in their respective cities.

VIRGINIA BEACH SUN-NEWS

"SERVING THE WORLD'S LARGEST RESORT CITY"

VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA, THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1965

SECTION B

NEWS REPORT FROM THE UNIVERSITY

ENGINEERING REVOLUTION

Beginning at about the time of the Industrial Revolution, engineering began changing from a strictly empirical art to a learned profession based on sound engineering principles.

In more recent years it has developed at a phenomenal rate, and this rapid development of the field has brought profound changes, both in the practice of engineering and in the education necessary to prepare one to practice the profession.

Engineering is a dynamic profession which continually applies new knowledge as it is discovered to the development of new and better products.

Concepts which were followed only a few years ago are sometimes no longer valid.

For this reason, the engineering curriculum must be constantly under review and be continually changed to incorporate new scientific principles and new concepts of engineering practice, says Dr. Lawrence R. Quarles, dean of the School of Engineering and Applied Science at the University of Virginia.

The rapid development of science and technology means that the engineering graduate of today must be prepared to face with confidence the problems which were unknown at the time of his academic study.

Thus, rather than provide an engineering curriculum which is heavy in technology, which may be obsolete by the time the student graduates, today's engineering school must offer a curriculum to give the engineer a firm foundation in mathematics and science on which he can develop a new technology of the future to meet new problems, says Dean Quarles.

The University's several engineering curricula are continually under review so new scientific knowledge and engineering concepts may be introduced as they are discovered.

"At intervals the curriculum as a whole is reviewed," says Dean Quarles.

"A few years ago, such a review and major revision resulted in more emphasis on mathematics, science, the humanities and social sciences, and the elimination of many of the descriptive type of technology courses."

There is increased emphasis on graduate programs and research programs.

"The faculty member teaching undergraduate courses needs a stimulus of close association with the newest developments in his field to keep his undergraduate instruction alive and up-to-date," says Dean Quarles.

He adds that research by the faculty is necessary also to fulfill an essential responsibility of a university, to extend the frontiers of knowledge.

The opportunity for this faculty activity is provided through the research division of the school, the Research Laboratories for the Engineering Sciences (RLES). It is the administrative division for all sponsored research.

About $1,700,000 a year is spent in this research effort. The work of the research laboratories is an integral part of the educational program of the school.

"Research projects are not undertaken unless they will contribute to this effort," says Dean Quarles.

Observe National Poison Prevention Week

Even the President sees fit to speak of National Poison Prevention Week. The purpose of which is to make you aware of the potential dangers to your heir. Since toddlers are curious and fast as a wink, Never store poisons under the sink. That polish, scour, clean or bleach. They're sure to be tasted if left within reach. The prudent way to do your cleaning. "I'll children learn 'don't touch' meaning 'is with baking soda, a safe pure food for which you'll find a multitude of cleaning uses around the house. Which protect besides baby, you and your spouse. For when cleaning with soda where food's involved, The problem of harmful residues is solved. So observe the rules of poison prevention. And you won't be under constant tension. Fearing what's clutched in baby's hand. May be possibly poisonous contraband. (March 14-20)

Spence Tells About Thailand

IFYE TURNS TO THAI TUNES, by Hunter Spence

Most people of today are familiar with the statement, "Music is a universal language", but I had to travel half the way around the world to find it true. As an International Farm Youth Exchange delegate to Thailand, I found the Thai language difficult, but after spending a short while with Thai music I was able to make myself at home.

Music is of great importance in Thai life. Dancing and singing accompany almost every social event. The young Thai learns to do his native dances shortly after learning to walk and both young and old enjoy clapping and singing Thai tunes.

One will appreciate Thai music more fully if he will realize that Thai music has been handed down from one generation to another by memorization. Written notation has only been applied within the last fifty years. In spite of this, many Thai songs, both classic and old, are said to be four or five hundred years old.

Another important factor that the westerner should consider when listening to Thai music is that the Thai scale is different from the musical scale used in music of the West. The Thai scale is of the same number of notes but unlike the western scale, the notes are spaced at equal intervals and the half tone is not used. This may sound a little technical, but I found that when I played western tunes on a Thai instrument, the results sounded rather strange.

Though the Western musician might get involved with such technicalities, it doesn't seem to bother the Thai at all. He learns to play his native musical instruments and sing his songs with apparently little effort. The amazing thing is after being in Thailand for five months and though I haven't seen a piece of written music, I am learning to play and sing also. But unlike the Thai, I have had to exert considerable effort. But the effort has been rewarding.

My experiences have been varied and fascinating. A farmer in the northeast taught me to play the can, a multi-reed instrument native of that area. What made this such a strange experience was that he did not know a word of English and I could not speak the northeast dialect. Yet, with his patience, my desire to learn and lessons for about three evenings around a single oil flame, I began to figure out one or two melodies.

Even more enjoyable was upon learning to play a bamboo flute called the Klue. I was able to teach a village musician to play an American folk song. It sounded a little off key but that seemed to matter very little.

The Thai folk dance, the Ram-wong, is an art within itself. It is usually loved by all. When performed, even a betel nut chewing grand mother is as graceful as a ballerina. The dance is based on the old idea of the male pursues the female. She is quite coy and avoids him. But it also employs the idea that a man chases a girl until she catches him for she will occasionally give him a glancing smile over her shoulder to reward his hopes. The dance may look simple but it requires coordination beyond words.

In Thailand music is always accompanied with jokes and laughter. Refreshments might consist of chunks of sugarcane, slices of pineapple, fresh bananas, papaya, or coconut milk. This laughter might last late into the night, but it is occasions such as I have described that cause an IFYE to forget that he is a foreigner and you become one of the crowd.

COX'S FIRST SENIOR CLASS PLANS PLAY

GREAT NECK — Frank W. Cox High School seniors will present the first senior class play by the first graduating class of the school on March 12 and 13. "The Curious Savage" a farcical comedy by John Patrick, author of Tea House of the August Moon, has a cast of eleven with Phyllis Peebles taking the lead as Mrs. Savage. Her sons, Tim and Samuel, are played by Don Mills and Donald Bellomy. Others in the cast are Mary Ann Anderson as Lillie Belle; Susan Squire, Florence; Bob Quisenberry, Hannibal; Dot Snyder, Fairy May; Jeff Leland, Jeffery; Linda Rechenback, Mrs. Paddy; Linda Vaughan, Miss Willis; and Mike Rasmick as Dr. Emmitt.

Directed by J. E. Garrett and W. E. Boyle, the play will be presented at 8 p.m. each night in the school auditorium.

EXAMS MAR. 13

NORFOLK — An opportunity for Tidewater area residents to test their aptitudes for Peace Corps service will come at 8:30 a.m., Saturday, March 13, at the P.O. Bldg., York and Granby Streets, Room 3A, Norfolk.

The opportunity is the Peace Corps Placement Test. It is not passed or failed, but simply indicates where your greatest potential lies. The Peace Corps Questionnaire, which must be filled out and brought to the exam unless previously submitted, tells what an applicant has done in the past. But the placement test is aimed at showing what he or she can do in the future. Applicants do not have to register for the test ahead of time.

The Peace Corps Questionnaire can be obtained at all Post Offices. On college campuses, they are available at college placement centers or the offices of Peace Corps, Washington, who are members of the faculty or college administration. If you can't find a Questionnaire, write the Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20525.

There are two parts to the Peace Corps Placement Test: a general aptitude test and a modern language aptitude test (for which knowledge of a foreign language is not necessary). Applicants should plan on about one and a half hours at the testing center, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

THE WORLD

ALL PEOPLE THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a fellowship of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake; (2) For his children's sake; (3) For the sake of the community and nation; (4) For the sake of the world.

Strongly alive! Not really! We're getting used to seeing pictures of our own earth. We're getting used to the concept of a universe instead of a world. We can believe that the moon's soon to become a landing place.

Does this familiarity with space — does our thrust into the physical unknown — make the basic facts of life and death any simpler to us? Certainly not! Man is in a peculiar position, today. The more he explores, the more vast he finds what lies ahead of him. The more he learns, the more he discovers how infinitely much there is to know.

More than ever before, man realizes how great the hand of God has been in fashioning this world, this universe, we live in. That's why people everywhere — including scientists, astronauts, space pioneers — are men of religious conviction. Go to church this Sunday, and see for yourself.

The Mixing Bowl

It's Fun To Cook

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

Many a person whose memories take him back to the first decade or two of this century, has a nostalgic recollection of the fine, wine-y fragrance of the apple pie in the coolest part of the cellar or in the unheated "spare room."

If our noses weren't so much better than our taste buds at recalling past pleasures, this person might also remember that the apple redolence was more exciting than the taste — that these apples wilted a bit and lost their crisp texture.

Not so today's apples stashed away for future enjoyment. Stored in controlled atmosphere cold chambers or efficient ordinary cold storage, our winter apple supply reaches us in prime condition. In fact, keeping apples in controlled atmosphere has made it possible to munch a good, crisp apple any day in the year.

In spite of the general drought last summer and fall, the apple crop was bigger than usual. By November 1st, 65.1 million bushels of apples — about 2.7 billion pounds — were tucked away for safe-keeping. About two-thirds of these apples will reach the market in fresh form. Almost one-fifth of all apples stored, well over 12 million bushels, were being held in controlled atmosphere.

Controlled atmosphere storage is based on a simple principle. An apple, even after it has been removed from its parent tree, is still alive and continues a process similar to breathing. A plentiful supply of oxygen speeds up its metabolism so that the apple begins deteriorating. Carbon dioxide, the same thing which bubbles in fizzy drinks, slows down these processes. In short, it "puts the apple to sleep," just as people need sleep in a controlled atmosphere to keep them cool. The modern apple trees in controlled atmosphere storage are Melrose, Delicious, Jonathan, Rome, Newtona and Golden Delicious.

Now that modern science has given us this beautiful abundance of apples throughout the winter, do try some of these apple recipes from the United Fruit and Vegetable Association.

FRIENDS MEETING
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 cup teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup 5 tablespoons cold water
Double-crust 8, 9 or 10-inch pie

Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening (preferably with pastry blender) till pieces are size of small peas.

SLOWLY sprinkle water from teaspoon over part of mixture, tossing with fork all the while. As some flour is dampened, push to side of bowl. Repeat till flour is just moistened. Then form in ball. For two-crust pie, divide mixture in half and form each half in ball.

On lightly floured surface flatten ball slightly then-roll 1/4 inch thick. Fit pastry loosely in pie plate. For single-crust, trim 1/2 to 1 inch beyond edges; fold under and flute.

For double-crust pie, trim lower crust even with rim of pie plate and moisten edge. Slash top crust to let steam escape and trim about 1/2 inch beyond edge. Then tuck top crust under lower crust and crimp. Bake according to pie recipe.

If single-crust is to be baked before it gets the filling, prick bottom and sides with fork or pastry will blister.

Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes or just till nicely golden.

If filling and crust go in the pastry. Bake according to pie recipe.

GRAHAM-CRACKER CRUST
1 1/4 cups (about 18 crackers) fine graham cracker crumbs
2/3 cup 4 tablespoons sugar
Dash salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted

Combine ingredients and press in 9-inch pie plate. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 8 minutes or till edges are just lightly browned. Cool.

You don't have to bake the crust — we just think it serves better when you do. But you can chill the unbaked crust about an hour before adding filling.

For crumbs, the packaged kind are easiest. Or you can put graham crackers in the blender a few seconds.

ART AUCTION AT MUSEUM MAY 22nd

NORFOLK — The Norfolk Museum of Arts and Sciences will hold a black-tie art auction May 22 at 8:30 p.m. to provide funds for a work of art for the museum's permanent collection.

The Norfolk Society of Arts, headed by Mrs. W. P. Chilton, will assist the museum in the project. Society committee members will seek art objects to be auctioned, solicit advertisements for a catalogue and prepare publicity releases.

It is expected that over 200 objects of art, each having a minimum appraised value of $50, will be drawn from individuals and firms not only in Tidewater but from all over the United States.

Objects accepted for the auction and donors' names will be displayed alongside each contribution.

Harry Hoffman will be appraiser and auctioneer for the sale.

A catalogue will describe each item to be auctioned and name the donor, unless specified otherwise. About one half of the items will be illustrated.

Among the great variety of quality items to be auctioned will be jewelry, fine glass, statuary, paintings, furniture, rugs, tapestries and fine ceramics. Persons wishing to donate such items may submit them to the museum between noon and 5 p.m. daily or contact the museum at MA 2-1885 if assistance is needed.

Advertisers for the catalogue are still being accepted, a spokesman said.

FRED WARING AT ARENA MARCH 17th

NORFOLK — Fred Waring of three generations will find in his 1965 show a new product of a unique formula that combines musicianship and showmanship. Waring will bring his retinue of seasoned performers and new discoveries to the stage of the Norfolk Arena on Wednesday, March 17, under the sponsorship of Khedive Shrine Temple. The show-concert is scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m.

While this year's Waring concert will be full of surprises, from musical content to personnel, costumes and choreography, it will reflect the know-how of 49 seasons "on the road." As usual, Waring will defy typing as the conductor of popular, jazz, classical or semi-classical music; his group will play the field in orchestral, choral and solo approaches and in combinations of all three. As usual, too, the orchestra will include a special choral section as well as the traditional sections of brass, woodwinds and strings. Among those featured in "The Magic of Music" will be deep-voiced Leonard Kravendok, comedian Poley McClintock, Cordovox virtuoso Betty Ann McCall, basso Ralph Isbell, and banjoist-humorist Bobby Day.

The coming show is reported to be kaleidoscopic in character, falling into patterns that vary from romantic, traditional, inspirational or merry. Colorful, melody-wise and action wise, it aims to recapture the magic of the music that has most affected American lives.

All seats for the performance are reserved and tickets and information may be secured at the Khedive Temple Mosque, Duke and Freemason Streets, J. B. Hubbard is general chairman of the event.

WAVY DONATES EQUIPMENT

NORFOLK — NEWPORT NEWS, VIRGINIA — WAVY-TV has presented television equipment amounting to upwards of $15,000 to the Christian Broadcasting Network, Inc., licensee of WYAH-TV in Portsmouth, Virginia.

The equipment included a TS-21 video switching system complete with all special effects components; equipment racks; image orthicon tubes, coaxial cable and other broadcast materials.

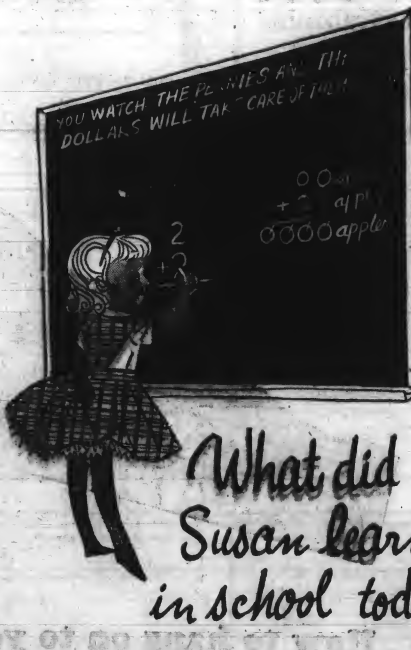

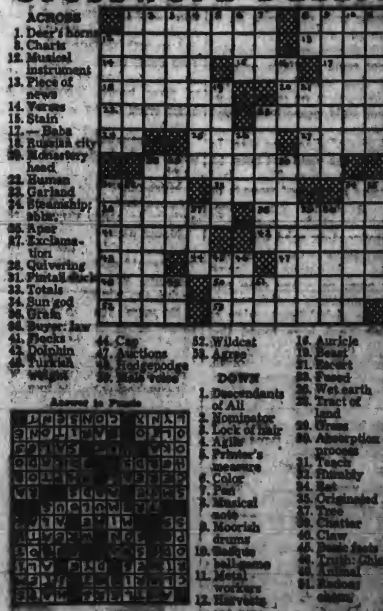

According to J. Glen Taylor, president and general manager of WAVY-TV, the video switcher that the religious station received became surplus equipment when a new switching system was recently installed at WAVY-TV. Instead of offering the equipment for sale the station donated it to WYAH-TV.

M. G. Robertson, president of the Christian Broadcasting Network, Inc., and general manager of WYAH-TV, stated "I am delighted to receive this most gracious donation of television equipment and I would like to express my thanks and appreciation to WAVY-TV for this public spirited contribution to religious and cultural television in the Tidewater area."

Notes from Your Agricultural Agent

What About Alfalfa?

Alfalfa has been called the "queen of forage crops" in Virginia. For years she has reigned supreme. But now there is one little subject — the alfalfa weevil — which is busy whitening Her Majesty down to size!

While small, this little anarchist has an appetite big as all outdoors! He wasn't much of a problem back when heptachlor-fertilizer mixtures could be used. The farmer could control him while applying plant nutrients.

But heptachlor has been outlawed because of a residue problem. Malathion and diazinon are recommended for control, used as sprays in the spring. When properly applied, they give good control.

It takes more effort to get good coverage, though, and many farmers are just not putting out the effort needed to do the job. Many of them are unhappy with results and are saying they must find something to replace alfalfa as their main forage crop.

It may be a little premature to talk of giving up alfalfa. However, for some growers, a switch may be called for.

It will cost about $100 per acre to produce alfalfa where $13.25 per acre is allotted for three sprayings to control the weevil. If production amounts to 4.75 tons per acre, then it is costing about $20.40 per ton to produce alfalfa. This figure approximately $2.54 per hundred pounds of total digestible nutrients as fed to the animal.

A farmer must be producing at least 3.5 tons per acre of alfalfa to make it profitable. Those with an average yield of only 2.5 tons may need to look for an alternative crop or improve their production practices.

However, the farmer who is making 3.5 tons per acre, who is getting good control of the weevil with recommended treatments, and who has the soils on which to grow the crop properly, should probably stay in alfalfa production.

After all this is said, it still leaves some farmers looking for a substitute for alfalfa. Probably the first crop they should consider is corn silage. It can produce more tons per acre than any crop and at the lowest cost per hundred pounds of any crop except pasture, and if properly handled produces a high quality forage.

Corn silage helps intensify your feed program, if your soil is suitable for high yield. Corn silage with winter cover crops may be grown continuously on certain first bottom soils, and on level lands not subject to erosion. Many soils and situations are not suitable for producing continuous corn, however. It is quite possible to produce 20 tons of silage per acre on many soils, and some soils can make 25 to 28 tons per acre.

While Sudan-sorghum hybrids will not replace alfalfa or corn silage, they should fit into the cropping system on many farms. On good soils, properly fertilized and produced, you may grow up to 17 tons of silage per acre. In most tests the yield has been 14 to 15 tons per acre. The cost of producing a hundred pounds of TDN is higher on Sudan-sorghum silage than on corn silage produced on good soil.

Many farmers ask about producing orchardgrass or some other grass as a hay crop, and using considerable nitrogen to boost the yield. Agronomists at Virginia Tech have found that with 100 pounds of nitrogen and adequate phosphate and potash, production averages two and one-half to three tons of hay per acre.

This hay will be more expensive than alfalfa with three spring sprayings to control the weevil. It will cost about $2.90 to $3 per hundred pounds of TDN, against about $2.50 for alfalfa, and $2.50 for the Sudan-sorghum crop.

Considerable work has been done with barley as a silage and it is quite satisfactory when cut at the soft dough stage. It often yields 10 or more tons per acre. Some farmers are using a new year cropping system of corn silage and barley silage and making up to 9,000 pounds of TDN per acre at a cost of $1.95 per hundred pounds as fed.

CARBON MONOXIDE DEAD MENACE

Carbon monoxide gas is an ever present menace. Whenever you warm up a car or tractor inside a building, you're running a risk of monoxide poisoning. Keep the doors open, or back the machine outside for the warmup.

Carbon monoxide gas gives no warning. You can neither see, smell, nor feel it, but it's lethal!! It first makes you drowsy, then unconscious, and will kill you if you don't get fresh air.

If you find another person unconscious, or nearly so, and suspect monoxide poisoning, move the person to fresh air immediately. Then start mouth to mouth resuscitation if the person has stopped breathing. Have someone call a doctor and an ambulance immediately.

Carbon monoxide poisoning can occur in many ways. One place is a parked running automobile, especially one with a defective exhaust system. The gas may be produced by stoves or furnaces stoked for the night, and too sharply damped. Always be sure the home has plenty of air circulation to prevent asphyxiation, day or night.

CONDENSATION DAMAGES POULTRY HOUSES

Condensation can eventually weaken and rot out a poultry house.

The best way to prevent such damage is by using vapor barriers on the warm side of building surfaces.

A vapor barrier is simply some material which retards the flow of water vapor through a surface. In a poultry house in the wintertime, the air is likely to have a higher relative humidity because water has been picked up from the droppings and respired from the birds. This more moist and warmer air tends to move to cooler surfaces. Water will form on the surface if it is cool enough.

Insulation slows down the movement of heat through the walls and ceiling and helps provide warmer surfaces in poultry houses. But, if a vapor barrier is not used, the warm moist air will move through the insulation. Water forms near the cold surface if the vapor is trapped in the insulation or water may form anyway if very little insulation is used. When the vapor condenses into water, the insulation loses its value and the building may be damaged.

The best vapor barriers are aluminum foil-backed materials, duplex, or laminated papers, certain asphalt impregnated and surface coated sheathing paper, and smooth surface roof roofing.

Two coats of aluminum paint is also a vapor barrier when applied to fiber board, plywood, and other types of building and wall surfaces.

Another possible vapor barrier could be two coats of asphalt paint.

Most other building materials do not retard vapor flow sufficiently to be called vapor barriers. Never place the vapor barrier on the cold side of the insulation. This would only serve to entrap moisture within the insulation during the winter.

Be sure also to keep attic spaces above insulation well ventilated. In case of leakage of moisture vapor occurred, it would probably move away without condensing on the insulation.

Cinnamon Nut Sticks

Cinnamon Nut Sticks are made to order for beginning yeast bakers. The simple refrigerator dough is an excellent introduction to the art of working with yeast. The finished products make tempting after-school snacks with milk and fruit.

Easy Yeast Dough Inspires Beginning Baker

Cinnamon toast ranks with peanut butter and jelly sandwiches as the younger set's favorite after-school snack. With this in mind, the makers of Fleischmann's Yeast have developed a special recipe for toasty cinnamon-flavored bread sticks which young bakers can prepare for themselves. Nuts are also added to the dough for that crunchiness children love.

all the ingredients your young-ster need to prepare the art of yeast baking. And the cinnamon-and-nut flavored bread sticks will be tempting after-school snacks with milk and fruit.

CINNAMON NUT STICKS
(Makes 2 1/2 dozen)
1/4 cup heavy cream
1/4 cup Fleischmann's Margarine
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup warm water
(105°-115°F.)
1 package or cake Fleischmann's Yeast, active dry or compressed
1 egg (separated)
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups unbleached flour
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup sugar
2 1/4 teaspoons cinnamon
8 tablespoons finely chopped walnuts or pecans

Scald cream, stir in Fleischmann's Margarine and salt; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in Fleischmann's Yeast until dissolved. Stir in egg yolk, lukewarm cream mixture, vanilla, flour and nutmeg. Mix well. Cover tightly; refrigerate 4 hours or overnight.

Combine sugar, cinnamon and chopped nuts. Sprinkle some of sugar mixture on board and spend time to do so through whole rolling process to prevent sticking. Roll out chilled dough into a rectangle, 20 x 8 inches.

Sprinkle lightly with sugar mixture. Fold short sides over to make 3 layers. Give dough quarter turn; repeat rolling, sprinkling, folding and turning two more times. Roll out to rectangle 20 x 8 inches. Brush with lightly beaten egg white; sprinkle with remaining sugar mixture. Cut into 1/2-inch strips; place 1 inch apart on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 15 minutes, or until browned. Remove with wide spatula to a wire rack. Serve warm.

Council Adopts Requests For Inlet Dredging

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council Monday adopted two documents, requested earlier by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, finalizing the city's commitments on the Lynnhaven Inlet dredging project which will be financed primarily by federal funds.

Council also authorized the Virginia Beach School Board to withdraw from the State Pupil Placement Board in Richmond.

The Lynnhaven Inlet dredging project, to be done by the Army Engineers, will open the inlet and the waters of Linkhorn and Broad Bays for commercial fishing and pleasure boating.

Council approved an ordinance authorizing the acquisition of property and oyster leases in Lynnhaven Borough to provide access to the developed facilities. Also in connection with the project, council adopted a resolution assuring the Army Engineers that the city will construct and complete the required marinas within 90 days after the completion of the dredging.

The dredging will provide an entrance channel from Chesapeake Bay through Lynnhaven Inlet, a mooring and turning basin in Lynnhaven Bay, a channel to extend from the mooring and turning basin to Broad Bay via Long Creek Canals and channel through the Narrows connecting Broad and Linkhorn Bays.

Council's authorization of the withdrawal from the State Pupil Placement Board in Richmond.

LOWENTHAL INITIATED

RICHMOND — On Monday, March 8, H. Joseph Lowenthal, Jr., new Managing Editor of the Virginia Beach Sun, became a member of Sigma Delta Chi, National Professional Journalists Society.

At that time eighteen other qualified candidates from the Richmond area and from the Shenandoah Valley were initiated into the Society.

The initiation ceremony, which explains the high ideals of professional journalists, took place prior to the dinner meeting at the Sheraton Monroe Motor Hotel.

After dinner, the 47 assembled members were privileged to hear an address by Federal Judge John D. Bettzner, Jr. who in noting several recent State and Federal Court decisions, spoke on one of the oldest and most respected of our freedoms — Freedom of Speech, but especially as it applies to the communications media. He also explained the legal and judicial aspects of pre-trial publicity.

Local Girls Selected

VIRGINIA BEACH — Two Virginia Beach High School students have been selected as semi-finalists in the Miss High School of Virginia Pageant and are now eligible to compete in the finals to be held at Hampton High School March 27.

They are Trudy Ann Williams, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred M. Williams, and Mary Jo Kellam, daughter of Del. and Mrs. William P. Kellam.

Both girls are 16 years of age and are in their junior year at the high school.

Miss Williams resides at 113 54th Street and was recently selected to represent her class in the state pageant.

Miss Kellam resides at 110 Raleigh Drive and was one of two Virginia Beach High School students recently named to the All-State Chorus.

The pageant will name two queens, one for talent, the other for beauty. The winners will receive trophies, various prizes and a free vacation for themselves and their mothers to the national finals in Asbury Park, N.J.

The Miss High School of America Pageant Judge's Committee screens all applications, photographs, biographies and selects the semi-finalists according to natural beauty, high school record, grades extra-curricular activities, participation in religious and community affairs, honors and awards won previously.

The contest is open to girls in the 9th through 12th grades in an accredited high school, who are of good moral character and have never been married.

Sun Staffers Win Five VPW Awards

VIRGINIA BEACH — Staff members of the Virginia Beach Sun took five state awards in the Virginia Press Women Association's annual writing contest, two of which were first place and will be entered in the national competition.

First place awards went to Mrs. Ruby Jean Phillips, news editor of the Sun, for a weekly publication edited by a woman and a special edition edited by a woman. The award was given on the souvenir edition on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel printed last April.

Mrs. Doris Padrick, society editor of the Sun, won a third place for her weekly column "View of Virginia Beach."

Mrs. Phillips also won second place in two other weekly categories: editorial writing and feature story.

Another Virginia Beach member of the Virginia Press Women, Mrs. Joy Hakin, took first place for a feature story in a daily newspaper and third place for a news story in a weekly.

The awards will be presented at the fall meeting of VPWA to be held in October in Charlottesville.

Judges for the contest were Miss Margaret Baughn, editor of The State in Columbia, S.C.; Robert Talbot, news editor and columnist for The State; and Miss Louise Lang, head of continuity for WIS Radio and WIS-TV, Columbia, S.C.

There were about 180 entries in the contest. All first place entries have been submitted for judging in the National Federation of Press Women contest. National winners will be announced in June.

Darden Has No 'Secret'

VIRGINIA BEACH — Lynnhaven Councilman James Darden didn't have a "secret" after all. He only wanted the $1000 out of the Lynnhaven Improvement Fund to aid a community with its drainage problem.

Darden had requested the money from City Council Monday. His request was approved but when asked what it was for he only replied "I'll tell you after it's done."

He said late Wednesday afternoon that the money would be used for drainage work in Eastern Park.

The residents have raised all but $1000 to have the work done and I thought we should help them. They had to have the money before the end of the week and couldn't wait if council should defer the appropriation until the next meeting," Darden explained.

The appropriation was included in the council minutes and its use was made clear, he said. Why the secrecy? "I wanted to see what would happen if I refused to answer," Darden laughed. "But council approved it, didn't they? They knew I wouldn't ask for it if it wasn't for a good cause."

PEMBROKE SQUARE - PROMISE OF BETTER THINGS TO COME

VIRGINIA BEACH — The biggest thing that has happened to the city of Virginia Beach in many years is underway.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the $15-million Pembroke Square Shopping Center took place this week at the 58-acre site on Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Gold plated, engraved shovels were used by officials to turn the first ceremonial earth, marking the beginning of the construction phase, which is expected to end in the spring of next year.

The two principal tenants in the center will be Sears, Roebuck & Co. and Miller & Rhoads. They will occupy about one-third of the floor space, and between 50 and 58 other tenants of all types will fill the rest. The Sears store will be larger than the Norfolk store, and the Miller & Rhoads facility will be the company's third largest, only surpassed by downtown stores in Richmond and Roanoke.

The unique construction of the center will be its main feature. All stores will open into an enclosed air-conditioned mall, to be used for displays, exhibits and the like. The mall construction is new in Tidewater, and relatively new to Virginia. Upon completion of Pembroke Center, it will be Tidewater's largest shopping center, and one of the largest in the South. The major shopping conveniences will be all stores under one roof.

At the groundbreaking ceremonies, Del. William P. Kellam and Mayor Frank A. Dusch congratulated the principals on the undertaking of the project. Both said the location at the intersection of the soon to be extended Independence Boulevard will become the crossroads of the fast-growing city of Virginia Beach.

A partial list of firm leases has also been released by the leasing agents. They include F. W. Woodworth, which has the largest store in Virginia; People's Fair; S & W Cafeteria; Lerner Shops; Butler Shoes; Seaboard Citizens National Bank; Kinney Shoes; and Thom McAn.

Other tenants to come — will be replaced by heavy construction equipment and by next year, the remarkable and unique Pembroke Square Shopping Center.

BEACH YOUTHS ARRESTED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three Virginia Beach youths have been arrested in connection with breaking into a 23rd Street Apartment and the unlawful use of the apartment owner's car.

Police have charged Larry Earl Gore, 19, of the Oceana Naval Air Station with burglary, grand larceny of an auto and two counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The other two, both 17 years of age, have been charged with grand larceny and one has an additional charge of statutory burglary.

Police said that Gore entered the apartment Saturday night and took a clock and radio. He returned with one of the juveniles later in the evening and took the owner's wallet and car keys.

The third youth was picked up by the other two and the three went "joy riding" in the burglary victim's late model car. They were taken into custody about 1:30 a.m. at a Bayside service station by Officer E. Adams. He turned them over to investigating officers Detectives G. F. Roberts and James A. Tye who placed charges against them.

Gore is scheduled to appear in Virginia Beach Municipal Court next Tuesday for a preliminary hearing.

Cavalier Hotel Offers Reward In Burglary

VIRGINIA BEACH — Gene Dixon, owner of the Cavalier Hotel, has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the $2,188 burglary of the hotel's apartment complex last week.

Police said that missing items included 10 portable television sets, 30 record albums, a tape recorder, stereo set and radio. Officer T. N. Jones responded to the call and Detective Harry Seager is investigating.

The 'Y' of It

There was a young woman

Who lived in a shoe

She had 292 teenagers—

Now what would you do?

What I do is have a wonderful time with all of them. One of our best programs, which we've all been anticipating, is this week-end's State Y-Teen Conference. On Friday afternoon we leave for Roslyn Conference Center in Richmond, where we'll spend three days sharing, planning, and having fun with girls from all over the state.

Virginia Beach has a very special delegation. They all have their feet on the ground and their eyes on the stars, and that is an unbeatable combination! They are: Patty Cox—Frank W. Cox High; Sigma Chi Sigma; Yvonne Hoarty—Virginia Beach Jr. High Y-Teens; Anne Jones and Nanette Kutz—Virginia Beach Sr. High Y-Teens; and Mary Smith—Princess Anne High. I am their dignified chaperone!

"The Conference theme is 'Match us to These Times.' We'll be challenged to understand ourselves and our relationship to a complicated world. We couldn't have a better delegation.

As I See It

by Betty Deal

Home Demonstration Agent

Spring is bound to come though it has looked doubtful lately. Before shopping for clothes, check your wardrobe to decide:

1. What can be used as is
2. What is useable if repaired
3. What can not be made useable or is too much trouble or costs too much to repair.

Discard items in the third group and repair items in second group. Make a plan of colors, types (sport or dress), number to go with accessories you own and accessories you'll need to purchase. You may decide the budget can't afford more accessories. This allows you to revise your shopping plan before you buy it or make it and then realize you have nothing to wear with it.

While speaking of "wearing it with", do you know about wide and wear shoes? They're made of "corfam". They may be shiny, napped or smooth. Sometimes I hear a shoe may include a variety of textures and colors.

This shoe material is comfortable because of interconnected microscopic pores inherent in the chemical structure. It is light weight and has good flex life.

This spring heels are lower and toes rounder for daytime shoes. A new open look for late day and evening is "the" look. If you are large or have skinny feet these may not be comfortable. Better to not have the latest than have hurting feet — This would apply to beach sandals too!

What a joy that shoes made of this material are just wiped clean.

Sewing Stretch Fabrics?

Here are a few tips.

● This means about 1/2 inch where there is 2 inches in addition to bust measure (ease).

We have a bulletin on Sewing To-days Fabrics which you may have by writing or calling the office — P. O. Box 6068, Va. Beach, Va. 23456 — Phone 426-6111 Ext. 6

Selection of Pattern

Patterns for stretch fabrics are not currently available. Most regular patterns can be adapted. Preferable designs are those with slim, simple styling.

Adjusting the Pattern

Stretch garments can be cut to fit the figure more closely, which means normal allowance for ease can usually be reduced by about 3 per cent in the curve of a straight skirt, across the shoulders and bust.

To insure perfect fit, it is well to baste seams and check garment on figure before final stitching.

Setting

Spread fabric on smooth surface and avoid stretching. Use fine pins and avoid wax-type marking materials as they tend to stain when pressed.

Lining

Woven stretch linings are available, and tricot may be suitable in many cases. Rigid fabrics may be used in jackets of a pleat (about one and a quarter inches) is used in the back and about one inch extra allowance added in the sleeves.

Seams

A satisfactory stretch garment will have seams strong enough to withstand wear and stretch or extend with the fabric. "Taslan" nylon thread is especially suitable because of its high extensibility and strength.

Sewing

For best seam appearance, use 12 stitches per inch in seams in the non-stretch direction. Stitches should be increased to 14 to 16 per inch in seams in the stretch direction. Use a small needle, size 12 or equivalent, and adjust the tension as low as possible consistent with good seam appearance. Test stitching on a sample of fabric by sewing on the bias and on the straight of the fabric in both directions. Pull seams, and if thread breaks, increase the number of stitches or loosen the tension. Continue testing until stitching does not break when pulled. Feed the fabric evenly through the machine. Avoid undue pulling or pushing as you sew.

Seam finishes are the same as for regular fabrics. For hems, turn the edge and stitch the same as for seams. Then blind stitch by hand using four to six stitches per inch, with a loose stitch. Pressing seam edge before stitching will give a better appearance.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

We Take A Bow

It is a comforting thing, for a new Managing Editor, when he walks into a new job, with new surroundings, with new problems, with new ideas and dreams, to find that he has a superior staff. At first meeting with everyone on the staff of the Virginia Beach Sun, we were not only impressed by the loyalty but also the dedication of purpose—and the highest of journalistic ideals. The latter has been brought home this week in a much more graphic manner than we could ever express.

The winners of the annual writing contest sponsored by the Virginia Press Women have been announced by Mrs. Robert W. Jeffrey, contest chairman, and the women of the Virginia Beach Sun have walked away with top honors in virtually every category in which a weekly newspaper could be considered.

For the best publication regularly edited by a woman and for the best special edition edited by a woman, our own Ruby Jean Phillips won first place. In Editorial writing and Feature writing, Mrs. Phillips took second place. And for the best column written by a woman, Mrs. Doris Padrick captured third place. The city of Virginia Beach can rightfully be proud of these two journalists—just as proud as we are.

These awards are not to be taken lightly. This was a statewide contest, judged by distinguished members of the journalistic profession. Certificates will be awarded to first place winners at the fall meeting of the Press Women in Charlottesville. First place entries will then be submitted for competition in the National Federation of Press Women contest. Therefore, two entries by Ruby Jean Phillips are in line to receive national recognition. . . the same recognition we are aware she richly deserves.

We can only wish our sincerest congratulations to Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Padrick for a job well done, but with the promise of continued journalistic excellence. We are humbly honored that these two belong to Virginia Beach and to the Virginia Beach Sun.

Open Letter To Mr. Heflin

Dear Mr. Heflin:

Thank you for your letter, which appears elsewhere on this page, and for your clear explanation of your group's "reluctant endorsement" of the proposed school bond referendum. You have made some very good points in your letter but we still contend that time is too short for officials to accomplish what you task. It is not unreasonable for interested citizens to seek more information on long range plans for the school system. Perhaps if this were done Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Cox would have some support the next time he approached City Council for a bond referendum. We have seen him repeatedly request funds for a long range program only to have his requests cut in half to meet immediate needs. But we have never seen an interested citizen or group of citizens stand behind him at these meetings or in any way publicly encourage the School Board to launch a master plan for future growth. We still feel, too, that school officials have made every effort to inform the public on the March 16 issue. They have said our school enrollment will increase annually by 3,000 to 4,000 students and will each year require 125 additional classrooms. Are these not "meaningful statistics," Mr. Heflin?

Federal funds will meet the immediate demands this fall. The bond referendum money will meet the demands in 1966. But what about 1967 and after? The city's piece-meal construction of schools, which only temporarily relieves overcrowding, is certainly not the way to develop a growing system. No one knows this better than the School Board and the school administrators who must squeeze every tax dollar in order to educate our children. They surely would welcome a long range plan whereby they would not have to wonder where next year's classrooms were coming from. Perhaps the next bond issue—and it can't be too far distant—will solve this problem if enough taxpayers show your interest.

If we "implied" last week that the Virginia Beach GOP opposed the referendum, it was only because your original release indicated a certain controversial undertone that caused us concern in that it might be detrimental to the voter turn-out. What we actually took exception to was your timing. We are a Democratic-oriented newspaper, as you said, but our political affiliation in no way affected our comments because we believe the school bond issue should be kept free of all political implications. We urge your group to give the March 16 referendum your "enthusiastic endorsement"—then offer your support and encouragement to the School Board for a future long range master plan.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Last Thursday's edition of the Danvers-oriented Virginia Beach weekly newspaper editorially implied that the Virginia Beach GOP was opposed to the proposed school bond issue. This is just so. Just last week we asked our "reluctant endorsement" of the issue. Why recent? Certainly not because we fell to see the great need for more and better schools; more because we do see the immediate need and can force an even greater need in the future. Our reluctance is based on the lack of citizens that this means of solving the problem is the best way. Our reluctance can be dispelled by a simple statement of the long range plan of the school system. We voters need to know what the needs of tomorrow and next year will be. Surely we cannot continue to solve old problem here and one problem there. Surely there is adequate time between now and March 16 to explain the program to the voters and thus insure that an informed people will decide. The above mentioned editorial further stated, "They have made every possible effort to inform the voters on the needs of the school system." We do not agree with this at all. We have seen no budgetary analyses, no meaningful statistics, nor anything resembling a long range planning. We do not seek a defeat for the bond issue; we do however seek sounder reasons for supporting it. With such information available, we can change our reluctant endorsement to enthusiastic endorsement.

THE KEEP HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY

Historic briefs about the area now known as Virginia Beach.

Contrary to general opinion, life and religion were inseparable in the minds of the majority of the early Virginia colonists. Even money conscious members of the Virginia Company in London did not overlook the spiritual. Witness this phrase in their "Purposes and Ends of the Plantation begun in Virginia" published in 1609: "to preach and baptize into Christian Religion . . . poor and miserable souls" (the Indians) thereby "adding our myte to the Treasury of Heaven." Francis Yeardeley, of Lynnhaven, son of an early Virginia governor, was brought up to be well acquainted with the "Purposes" by his Puritan-inclined mother. In 1954 he wrote to a member of the Virginia Company in London, John Ferrar, that he had brought to England the leading Indian Chief of the land south of Lower Norfolk County, also his squaw and their son. Tradition has it that he brought the son to visit in his home at Lynnhaven, the house which had been built by Adam Thoroughgood for his wife, at that time Yeardeley's wife.

Handicapped Scout Troop To Receive Charter Mon.

HILLTOP — The first Handicapped Boy Scout Troop in the Tidewater area will be officially chartered next Monday night at the First Colonial Baptist Church starting at 8 p.m.

The troop, under the sponsorship of the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been meeting at the church the first Monday since January.

Although Cub Scouting for the handicapped has been in operation in this area for some time, this is the first Boy Scout Troop for the handicapped organized in Tidewater.

Troop 441 will become official when Neighborhood Commissioner Anthony R. Festino presents the charter and installs a number of Jaycees to various posts.

Taking office will be Wiley C. Harrell Jr., troop committee chairman; Boumy Strawband, troop treasurer; William E. Porter and R. Tyrone Evans, troop committeemen; Howard (Buddy) Jordan, institutional representative; Richard L. Bragg, scoutmaster; and Frederick Winfree and Gerald V. Presson, assistant scoutmasters.

Scoutmaster Bragg has been confined to a wheelchair for the past nine years as the result of an automobile accident.

The scouts' handicaps range from the use of hearing aids to the use of crutches. They have two months to earn their Tenderfoot pins, which will be presented during Investiture Ceremonies immediately following installation of officers.

Parents are urged to attend and special invitations have been issued the Rev. George Stallings, minister of the host church, and Mrs. Stallings and Jaycee President Andre Evans and Mrs. Evans.

Members of the troop are Jerry Hartless, Woody Hartless, Billy Hartless, Gary Gregory, Richard Boggs and Buddy Goodwin.

The evenings' activities will conclude with a short film on camping since the troop is tentatively planning camping events in April. Refreshments will be served by Jaycee wives.

SEATAK SHOW HELPS COMMUNITY CENTER

SEATAK — Inter-racial harmony and goodwill added to appreciative audience recently saw a giant step taken towards the completion of the Seatack Community Center.

The occasion was "Operation Good Neighbor," a variety show presented last week and sponsored jointly by two Virginia Beach groups which have taken the lead in promoting inter-racial understanding and cooperation.

The United Council of Church Women and the Civic Improvement Association threw their weight behind this latest of many efforts of the Seatack Fire Dept. to raise money for its pet project, the Community Center.

The full auditorium of Seatack Elementary School and the impressive list of patrons and contributors were due in large part to the energetic persistence of Virginia Beach church women.

For the show talent ranging from serious religious and folk songs to interpretive dance, choral singing and even slapstick was provided by teachers of the Seatack Elementary School and local performers.

By the time the program had concluded with a spirited singing of "God Bless America" led by the Mt. Olive Male Choir, the slightly over $1000. Aaron Persons, President of the Community Center, in accepting a check from Mrs. Charles Robbins, Secretary of the C.I.O., assured the sympathetic audience that the money would be promptly converted to plumbing and a heating unit for the nearly completed building.

By demonstrating the willingness of local people to help themselves, the Community Center is expected to qualify for further operational funds made available by the government's program of War on Poverty.

As a continuation of their program of education and discussion, the Civic Improvement Organization announced plans for the next open meeting, this one on employment opportunities, to be held March 17, at 7:30 at the Friends' Meeting House, Laskin Rd.

Rundel Morgan of the Virginia State Employment Office in Norfolk will be the speaker.

Rec. Dept. Opens Adult Playgrounds

VIRGINIA BEACH — On March 22nd, the City Recreation Department is sponsoring Adult Playgrounds at five different high schools beginning at 7:30 p.m. The playgrounds will be open two nights a week, Monday's and Thursday's for 10 weeks (excluding Easter Holidays dates for the public schools). The playgrounds are open to both men and women of past-high school age.

An added feature will be the conduct of a Trimmings Class for women to be held at Princess Anne H.S. only — free of charge. Mrs. Doris French will be in charge of this part of the program.

The other schools involved will be Kellam H.S. (Roy Ammons, director); V.B.H.S. (Mr. Ray Smith, director); Bayside H.S. (Mr. Joe Cox, director); and Union Kempsville H.S. (Mr. Charles Harvin, director). The men's director at PAHS will be Mr. John Grady.

The gyms will be open for any physical activity the patrons desire: lights will be turned on the tennis courts; volleyball nets will be up for that activity and badminton; half-court basketball; apparatus rooms will be open for Circuit and Weight training or Gymnastics.

The playground directors will hold half hour clinics to introduce the novice to new activities. Leagues can be formed for team play; tournaments arranged for individual sports; or a person can just "come and work out." No showering facilities will be available, however.

The Department hopes that this offering will spur the adults of our city to take advantage of these opportunities to engage in an Adult Fitness program geared to their own individual needs. This Spring Program to hold a Spring Hat Sale on March 19 and 20 from 12 to 8 p.m. at the Elks Lodge.

DOG SHOW AT CIVIC CENTER

VIRGINIA BEACH — A Specialty Dog Show sponsored by the Associated Specialty Clubs of Tidewater, Virginia, will take place at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center on April 2. The show is supervised by A. D. Mansfield and the doors will open at 9 a.m. A veterinarian will be on duty all during the show.

The first event will be Obedience Trials which will be open to all AKC registered dogs of any breed. The second event, scheduled to begin at 6 p.m., will be the specialty show with dachshunds in one ring and either boxers or doberman pinschers in the second ring. Entries in this event must be AKC registered and at least six months old. Entries will close on March 23.

The association is made up of the Nor-Fort Dachshund Club, the Cavalier Doberman Pinscher Indian River Boxer Club, the Club, and the Hampton Roads Obedience Training Club, Inc.

The show last year drew entries from 16 states and Puerto Rico. It is anticipated that more states will be represented this year as well as increase in the number of entries.

Anyone interested in entering a dog or in learning how to handle a dog for show can attend free training classes each Sunday prior to the show. These classes will be conducted by members of the clubs forming the association. Each class starts at 2 p.m., on the 14th, 21st, and 28th of March, at the Southern Shopping Center parking area in Norfolk. Further information concerning the training classes and the dog show can be obtained by contacting Ed Fiorello, telephone 583-0294.

FUTURE FARMERS HOLD FATHER-SON BANQUET

PRINCESS ANNE — The Kellam Chapter of the Future Farmers of America held its annual Father and Sons banquet last Wednesday night in the Kellam High School Cafeteria.

The following awards were presented at the banquet.

STAR GREENHAND FARMER was awarded to Jim Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wagner of Back Bay Station, Virginia.

The following is a summary of our year's work in Vocational Agriculture.

The Future Farmers and Future Homemakers took 107 to the State Fair at Richmond the latter part of September, 1964. On January 5, 1965 we had another nice trip to the Union Camp paper mill at Franklin, Va.

We started out with 74 enrolled in Vocational Agriculture. At the present time we have 68. A few dropped out to take jobs and the others moved with their families to other schools. One thing we can be certain of in agriculture; that is change.

As farmers substitute capital for labor and get more automation or bigger machines to do their work, many farm boys find employment in related fields such as agribusiness or agriculture industry. About 2/3 of the labor income of 61 boys made during 63-64 was produced in this manner.

Bryan Irving made about $750.00 working as assistant in a small pet hospital. Fifteen boys grew 24 acres of corn which produced 2,216 bushels in a very dry season. Herman Dudley, Jr. was our champion corn producer with 136 bushels per acre. Ward Flora was second with 124 bushels per acre. All 15 boys averaged 92 bushels per acre.

Nine boys grew 17 acres of soybeans and 484 bushels. Ward Flora got the highest yield of 34 bushels per acre and made a profit of about $2.00 per bushel. Joe Peseck averaged 42 bushels of wheat on 4 acres. We produced 4 tons of pork and made a profit of $205.00. Jerry Matyko made $37, on tow market hogs and Arlen Grimsland was a close second with $36, profit on two hogs. These boys were extremely fortunate to have cheap feed and they sold when market prices were at their peak. All 38 hogs fed out by 13 boys averaged just a little over $5.00 profit per head.

Three boys cared for 4 steers which produced 3,109 lbs. of beef and made a profit of $179.75. Jimmy Johnson received $81.00 of this profit.

Nine boys did some trapping and received a profit of $442.00. From 292 muskrats, 3 minks and 3 raccoons. Richard Amorese received $97.75 for 50 muskrats and one mink. Robert Kovacs raised 37 feeder pigs for a profit of $243.00 which averages about $6.50 per pig.

Mr. E. R. Cockrell, Jr., Agriculture Agent for the City of Virginia Beach gave an inspiring address. It was entitled, "Are You Saying Hello or Goodbye to Agriculture?" He pointed out that agriculture is more than farming; about 40% of all jobs in America depend directly or indirectly on agriculture. There were 15,000 jobs for college graduates of agriculture last year, and only 9,000 graduates of agriculture colleges.

We want to thank our parents and all who helped make agriculture possible for us.

KELLAM ON GOLF TEAM

CLINTON, S.C. — Presbyterian College reports its golf team is already in full swing, with its potential being equal to last year's squad which compiled a 12-3 record, the best golf record in the state.

Coach Gordon Warden is counting heavily on Bill Kellam, Jr., whom he says "could vary easily be the number one golfer in the state."

Kellam has nearly won the state tournament his first two years, and last year lost a sudden death playoff for second place.

KEMPSVILLE — A 22-year-old housewife became the city's third traffic fatality for 1965 when she was killed in a two-car collision on Parliament Drive about 1:40 a.m. Sunday.

The victim has been identified as Mrs. Jacqueline W. Roy of Driver, Va., who apparently was killed instantly of severe head injuries.

She was a passenger in a compact foreign car driven by her husband, Alphonse K. Roy III, 22, who suffered a brain concussion and head lacerations.

Officer T. M. Millirons, who investigated the accident, reported that a car driven by Edward R. Jamie, 43, of 4708 Masters Road, was headed east on Par-

VIEW of VIRGINIA BEACH

By DORIS PADRICK

You are reading our first Virginia Beach Sun. We want you to feel this is YOUR newspaper. And this column is YOURS. It is about you, about people you know. It is about the City, the city you know, and the city you should know. People, places, and things. And Viewpoints.

You may write to the column. You may write for the column. You may ask questions through the column. You may answer through the column. What you know, you can tell. What you don't know, you may seek answers.

If you want your name printed, it will be printed. If you would rather voice an unsigned Viewpoint, it will be unsigned. But this will not be the place to pen your displeasure at civic affairs nor political hi-jinks. Write those to the "Letter to the Editor" — it will be printed, but not here.

This is to be the "happy spot" in the Sun. What you will read here will be about the "good", emphasizing achievements of the young and old and anyone in-between; spotlighting interesting places to visit or patronize, pats on the back for unknown residents, giving boosts to new business, exploring out-of-the-way areas.

Want to know about me? The column and what is written is the most important — I am just the typing fingers that tell your story. But if you are curious, this one time because it is a new beginning for the Sun, here I am, as I see me.

I am not young, neither am I old (except on deadline day). Have been married to the same man for 22 years (got married during World War II, a good way to get acquainted). One son goes to ODC (a freshman who likes girls — all the girls). Two daughters, one a teenager who doesn't like housework, and the other a second-grader who makes housework.

Originated in Massachusetts, married to a rebel from North Carolina, have lived in Oklahoma, Washington, D.C., Maryland, Virginia, Florida, Rhode Island, and California. Like Virginia because it combines the best of every other place.

Like peace and quiet, but get very little of that. Love babies, but toddlers to pre-teens make me nervous. Enjoy teenagers, but don't always understand them. Impressed with the aims and dreams of women and men, both in the high and the lower social ladder. Fascinated with local history.

I am a good listener... tell me your story.

FEDERAL BAR MEETS FRIDAY

LITTLE CREEK—A former Portsmouth assistant city attorney who later became a Deputy Judge Advocate General of the Navy is the featured speaker for a special dinner meeting of the Tidewater Chapter of the Federal Bar Association.

Rear Admiral Robert D. Powers, Jr. (retired), well known for his work in international law, returned to private practice in Portsmouth after his recent retirement.

The meeting will be held on Friday at the U.S. Naval Amphibious Base Officers' Club.

FIRE AND RESCUE CALLS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Fire and rescue units answered 371 calls during the month of February, requiring the use of 326 pieces of equipment, according to monthly figures released by the Public Safety Communications Division.

Fire calls included: 35 buildings, 27 woods and grass, eight automobiles, one false alarm and 49 miscellaneous.

Ambulance calls included: 16 heart attacks, 23 maternity cases, four attempted suicides, two false alarms, and 183 miscellaneous; and 23 automobile accidents.

ARAS Holds Officer Installation

WINTER WHEAT GROWERS HELPED BY SIGN-UP DATE EXTENSION

PRINCESS ANNE — The sign-up for the 1965 feed grain program, which extends through March 26, offers winter wheat growers an "open season" for changing their intended participation in the 1965 wheat program, Chris Krahenbill Chairman, Va. Beach County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

The sign-up period now under way is primarily for growers of corn barley, and grain sorghum to enroll under the 1965 feed grain diversion program. In Virginia, the wheat program sign-up was conducted last fall. At that time it was announced that growers who signed up then would have an opportunity to revise their intended participation during the feed grain sign-up period this spring. Wheat growers who signed up last fall now may revise the number of acres to be diverted or may rescind the agreement. March 26 will be the last day for filing revised intentions for taking part in the 1965 wheat and feed grain diversion programs.

The Chairman reminded farmers that the programs' substitution provision is available only if the participating growers are signed up in both the feed grain and the wheat programs. This provision enables growers to substitute wheat for feed grains or feed grains for wheat in qualifying for diversion payments, thereby providing program participants greater flexibility in farming operations. In this case, the rate of the available diversion payment would be based on the crop actually diverted into a conserving use.

State Programs Highway Project

Highway Department has programmed a $1.24 million project in Virginia Beach for the widening of 1.5 miles of Princess Anne Road (US 165) between South Parliament Drive and Tuscon Road.

The project, requested in a January 11 resolution of the city council, also includes the widening of an 0.8-mile connection on Kempsville Road from Locke Lane to Princess Anne and on Bonney Road from Princess Anne to South Witch Duck Road.

Improvements call for widening the road to four lanes, divided, and for grading and drainage.

The project will be financed under the new formula approved by the 1964 General Assembly, designating 14 per cent of all state highway funds for urban maintenance and construction in cities and towns of over 3,500. These funds comprise revenues from both new motorist taxes and previous sources.

Under the new formula, the cities' portion of construction costs has been reduced from 50 to 15 per cent where state and city funds are used, and from 25 to 15 per cent where federal, state and city funds finance a project.

For the Virginia Beach project, state and city funds will finance the cost of surveys and plans and the acquisition of right-of-way, and federal, state and city funds will finance construction. According to cost estimates, the federal share will be $500,000, the state $554,000, and the city $186,000.

Following work on preliminary surveys and plans will be a public hearing, completion of plans, acquisition of right-of-way and then construction.

Young Demos Meet Mar. 30

Christmas Began In February

Civic Chorus Yule Concert Is Recorded

VIRGINIA BEACH — When members of the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus were singing their Christmas Concert this winter, they may have been aware that tape recordings were being made, but little did they dream they would later be able to play back the concert in their own living rooms on a phonograph record. But they are doing just that.

The concert, performed in Galilee Episcopal Church, was recorded on equipment set up in the balcony of the church, and the tape made by Charles Hardin was kindly lent to the chorus to be made into a phonograph pressing by Century Recording Company of Suffolk. Mr. Lee Chambers, president of the Civic Chorus, made the arrangements, and announced the availability of the recording to the chorus at its last meeting.

Mr. Chambers says the chorus has a few extra copies of the long playing record, which contains the performance of the "Gloria" of Antonio Vivaldi, and Benjamin Britten's brilliant "A Ceremony of Carols", directed by Charles Oliver, and with soloists Mary Jane Utley, Jane Garrison, Marjorie Jones Johnson, Alton Butler and William Utley. They are available at cost from any chorus member.

The NARTU Wives Sewing Group began in February to plan for a Merry Christmas in 1965 for some of the homeless Korean children. These ladies have used their time and talent in making slippers, knitted wool booties, and many stuffed animals which will be shipped to Chunju, Korea for distribution in the hospital and orphanage there.

These gifts for Korean children will be sent to Miss Betty Fowler, whose father, Captain W. E. Fowler, USN (Ret), was the Commanding Officer of NARTU in 1955-57. Miss Fowler is a Missionary at the Presbyterian Medical Center in Chunju.

In our world of plenty, it is difficult to realize that there are little children in other parts of the world who will not have — unless we give — a Merry Christmas. The NARTU Wives meet and work together to help make Christmas a 'day to remember' for a small child in a far away land.

BEACH MAN ON PROBATION

VIRGINIA BEACH — Benjamin Carl Forsman, accused of murder in the fatal shooting of James Lane last March, received a five year suspended sentence in Virginia Beach Circuit Court Thursday.

The sentencing came on the first anniversary of Lane's death in his home on South Great Neck Road near London Bridge.

When the case first came to court in January, Forsman changed his plea from not guilty to guilty of voluntary manslaughter. At that time the jury was dismissed and sentencing withheld pending a probation officers report.

Since Forsman's sentence was suspended, he will now be placed on probation for five years.

SEVEN SHIPS LEAVE FOR GULF

NORFOLK — Two Coast and Geodetic Survey ships left Norfolk Tuesday for a 7-month investigation of sunken wrecks and other navigational hazards in the Gulf of Mexico.

Commanded by Lt. Donald R. Tibbitt of Texarkana, Ark., the two ships, the Wainwright and the Hilgard, will operate out of Galveston, Tex. Each ship carries a crew of two officers and seven seamen.

SHIP AGROUND

NORFOLK — The Navy was having its problems Friday when a ship "blundered" into seven feet of mud in the York River, about one mile south of Blundering Point.

Three Navy ships and three tugs were sent to free the USNS Bluejacket after it settled in the mud from stem to stern.

The ship was loaded with about $2.5-million (44 perishable food bound for Europe.

VIET NAM RETURNEE AT POST

FT. STORY, Va. — First Sergeant Joseph F. Koch, a recent returnee from Viet Nam, has assumed the duties of First Sergeant with Headquarters Company U.S. Army Support Element at Ft. Story. He succeeds Master Sergeant Earl J. Arganbright who is being assigned to a unit in Ethiopia.

Sergeant Koch entered the Army in June of 1946 and completed Basic Training at Ft. Eustis, Va. and was then assigned to the 714th Railway Battalion at Ft. Eustis. He remained here for approximately two months after which he was transferred to the 68th Division in Northern Italy. He moved with the division to Trieste at which time he was promoted to the rank of Master Sergeant and eventually became Personnel Sergeant Major of the Command. In the succeeding years he served tours in Austria and in Stuttgart, Germany with the 7th Corps.

Sergeant Koch attended the Army Intelligence School at Ft. Holabird, Md. for four months in 1956. He utilized this training in his second of two tours in Viet Nam when he was an Intelligence Advisor in Nha-Trang and Cam-Pho. He is a native of Bridgeport, Conn.

McPherson, who lived at the same address, was stabbed repeatedly with a boning knife after a quarrel.

BOND ISSUE STUDIED AT VB HIGH

VIRGINIA BEACH — The concentration in Social Studies classes in Virginia Beach High School this week has been on the upcoming School Bond issue. The school is attempting to get the issue to the persons through the students.

On Monday each Social Studies teacher stressed the question: "What is the School Bond issue?" and "Why should we vote FOR the issue?" Outside speakers were invited to talk to the various government classes. Elmer Tarrell of the local School Board was the source of facts, figures and statistics during the six classes.

On Wednesday a panel of students from the Government classes, assisted by Neal Owens, a member of the Virginia Beach School Board, interpreted the Bond issue to the student body in the High School Auditorium. Two separate assemblies were held, one for the 9th and 9th grades, and one for the 10th thru 12th grades.

Owens served as consultant for the panel on questions which called for technical information. Moderator was Leslie Watson and Panelists were Dorinda Hearty, Ruth Robeson, Chris Hanson, Joe Small, James Williams and John Woolen.

Bart Theberge, S.C.A. President, conducted the opening exercises. Sam Sykes, Senior Class President, introduced topic and panelists.

School authorities felt that the enthusiasm shown by the students will be reflected in parent voting at the polls.

includes more than politics and history. It encompasses customs and culture — and Food! So armed with pots and pans and kitchen utensils, we can do our part to further the work of the Peace Corps. And a tasty time will be had by all!

Our Peace Corps culinary cruise begins in Guatemala where Volunteers love Guacamole. This avocado spread makes a delectable hors d'oeuvre when spread on Tortillas from Costa Rica.

To serve eight persons

- 2 large ripe avocados
- medium-sized onion, grated
- cloves garlic
- heaping tablespoon mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Few drops Worcestershire sauce
- Few drops Tobacco sauce

Peel the avocados, remove the seeds and wash. Add lemon juice, washed garlic cloves, mayonnaise, Worcestershire sauce, tobacco and salt to taste. Mix together all the ingredients and chill.

To serve eight persons

- 2 cups corn meal
  - 2 cups boiling water
  - 2 teaspoons salt
  - 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- Mix corn meal and water together, stirring vigorously. Add salt and oil and cook mixture over low flame until well-thickened. Form small balls of two tablespoons each of the mixture. Flatten the balls with a rolling pin. Then cook the tortillas over a low flame in a frying pan and turn them when they are light brown in color.

For an unusual appetizer, Volunteers in Uruguay recommend meat-filled pastries called Empanadas.

To serve eight persons Empanadas: (Freeze leftovers for another festive night).

Dough:

- 5 cups flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons paprika
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup soft butter

Put flour mixed with paprika and salt on a board and make a well in the center. Put the butter in the well and add enough water to make a fairly stiff dough. Knead it for a few minutes and let it stand while you prepare the filling.

Filling:

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 1 small tomato, finely chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1 pound ground lean meat
- 1 1/2 teaspoon flour
- 1/2 cup beef stock
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon chili pepper
- 1 hard-boiled egg, chopped
- 1/2 cup seedless raisins
- salt to taste

Melt butter in frying pan. Add onions and saute until golden brown. Add paprika, tomato, meat, flour, stock, cumin, chili pepper and salt. Cook over medium heat for five minutes.

Make dough balls the size of an egg and roll them out thin in the form of a circle. In the center of each round place one tablespoon of the filling, a teaspoon of the chopped egg, one-half teaspoon of green olives and a few raisins. Moisten the edges of the rounds and fold over the mixture, pressing firmly. Make a design along the edges as for pastry. This part of the recipe can be prepared ahead of time. When you are ready to serve, merely bake the Empanadas in a hot oven (400 degrees F) for 15 minutes, or fry in deep fat and drain on paper.

For our main course, we move on to Bolivia where Peace Corps Volunteers enjoy the creative dish Arroz con Pollo. Spanish in origin, Arroz con Pollo is defined as chicken with rice — with any favorite ingredients that you may wish to add.

To serve eight persons

Arroz con Pollo:

- 2 chickens, 4 pounds each, cut into parts
- 6 carrots, cut into cubes
- 6 stalks of celery, cut into cubes
- 3 large onions, cut into small wedges
- 3 cloves garlic, finely

- 6 chopped tomatoes, skinned, seeded and cubed
- 2 green peppers, diced
- 1/4 pound large fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 6 hard-boiled eggs, cut into quarters
- 1/4 cup parsley sprigs
- 4 tablespoons capers
- 2 pimientos, cut into thin strips
- 20 black olives, sliced
- 1 cup shredded coconut
- 1/2 cup sliced almonds
- 1/2 cup white wine
- 3 cups raw rice
- salt and pepper to taste
- cooking oil

Place the chicken, carrots, celery, onions, garlic, tomatoes and green peppers into a large pot with enough water to cover. Heat to boiling point and cook until tender (approximately 90 minutes).

During the last half hour, prepare the rice by placing it in a large skillet over a medium flame. Moisten it with cooking oil to prevent sticking, and stir frequently. Add the mushrooms. The rice and mushrooms are finished when they color a warm brown.

After the chicken is done, allow it to cool. Then remove the meat from the bones and dice it into large pieces. Add the chicken, a cup of its stock, the vegetables with which the chicken was cooked, the white wine, the black olives and salt and pepper to the rice and heat over a low flame.

Then transfer the Arroz con Pollo to a serving platter. To garnish, attractively arrange the pimientos, capers, almonds and coconut on the top of the mixture. Form a border around the dish with sprigs of parsley and hard-boiled egg wedges, sprinkled gently with vinegar.

Accompany this main course with a salad of romaine, Boston and endive lettuce with a simple dressing of wine vinegar and olive oil. This arrangement will provide an appropriate contrast in taste to the appetite-delight of Arroz con Pollo.

For a cooling finish to our Latin American feast, Peace Corps Volunteers in Jamaica suggest a chilled fresh-fruit compote of bananas, pineapples, strawberries and kumquats marinated in your favorite liqueur and vanilla wafers.

One last-minute note. After serving your Peace Corps Latin American dinner, you will receive recipe pleas from your delighted guests. Be generous. Remember the work of the Volunteers and share your skills, culinary and otherwise, with those who wish to learn from you.

TEEN TOPICS

By Carolyn R. Pettibone
Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

We all like to have attractive homes. Making your home more attractive can be a family venture, and there are many ways in which you can contribute to making your home a more pleasant place in which to live. One way to do this is through the wise use of color. Nature produces color everywhere, and consequently it is one of the more inexpensive ways to add sparkle to your home.

Color may be added with a bowl of polished apples, a glass jar of lemons, vegetables, books or magazines.

Color has a language all its own. It is often identified with emotional reactions such as "feeling blue," "green with envy," or "purple with rage." When a room is dreary, we may feel blue or cold just as we do when the sun does not shine. Bright colors can make us feel gay and warm.

To create attractive, colorful, yet restful rooms, you must first select the colors which you would like to use, and next you should determine the ways in which you can use them. When selecting the colors to be used, decisions should partly be based upon family preferences. Next, you should use your chosen colors so that they blend in with the design and size of your room.

When you are trying to help your family to brighten up your living room, you must remember that your living room should be both restful and cheerful. The living room should be a room where the whole family can relax, read and entertain. Since the living room is partially a place for relaxation, you should use few patterns or bright colors here. You, however, can easily help your family to add color accents to the living room, while at the same time keeping this area restful, by adding color through books, flowers, plants and pictures.

The hall is the first place your family and friends see. One seldom tarries there, and consequently you can use bold colors in this area. You can have a lot of fun helping your family select colorful pictures or gay rugs for this area.

A dining room can be made gay by using wallpaper. If your family is redecorating this area, you might want to suggest that a bold pattern can be used in a large room, while it is best to use a small pattern in a small room to help inspire sociability. Neutral and pastel colors give a feeling of spaciousness, and can make a small room appear larger. Warm colors can make a large room seem cozier and less spacious.

Bedrooms should be designed for sleep and rest. Many of you no doubt have had the opportunity to help decorate your own room. Since bedrooms are designed for rest, it is best to use plain soft colors on the walls if they are to be painted, or quiet patterns if you desire to use wall paper. Small objects such as books, flowers, plants, pictures and lamps may create enough pattern and color to accent a quiet, neutral or pastel background, yet keep the room restful.

By making home decorating a family venture, I am sure that many of you will learn a lot, and you will also gain satisfaction from knowing that you have contributed towards making your home a more attractive place in which to live.

bers exhibiting Tidewater leaf displays.

She also stressed the importance of having a focal point of interest such as a small statue, a tiny pool, or a rock garden for an eye-catching view. The preservation of our live oaks is a must she declared.

Mrs. Timmons was gifted with a 3-ft. tall grapefruit plant from the Club to be placed in the Norfolk Botanical Gardens.

Mrs. D. Y. Malbon was awarded the door prize of a fully grown camellia bush from Winn's Florist, and each member received a small plant donated by Sealy Florist.

What did Susan learn in school today?

Did she learn the values of thrift and responsibility? How to make dimes and quarters add up to dollars?

These are some of the valuable lessons each child can learn through the U. S. Treasury's School Savings Program.

By putting their dimes and quarters into U. S. Savings Stamps, thousands of American children are saving toward the purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds—one of the best investments any of us can make.

A successful School Savings program is based on partnership—the teacher, the child, the parent, the volunteers who make it go. Our country is a partner too—because young citizens who buy Savings Stamps are helping to keep America strong.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Tickets went on sale this week for the 10th Annual Princess Anne Ruritan Minstrels, to be presented on the evenings of March 25, 26 and 27, and April 2 and 3, at Princess Anne High School. General admission seats will be available for all performances on a space available basis at $1.00 each, and reserved seats at $1.50, according to ticket chairman E. Tickets may be obtained from any of the 182 members of the Princess Anne Ruritan Club, and at the Ruritan office in the Cunningham & Associates building, 3253 Virginia Beach Boulevard, or phone 341-1515. With rehearsals already progressing well toward the final dress rehearsal on March 23, the production will feature a larger cast and greater variety of entertainment than ever before, according to Homer W. Cunningham, producer and interlocutor of the show. Veteran director John S. McFall, Jr. also is again the author of the script, capacities he has filled since 1959 for the successful annual presentation.

An augmented front line in this year's production will include ten end men, among them many from prior shows. In addition to McFall, they are: Charles W. Cashman, Jr., Ralph J. DeMarco, Henry L. Lam, Ryland T. Lowery, D. Murray Malbon, J. Frank Malbon, James N. Moody, John F. Skillman, and Joseph R. White, Jr.

Departing from past practices, this year's presentation will have an all-male chorus in "true, old-time minstrel tradition" with no women on stage, the producer declared.

FOR EARLIER HARVESTS

Although hardy plants like cabbage should be set out first, more tender plants like tomatoes need not be far behind. Plastic covering over rows or individual plants guards them from frost.

An earlier crop of tomatoes or of other vegetables tender to cold is easier to have now that plastics are available to every gardener. They make it possible to set out tomato plants, under protection of course, at almost the same time as hardy vegetables are transplanted to the garden.

There are two ways of protecting tender plants, through row and through individual "greenhouses." Materials needed are sheets of transparent polyethylene plastic and U-shaped wire supports.

The plastic is widely available and so is heavy wire. Or the supports may be made of wire coat hangers. Cut the wire at both sides of the hook, stretch the remainder of the hanger full length, and then bend into U form.

The cut ends of the U-shaped wires are stuck down into the soil, the wires spaced a foot or two apart, depending on the length of the row and therefore the weight of plastic to be supported. When necessary, two wires may be placed side by side for greater strength.

After the plants are set out, plastic is draped over the wire framework, pulled down at sides and ends, and anchored with soil heaped over the edges. Plastic should be placed so it does not touch plant parts. Several inches should be allowed between plants and plastic.

Individual plant protectors are made in much the same way as row "greenhouses." Two U-shaped wires are installed at right angles to one another, one arching over the other, and are fastened together where the wires cross. A plant is set under this framework, plastic fitted over it and anchored with soil.

Openings may be left where pieces of plastic meet or slits made in the plastic covering to admit more air if weather is sunny and to observe plant growth. These openings are best left or made on the side of the covering opposite the prevailing winds.

BOATING SHOW ON WTAR RADIO

NORFOLK — NEWPORT NEWS, Virginia — A new service to Tidewater boating enthusiasts will be initiated by WTAR Radio beginning April 3, it was announced this week by Jack B. Prince, Vice President in Charge of AM-FM Radio.

In cooperation with Seaboard Bank, WTAR Radio will operate a 24-foot hard-top cruiser throughout the Hampton Roads waterways to provide on-the-spot information on weather and surf conditions, boating traffic, fishing news, and safety tips. The boat will be on patrol Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays from 6:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. throughout the Summer.

Tidewater residents and visitors who participate in the various water sports will receive regularly scheduled reports following newscasts throughout the weekend, plus additional reports as conditions warrant.

The Seaboard Water Patrol will be regulated by a master control center and a producer. The Water Patrol vessel will be captained by Ray Honaker, heard on WTAR Radio's regularly scheduled "Route 79" from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Water Patrol will be in close contact with the Weather Bureau, the Coast Guard, area police, beach and marina operators, and fishermen on their boats.

Reports will cover the complete range of water activities including water temperatures and surf conditions for swimmers, surfers and skiers; weather and actual surface water conditions; specific types of fish and where they are biting; safety tips supplied by the Coast Guard; and, when necessary, reports on boating accidents plus emergency aid.

The Seaboard Water Patrol is the second major traffic service to be instituted by WTAR Radio in recent years. The "Atlantic Go-Patrol" helicopter was placed in service in October, 1962, covering the Tidewater area from 7 to 9 a.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. daily Monday through Friday, with reports on highway conditions, construction areas, obstructions, bridge openings, and train movements as they affect the flow of traffic throughout the area.

The acquisition of the Water Patrol will now provide WTAR Radio listeners with complete coverage of air, sea and land.

FRENCH PIANIST IN CONCERT

NORFOLK — The scintillating young French pianist, Philippe Entremont, will appear with the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra at 8:30 p.m. in the Center Theatre on Monday, March 22, 1965.

With Edgar Schenckman conducting, the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra will present an all-Russian program including Mousorgsky's "Prelude to 'Khovantchina'" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's Symphonic Suite, "Scheherazade," Opus 35. "A phenomenal pianist," Entremont will play Tchaikovsky's Concerto No. 1 in B Flat Minor for Piano and Orchestra, Opus 23.

The all-Russian concert demonstrates the wide range of quality of the Russian musicians of the second half of the last century. The program includes the strong nationalism of Mousorgsky, the western romanticism of Tchaikovsky and the orientalism and use of folk-song by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Tickets for the Entremont concert may be obtained at the Center Theatre Box Office after 10 a.m. on the day of the concert. Season ticket sell-outs have occasioned a new system established by the Norfolk Symphony and Choral Association. Season subscribers unable to attend a single concert cooperate in making their tickets available at the Box Office prior to each concert. Thus, newcomers to the area are able to obtain individual concert tickets. Additional funds thereby obtained from the sale of those tickets go into the Symphony Sustaining Fund.

4-H Activities and Events

C. FRANCIS LAY
Assistant Agent

"Thinking well is wise; planning well wiser; doing well wisest and best of all." Persian Proverb.

Hello again! This Saturday, the Junior 4-H Club members (ages 10-13) will be competing in the Junior Demonstration Contest. Many club members attended the Demonstration Workshop held on February 27, but for those who were unable to make it, I would like to review what a demonstration is, and the parts of a demonstration.

Know How—Show How—Tell How

A demonstration is more than telling someone something. It includes showing your audience how to do something, e. g., make bread, plant a tree, take a soil sample, clean a motor. It is by seeing something done that people are better able to understand what you are telling them. So, let's be sure that our demonstrations have the show how in them.

How to Pick Your Subject

There are certain things to consider in picking a subject for demonstration. Consider these items: (1) What are you doing in your regular 4-H Club projects? (2) What are you interested in? (3) What do you think people need to know that you can tell them? Make your demonstration simple! Have one subject to show!

When planning your demonstration: (a) List the important steps and processes you plan to discuss and demonstrate; (b) Arrange the steps in logical order as they would naturally be done; (c) Outline what you need to say in order to explain each step or process; (d) Make a list of the necessary materials and equipment you will need, and (e) Plan posters that will add to the clearness and effectiveness of your demonstration.

Parts of a Demonstration

INTRODUCTION — Be original and be brief. This is your interest getter. You want to make the listener feel the subject is important, worthwhile, practical and interesting. You might tell why the topic was chosen. If you and/or your subject have been introduced by someone else, you don't do it again.

Body of the Demonstration—Show & Tell

Here you show all of the necessary steps in the process. Develop one central idea or practice thoroughly and show how to do it in logical order. For each step, tell what is being done, how it is being done, and why this method is used. Tell something about the material or equipment used. Use your own words. Know your subject well, but do not memorize. Correct methods and skillful work are important throughout.

Be sure to demonstrate all steps. If product or any stage of it cannot be completed in time allotted, show a completed stage or completed product which has been prepared previously.

Summary

In the summary, emphasize the points of the demonstration that you want the audience to remember. Again mention ways that it can be valuable to them.

Have the finished product attractively displayed. Give the audience a chance to ask questions.

The above information should help you club members to give better demonstrations, and enable you leaders and parents to help the club members prepare a demonstration for one of the two contests coming up!

Junior 4-H Demonstration Contest—March 13.

Senior 4-H Demonstration Contest—April 10.

If you would like to take part in the Junior Contest, contact the Extension Office right away.

Coming Events

March 16—4-H Auto Meeting—Vaughan's Esso, 31st & Atlantic Ave., 7:30 P.M.

Creamed Shrimp And Eggs

Lenten meals need not be dreary. Today's supermarket shelves are filled with canned and frozen convenience food items. With a little ingenuity and forethought, they can be transformed and incorporated into delectable dishes. Whether you are a meat-once-a-day person or not, you welcome a change in the pace of mid-winter meals.

Creamed Shrimp and Eggs is such a change of pace. The horseradish adds zing; the parsley adds color and a subtle hint of flavor. Use either canned or frozen cooked shrimp. Fold eggs and shrimp into the silky white sauce, then turn into a greased baking dish. Top with a crisp halo of buttered corn flake crumbs and pop into the oven for about 35 minutes.

Add a crunchy cole slaw, and some chilled canned fruit and cookies, and you have a truly easy Lenten meal.

CREAMED SHRIMP AND EGGS

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup flour
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons grated horseradish
4 hard-boiled eggs, coarsely chopped
2 cups coarsely chopped, cooked cleaned shrimp
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/2 cup Kellogg's Corn Flake Crumbs (packaged corn flake crumbs)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Melt butter; stir in flour. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Stir in salt, pepper and horseradish. Fold in eggs, shrimp and parsley. Spread in greased 1 1/2 quart baking dish or shallow casserole. Combine Corn Flake Crumbs and melted butter. Sprinkle over shrimp mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 35 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Serve at once. Yield: 6 servings.

How much will it cost you if you make a mistake at Seaboard Bank?

At Seaboard Bank, we know it's only human to make a mistake now and then.

We make them ourselves. Not often, but enough to keep us from getting the idea that we're perfect.

So if you're a customer at Seaboard Bank and you make a mistake, we don't get all excited over it.

Let's take an example. Say that you have a checking account at Seaboard Bank, and at the end of a month the amount you think you have in your account doesn't agree with the amount we think you have.

What happens?

Well, at every office of Seaboard Bank we have what we call a Courtesy Desk. You just bring your checkbook, deposit slips and cancelled checks for that month to the Courtesy Desk, and we sit down together and figure out what went wrong.

If it's our mistake, we'll apologize, and correct it immediately.

If it's yours, we'll show you how you made it. (Maybe you forgot to enter a check in your checkbook. Maybe you accidentally put down a deposit figure larger than the actual deposit. Or maybe you just added or subtracted wrong.)

Whatever it is, we'll be glad to help you straighten it out. And perhaps we can pass along some hints that will help you avoid making the same mistake again.

Let's take another example.

Suppose you write a check to someone and forget to enter the amount in your checkbook. You can call us and we'll look it up for you right away.

Or, suppose you lose your savings account bankbook. Again, all you have to do is call us, and we'll immediately put a hold on your account, so that no one else can withdraw your money.

Or if you're sick at home and can't get in to the bank to make a savings deposit or loan payment, just phone us, and we'll work something out. (For example, we can send you a supply of Seaboard bank-by-mail envelopes.)

By now, you've probably gotten the idea that our Courtesy Desks aren't the only places where you'll get courteous treatment at the Seaboard Bank. All of our employees, by and large, are happy to be working at Seaboard, and it shows up in the way they serve Seaboard customers.

If you aren't now banking with us, and you come in to open an account or get a loan, you'll get this same kind of friendly reception. (We know that most people feel a little uncomfortable when they go into a bank for the first time, so we'll do our best to put you at ease.)

Drop in and see us sometime.

We'll be pleased to serve you in every way we can.

Sports Spectacular Features FSU Circus

Highlights of a four-country European tour by the Florida State University Circus and a review of 1964 thoroughbred horse racing in the United States will be presented on "CBS Sports Spectacular" Sunday, March 14 on the CBS Television Network (2:30-4:00 P.M., EST). Jack Whitaker, series host, is the commentator.

The circus segment features 13 exciting acts performed by undergraduates at a town square in Barcelona, Spain, in a 2,000-year-old amphitheater in Fiesole, near Florence, Italy, at the Park Verdu in Nice, France, and at Olympic Stadium in Athens, Greece.

Among other things, viewers will see the flying trapeze act in which the exciting Adrian Catarzi does a triple somersault to a catcher. Catarzi is one of little more than a dozen flyers in all circus history to perform this difficult and dangerous stunt.

Other acts include casting, which is similar to a flying trapeze act, performed in a stationary aerial rig; a high wire trio; rolla rolla, balancing tricks done on a board mounted on a freely rolling cylinder; a high horizontal bar act featuring a "break-away" finale; and hand balancing, double trapeze, a bicycle act, juggling, stilt walking, a perch-pole balance act and, of course, clowns.

The thoroughbred racing portion of the program features 1964's outstanding horses in the year's most important races. The action shows Gun Bow in the Santa Anita Handicap, his stirring race with Kelo and Mongo in the Monmouth Park Handicap — a close victory for Kelo — and his victory over Mongo in the Woodward Stakes.

Kelo displays his Horse of the Year form in winning the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct and the Washington, D.C., International at Laurel.

The Triple Crown events, the Kentucky Derby and Preakness won by Northern Dancer, and the Belmont, won by Quadrangle, also are featured. Shown, too, is the running of the famed Queen's Plate at Woodbine in Canada, which produced another victory for Northern Dancer.

Roman Brother, another leading 3-year-old of 1964, is seen in his victory in the New Hampshire Sweepstakes. At historic Saratoga, Bold Lad, leading 2-year-old of the season, is seen in training and in a record-breaking performance in the Hopeful.

STEWART'S DAUGHTER STARRING

Cindy Carol, plays James Stewart's daughter and Fabian's girl friend in "Dear Brigitte," 20th Century-Fox comedy in CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color opening Wednesday at the Beach Theatre. She was chosen by Producer-Director Henry Koster after he interviewed 86 teen-age girls for the part. Unaware that she had been accepted, she had gone to the Indianapolis auto races and had to plane back to begin her role.

Cindy had her first and only previous starring role in the title part of "Gidget Goes to Rome." But she made her professional acting debut at the age of 10 as one of Jennifer Jones' pupils in "Good Morning, Miss Dove." An evening student at Valley Junior College in California, she is the daughter of a teacher.

She admits that she became a child actress by accident when she accompanied her brother to an audition and was herself chosen for a role. She remained an actress so as to save enough money for a college education.

"I have three brothers, and sisters," she says, "and a high school teacher like my father doesn't earn enough to put four kids through college." She says she still isn't sure whether she'd rather be an English teacher or an actress.

Cindy got a taste of Producer-Director Koster's sense of humor when she did a kissing scene with Fabian atop the deck of "The River Belle," a ferryboat used as a setting in the film. Koster never called "cut" but let the kiss go on until both Cindy and Fabian were out of breath. Then he quipped, "I thought I'd give you a chance to get acquainted."

The young actress-student had to be given a day off when she took her final examinations at Valley State. Another time, she was ill for a few days and gave the whole cast and crew worry when they learned that a clown friend of hers was sick with the measles.

On completion of "Dear Brigitte," Cindy announced her engagement to 25-year-old Dr. Kent Combs. But she said she did not plan to give up acting or college.

BURL IVES GUESTS ON TV SPECIAL

A series of musical vignettes of life on and along the Mississippi River in Mark Twain's day with Burl Ives as "the wayfaring stranger" will be seen and heard on the "Bell Telephone Hour" on NBC-TV Tuesday, March 16 (10-11 p.m. EST). Guests along the way on the full-hour colorcast include Patti Page, Red Nichols and the Five Pennies, William Walker, Rosalind Elias, Matt Mattox, and the Womenfolk, Donald Voorhes conducts the orchestra.

Burl Ives, who is closely associated with the song "Wayfaring Stranger," will open the show with that tune. He then takes viewers for a ride down the Mississippi in a "side-wheeler," with stops along the way, and a visit to New Orleans on the river's delta. A finale will have the entire cast of guests, the Matt Mattox dancers and the Buster Davis singers in a singing-dancing cakewalk.

Ives, folksinger-actor-writer, appears on this series for the fourth time, but the first time as host, and the first time in his "wayfaring stranger" character. Patti Page, one of the nation's top recording artists, will sing songs reminiscent of Mark Twain. Red Nichols and the Five Pennies will give an authentic view of New Orleans jazz. Matt Mattox will be principal dancer in a ballet depicting a fight of riverboat crews and raftsmen.

Sean Connery as James Bond confronts Honor Blackman as Pussy Galore, an aide to a man who plans to rob Fort Knox. Scene is from the latest James Bond adventure film, "Goldfinger," which opened yesterday at the Princess Theatre. The United Artists release was filmed in Technicolor.

'Goldfinger' Movie Showing At Princess

"Goldfinger," the latest James Bond adventure story to explode on the screen, is also the most expensive. Budgeted at $250,000 more than "From Russia With Love," and $300,000 more than "Dr. No," the first of the popular series, "Goldfinger," which opened yesterday at the Princess Theatre, through United Artists release, had an expensive feel from the day screenwriters Richard Maibaum and Paul Dehn delivered the gold-covered shooting script. Again starring Sean Connery as the suave, indestructible Agent 007, this newest Bond-adventure features a villain obsessed with gold to the point where he is determined to rob all the gold bullion from — of all places — Fort Knox!

This immediately posed a problem. "Goldfinger" was filmed in England, where nothing looks even remotely like Fort Knox. Therefore, the Virginia colonial structure was erected on five acres north of Pinewood Studio, at a cost of over $100,000. Art director Ken Adam, who also designed the pseudo-scientific subterranean laboratory of the villainous "Dr. No," vouches for the accuracy of his "set." After months of negotiation with U.S. government officials in Washington, Adam was granted permission to photograph the real Fort Knox near Louisville, Kentucky. However, it is only the exterior he vouches for — he was not allowed inside the gold repository... and "made it up."

Other Adam sets include lush recreations of Miami Beach's Fontainebleau Hotel and another way-out laboratory, with highly dramatized scientific equipment — including the latest weapon, a "laserbeam"—which is a ray of light capable of slicing through steel. It's inventor, Dr. Charles "Goldfinger" Townes, was recently awarded the Nobel Prize for his work.

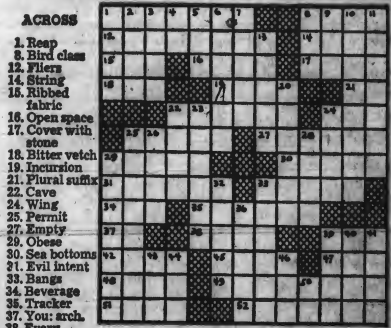

Against the expensive trappings of Florida's pleasure coast, the baronial manors of England's verdant countryside and the scenic splendors of the Swiss Alps, "Goldfinger" unfolds the bizarre story of Bond's most exciting adventure.

Guy Hamilton directed and the Technicolor film was produced by Harry Saltzman and Albert R. Broccoli, who now have Sean Connery under contract for one James Bond picture a year. Also under contract is Honor Blackman, who co-stars as the newest James Bond Girl, Pussy Galore. Star of the top-rated British television series, "The Avengers," Miss Blackman is only one of the beautiful women in Bond's life during the hour and a half of excitement in "Goldfinger."

'Li'l Abner' Sat. Movie

"Li'l Abner," a musical comedy based on the cartoon world created by Al Capp, and starring Peter Palmer, Leslie Parrish and Stubby Kaye, will be colorcast on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night at the Movies" Saturday, March 13 (9 p.m. EST to conclusion).

Notes from Your Agricultural Agent

VEGETABLE GARDENING

The garden should be on well-drained soil and as near the house as possible. It should be rectangular in shape with straight edges and square corners so planning and cultivating will be easier. Arrange the rows to run the long way to reduce turning. If your garden is on a slope, run the rows across the slope to reduce washing during heavy rains. Make a plan of your garden in the winter to be used the following spring for ordering seed and planting. Your plan will also improve your next year's garden by reminding you to maintain a reasonably careful rotation. If you do not plant the same kind of vegetable in the same part of the garden each year, you reduce the probability of building up disease organisms in the soil. When making a plan, remember to plant asparagus and other vegetables that last more than one season at one side of the garden so they will not be in the way when you prepare the soil. Also, plant together crops that mature quickly so when the residue from these crops is removed there will be space all in one area for late plantings.

ORGANIC MATTER

An ample supply of organic matter in the soil is essential to the successful production of vegetables. It improves the physical conditions of the soil and serves as food for microorganisms. Organic matter may be supplied by working manure or compost material into the soil or by growing and turning under a soil-improving crop. All organic matter should be worked into the soil at least 6 weeks before planting time since the material, when decomposing, may cause a temporary shortage of nitrogen and moisture.

MULCHES

A sawdust mulch may help you to have a fine garden. It conserves moisture, keeps the soil cooler in the summer, and promotes healthy, vigorous growth. It does not increase soil acidity or harm plants. A deficiency of nitrogen may develop if a large amount of organic material, such as sawdust, is mixed with soil. Leaves becoming a paler green than normal usually indicates nitrogen deficiency. This can be readily corrected by the addition of a fertilizer containing nitrogen.

Plant your garden seed and water them with the soil in the usual way. Then apply a 1/4 inch layer of sawdust in a band about 6 inches wide on top of the row. Apply additional sawdust when the vegetables are about 2 inches high. Destroy all weeds by cultivating or hoeing and apply a 1 inch layer of sawdust over the entire planted area. A garden 30'x50' will require nearly 8 cubic yards of sawdust. Steamed peanut hulls, ground corn cobs, peat moss, or other organic materials may be used if sawdust is not available. Fertilizer the vegetable crop as usual.

After using the sawdust as a mulch, plow it into the ground during the fall or winter to improve the workability of the soil. Do not wait until spring to plow because the sawdust will keep the ground from drying out.

FERTILIZERS & LIME

Keep your garden at a high level of fertility by applying manure and commercial fertilizer. For leafy and fruit vegetables, broadcast fertilizer and work it into the soil. For root crops, put the fertilizer in the row and work it into the soil. Never let fertilizer come in contact with vegetable seeds. One excellent way of fertilizing beans and potatoes is to make furrows 2-3 inches to each side of the row to be planted. Put the fertilizer in these furrows a little deeper than the seed in garden places to be planted, and cover by making the furrow back.

A 10-5 fertilizer is suitable for the vegetable garden, but if the soil is low in potash a 10-5-10 fertilizer may be more onions, lettuce, potatoes, and celery may be benefited by as much as 45 pounds. For others, such as beans, peas, and sweet potatoes, 15 to 20 pounds may be ample. Usually it is best not to fertilize Southern peas, such as blackeye peas, if planted in good garden soil.

One pint of fertilizer, such as 5-10-5, weighs about one pound. The use of this measurement is sufficiently accurate for most general fertilizing practices.

A nitrogen sidedressing is usually beneficial to corn and to leafy vegetables such as spinach, broccoli, cabbage, kale, collards, and lettuce. Apply when corn is knee-high, and when leafy vegetables are well established. Also apply a nitrogen sidedressing to leafy vegetables any time the color of the leaves is a paler green than normal, since this usually indicates a nitrogen deficiency. Apply high nitrogen fertilizers such as nitrate of soda or NL or Cal-Nitro. Use 7 pounds of nitrate of soda or 5 pounds of either ANL or Cal-Nitro, to each 1000 sq. ft. of garden area. Place the fertilizer along each side of the row and then mix with the soil by cultivating. Do not use more than the required amount of fertilizer and keep it off the leaves to avoid burning.

When plants are set in the garden, 1 to 2 cups of water should be poured around each before the hole is completely filled. This water may be made into a starter solution by adding 5-10-5 or 5-10-10 fertilizer at the rate of 1 measuring cup to each 4 gallons of water. It should be prepared several hours before use. Use it in the same way as recommended for water. The starter solution may be beneficial to the plants.

WATERING THE GARDEN

Watering the vegetable garden during dry weather is beneficial. Vegetables need about one inch of water each week and when the supply falls below that amount, yield and quality will be reduced. Also, sufficient water hastens the maturity of lettuce, greens, carrots, radishes, beets, and cabbage, and extends the harvest season of tomatoes, melons, and cucumbers. Moisture may be conserved by controlling weeds and

THREE STARS ON COLORCAST

Mickey Rooney, Jim Nabors and special guest star Lee Remick join Danny Thomas for a full hour of music and comedy skits as they re-create the "Wonderful World of Burlesque" on NBC-TV's fourth "Danny Thomas Special" colorcast Sunday, March 14 (9-10 p.m. EST).

A surprise cast of some of the biggest names in show business will assist Danny Thomas in the skits which recall what burlesque was like before it was taken over by stripteasers.

Nabors, widely known as television's "Corny Pyle," displays his singing voice with renditions of "The Rose of No Man's Land" and "Vesti La Giubba." Miss Remick demonstrates her dancing and singing talents in two production numbers, "The Girl in the Moon" and "I Don't Care."

The music is supplied by Frank DeVoi and his orchestra. The "Danny Thomas Special" was produced by George Schlatter, directed by Alan Handley, and written by Arnie Rosen and Coleman Jacoby.

BAY COLONY YOUTH MAKES CRIME HISTORY

VIRGINIA BEACH — The most charges ever placed against one individual on Virginia Beach records have been placed against a 19-year-old Bay Colony youth who allegedly forged checks against a florist he formerly worked for.

Police said that William Harvey Jennings of 1120 Lee Road has been charged with 43 counts of forgery, 75 counts of burglary and two counts of possession of stolen property.

Jennings was arrested last November, about six weeks after he had been discharged by Herbert Harrell, florist for "unsatisfactory employment," when a reported burglary at the florist on Laskin Road seemed to implicate him.

At that time he was out on bond after being arrested for burglary of Temple Emmanuel at 25th Street and Baltic Ave.

Jennings had been associated with the florist shop since 1962, starting out first as a part-time worker while a student at Virginia Beach High School and becoming full-time in 1963 as a floral arranger and deliveryman.

Burglary of the florist shop was reported on Oct. 9. Police were informed that about $154 in checks and cash were taken from a safe. However, about $200 in checks and cash were left untouched in the safe.

Jennings had been discharged from employment about the first of October, police said, and just prior to Oct. 9 had been arrested for the Temple Emmanuel burglary.

Investigation, conducted by Detective A. E. Smith, determined that the florist shop had not been entered forcibly. It was learned that Jennings had had a duplicate key to the establishment made.

Police also found that the youth, though working for a small salary, had acquired an extensive amount of personal property, including expensive cars, boats and trailers, and had even made a $2000 down payment on a house for himself in Bay Colony.

After Jennings' arrest in November, the florist firm conducted an audit of the books, dating back to September of 1963, and found losses totaling $6,489.53 which could be attributed to theft, Detective Smith said.

The audit also led to the location of 43 checks, made out to Herbert Harrell, which carried the shop owner's forged signature and had been deposited to Jennings' personal bank account.

Smith explained that Jennings would enter the store at night with his duplicate key, take the money and checks, and alter the cash register tapes to cover up the loss.

As the investigation continued, it was learned that Jennings possessed marine equipment valued at $370, reportedly taken from Beach Bay Marina, and about $1,121 worth of additional marine equipment reportedly owned by Curtis F. Marks whose boat and property had been moored at Beach Bay.

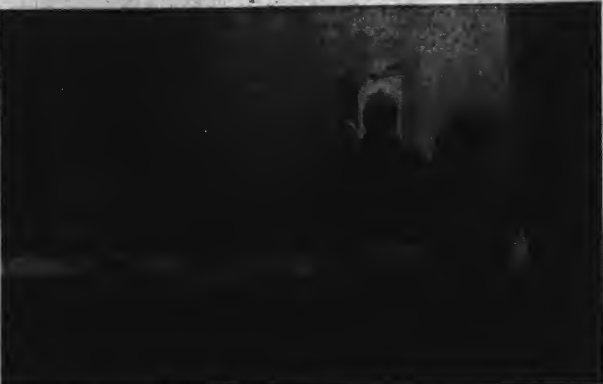

Shortly after Jennings' arrest last Nov. 21 he was sent to an institution for psychiatric observation. He was returned early this week to stand trial. He waived preliminary hearing Monday and is now in city jail without bond awaiting grand jury.

MEN'S STORE HIT

VIRGINIA BEACH — A display window in Napoleon's at the Laskin Shopping Center was broken, apparently by a brick, and an unknown amount of items was taken over the week-end.

Patrolman Kermit C. Wood discovered the broken window while on a routine check. Detectives C. O. Lambert and R. L. Basnight are investigating.

Queuing Up

State license tags went on sale Monday morning and by 9 a.m. at Kellam/Eaton Insurance Co., 3113 Pacific avenue, prospective purchasers of the 1965 plates were getting in line for theirs. Among the early purchasers were Mrs. D. L. Hancock, Stan Hyler, and R. A. Fullerton. The tags which must be displayed by April 15 may also be purchased at the Treasurer's Office at City Hall in Princess Anne; Bank of Virginia Beach in Bayview at Robbins Corner; and the Virginia National Bank at Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base.

HRSD APPLIES FOR PERMIT

BAYSIDE — The Hampton Roads Sanitation District has applied for an Army Department permit to dredge a trench and install a submerged outfall sewer pipe line and diffuser in Chesapeake Bay adjacent to Little Creek Channel.

Announcement of the plans were made this week by E. K. Jackson, chief of operations division for the Army Engineers.

The project involves the installation of 3,500 feet of 42-inch pipe line, the top of the pipe to be at least three feet below the existing bottom and the trench to be back filled.

An outfall diffuser would be installed 66 inches above the existing bottom in water about 27 feet deep at mean low water level.

The dredged material, about 2,000 cubic yards, is to be disposed of in Chesapeake Bay at a point about 3 1/2 miles north of Thimble Shoals Channel Buoy and 4 1/2 miles west of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel system.

Jackson said that the decision on whether or not the permit will be issued will rest primarily on the effect of the proposed work upon navigation.

Comments or objections on the project may be sent in writing to the Army Engineers, 803 Front Street, Norfolk, until March 25.

SCHOOL BOND PASSED BY 13 TO 1 VOTE

VIRGINIA BEACH — The $5-million school bond referendum was approved Tuesday by more than 13 to 1 but the voter turnout was about half the total school officials were hoping for.

Although the city has some 36,000 registered voters, only slightly over 5,000 turned out Tuesday to vote on the bond issue. Last November's elections drew over 23,000 voters.

The $5-million will provide funds for construction of two new high schools, one new elementary school and an addition to Union-Kempsville High School.

There has been some speculation that one of the secondary schools, to be located on First Colonial Road at the entrance to Alantown, will become the new Virginia Beach High School and that the present high school will be converted to a junior high.

Official word on such plans have not yet been released, however. Lack of space, athletic facilities and a stadium at the present Virginia Beach High School on 25th Street seems to be the basis for this speculation.

The other secondary school is planned for the Kempsville area and the elementary school will be built on Stephens Road in Alantown. There is also some speculation that the elementary school will include a gymnasium, one of just three elementary schools in the city to have gyms.

A break down of Tuesday's voting follows:

Capps Shop, 48 for, 18 against; Washwoods, 9-0; Creeds, 49-15;

on the effect of the proposed work upon navigation.

Comments or objections on the project may be sent in writing to the Army Engineers, 803 Front Street, Norfolk, until March 25.

Freak Accident Injures Man

BAYSIDE — A 25-year-old Navy man was injured in a freak accident on Shore Drive late Tuesday night when his car went out of control for no apparent reason and turned over two times.

Police said that Robert F. Norfleet, Jr., who is stationed aboard the USS Independence, suffered lacerations and abrasions of the body and head when he was thrown from the car.

Patrolman Joseph Perez reported that Norfleet lost control of the car, turned over two times end over end and came to a stop at the intersection of Shore Drive and Hutton Street.

Norfleet was thrown from the car as it came to a stop. The car was declared a total loss.

Police said no charges were placed because there was no cause for the accident.

BUDGET, SALES TAX, NEW BOND ISSUE EXPECTED MONDAY

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three major financial ordinances — the city budget, city sales tax and a proposed $1.5-million bond issue — are expected to come before City Council Monday morning for first readings and presentation.

The bond issue, which apparently came as somewhat of a surprise to some officials, will cover $1-million for water lines and mains throughout the city and $500,000 for capital improvements.

The capital improvements projects include three that were on the original referendum that was trimmed by council in favor of the $5-million school bond issue approved Tuesday by the voters.

The surviving projects are $260,000 for a city hall;

SAWYER NEW
PRODUCE MKT.

VIRGINIA BEACH — "Farmers and consumer buyers will see an old face in a new capacity at the Virginia Beach Produce Market," according to E. R. Cockrell, Jr., City Agricultural Agent.

J. Beverley Sawyer has been promoted from Clerk to Market Manager effective March 15, 1965. Sawyer served on the Market staff of three during the market's opening year in 1964. Sawyer's new appointment was made shortly after the resignation of Earl W. Kingsbury, Jr., was received.

"We are grateful to Mr. Kingsbury for his assistance in getting the Market underway. From a beginning base point of zero, the Market boomed into a thriving market place by the end of the season.

"We are privileged to have Mr. Sawyer take over the reins. He has the success of the Market at heart and continually strives to assist both the producers and the buyers using the Market," Cockrell stated.

The City Agricultural Agent pointed out that the fruit and vegetable supply is gradually up and will be in full swing soon as local spring vegetables come into season.

$20,000 for a branch library; and $200,000 for the city's share of the Lynnhaven Inlet dredging work to be done by Army Engineers.

City Council is authorized under the city charter to issue such capital improvement bonds without a referendum requiring a public vote, City Attorney George Vakos said.

Both the bond ordinance and be presented to council for first reading Monday. If approved on first reading they will be advertised in their entirety and will go into effect upon second reading, which will probably be at council's April 12 meeting.

The city budget will be presented to council Monday but will not require a first and second reading. Council may study the budget as long as necessary but a public hearing is required before it can be adopted.

If council accepts the budget as presented, it, too, will be advertised.

All three ordinances will probably be advertised before the April 12 meeting, Vakos said, and a public hearing on the budget and sales tax will possibly be scheduled that day.

Vakos said he intends to ask council to set the hearing time during the morning hours because of the heavy agenda facing council at the 2 p.m. meeting.

"I'm afraid if we try to hold hearings on both the budget and sales tax during or after the meeting, it will just take too long," he said.

The $1.5-million bond ordinance must be advertised but the city charter does not require a public hearing, Vakos said.

There were no indications Wednesday as to how much the city budget will be or what it will include.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett said he could not comment on the budget until it has been presented to council.

Vakos said his office was not notified of the water and capital improvements bond issue until Tuesday but that, despite the limited time for its preparation, he hoped to have it ready for Monday's meeting.

The sales tax ordinance is apparently ready but its technical details will not be known until Monday, Council specified, however, that it follow Norfolk's ordinance and that of other neighboring cities.

METHODIST MEN TAKE TWO DISTRICT AWARDS

Virginia Beach Methodist Church Men's Club and one of its members took the two district awards presented during the annual meeting of the Norfolk District of Methodist Men.

Ben Wootton of Virginia Beach was named Methodist Man of the Year and the local church, with 97 per cent of its club members present, received the award for the club with the largest percentage of active member participation.

The annual meeting was hosted by the Virginia Beach church and drew over 300 men from the Norfolk District.

Another highlight of the meeting was the election of officers. Heading the new slate are: Floyd Wood, president; Wootton, first vice president; A. D. Malbone, second vice president; and J. B. Pugh, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Robert G. Mayfield was guest speaker and the Bell Ringers from Princess Anne High School presented several musical selections.

Among the special guests were Charlie Early, past district lay leader; Dr. Joseph S. Johnston, Norfolk District superintendent and president of the new Wesleyan College; Judge Jerry Bray, district lay leader; Harold B. Kellam, associate district lay leader for the men's clubs; and Albert White.

The Man of the Year Award is named after Kellam and was presented by him to Wootton. Pugh presented the membership award. The annual meeting was presided over by the outgoing president, Robert A. Luke.

For Women Only—

As I See It

by Betty Deal

Home Demonstration Agent

It's bound to come! Spring—

Spring fashions for 1965 present a general air of femininity, evidenced by softening of color, fabric, and silhouette. From sportswear to evening wear, emphasis is on soft detail.

Coats are skinny, with narrow, straight lines. It's a neat and tailored look with soft, high shaping. Double-breasted closing often will be seen plus small rolled collars, back belts, and vents may be softly belted with leather.

The suit continues to turn into a costume. The third coordinated part becomes more essential. Jackets continue to have soft front shaping with eased or straight backs. News is in a variety of weights, in fine to coarse textures. Novelty knits in a variety of new stitches and new fiber mixtures will be of great interest.

Hats will be soft and smooth in 1965. Angles give way to curves—no sharpness, no hardness, no bulk. Some spring hats will be smaller and more feminine to follow the move of garments. Also on the scene will be brims—big sweep and spread, but soft.

Shoes — the open look is still big news for shoes. Heels, mostly of medium height, offer variety. The tow-line continues to round out.

Handbags are smaller and swing from long handles.

Jewelry is delicate and precise, looking more and more like real jewelry. There are interpretations of both heirlooms and contemporary designs.

Those attending the Sewing To-days Fabrics felt that the bulletin of that name was very helpful. If you would like a copy, write Box 6068, Va. Beach, Va. or call 426-6111, Ext. 6 and request it.

Happy Weekend, Everybody—

An Open Letter To Our Readers

Numerous times throughout the year, you are confronted with an appeal, of one sort or another. Some of the appeals come in the form of a request for money. Some of the appeals come in the form of a request for your time. Still other appeals come in the form of a request for less tangible means of support. Nevertheless, most appeals fall into the category of a "cause." We have a "cause" also. We appeal to you, our readers, in the form of a request for your time, your effort, your intelligence, your sense of fair-play, your civic interest and pride, and your support.

On this same page, you have, no doubt, noticed a large empty space, with only the words, RESERVED FOR YOU. This space was left blank for a purpose. It is, indeed, reserved for you. In the coming weeks, depending largely upon the outcome of our appeal to you, the space will be filled. It will be filled with material that only you can write . . . and forward to us. We appeal to you to write us letters to the Editor. So that the letters will not be limited strictly to our earlier editorials and news stories, we propose to call the new feature THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM.

We would hope to enlarge the space as time goes on. That too will depend on you. The more letters that we receive, the happier we will be. The subject of the letters may deal with anything. Perhaps your "pet peeve" is a controversial subject. Fine. No doubt other readers share your opinion or will answer your letter with an opposing opinion. In short, if something is "bugging you," let us know about it. THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM is the place to let off steam. We may not always agree with you, but we do agree with your right to say it.

In our first editorial, two weeks before we came to Virginia Beach, we attempted to make clear this very position. We said then and we say now that this newspaper is a Virginia Beach news organ, concerned with Virginia Beach news events, and published for the residents of Virginia Beach. We went on to say at that time, and we repeat here, that if we err, we wish to hear from you. But if we are to succeed in our new policies, we must hear from you.

This is our only appeal of the year, which we want to last all year. Next week we feel confident that the people of Virginia Beach will have had their say, and the "white space" on this page, RESERVED FOR YOU, will be replaced by THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM.

Voting For All Americans

It was not easy to locate a registrar back in 1957. Nor was it easy to set up an appointment to register. Attempts to determine an agreeable time were often met with "I don't know when I'll be here. I stay so busy." Perseverance usually won out. Especially if the registrar were told "I'm going to register even if I have to camp on your doorstep, or meet you at midnight or at daylight." But the appointment was just the beginning. There were no forms, no questionnaires, no conversations. Only a blank sheet of paper. "Fill this out," the registrar instructed. "Fill out what?" "The paper." "But there's nothing on it. What do you want me to write?" "I'm not permitted to answer your questions." "This is crazy. How can I register to vote with nothing but a blank sheet of paper?" "I'm sorry. I can't help you." "Then find someone who can. I am going to register and I am going to vote. Either you sign me up or I'll find someone, somewhere, who will." "Oh, all right. Sign your name. Put down other information about yourself. This is just a literacy test." The blank sheet was "filled out" and the literate American was privileged to vote.

This scene didn't take place in Selma, Ala. It took place here, in Virginia Beach. The registered voter was angry at this violation of Constitutional rights. But it was not discrimination. It was state law. Today's new voters need not battle the blank sheet of paper. The law has been changed . . . not through demonstrations, violence and headlined law-breaking. It was changed because enough interested citizens sought help through proper channels. They made their displeasure known. They went to various service and religious organizations. They went to their civic leaders. They went to their newspapers. And they went to their legislators. Their voice was heard—and heeded—and when the law was changed there were no dead to mourn, no cities torn apart by conflict, no slow-healing wounds left gaping open to infectious publicity.

The situation was handled in Virginia by Virginians who, recognizing the deficiencies in an outmoded law, worked together for the betterment of their state and for all its citizens. This is the American way. All laws in all states cannot be so updated as to meet today's conditions. But when certain laws fall short of their original intent or no longer meet modern standards, they can be corrected. Citizens who properly strive toward better legislation within their own communities and state surely have a great deal to be proud of.

OPERATION FRIENDSHIP

A project began by a 12-year-old boy is dramatically demonstrating that people everywhere over the world are eager to clasp a hand offered in friendship and will put forth some effort to cultivate friendship between peoples.

It began back in 1960 when Roddy Reynolds of Putnam, Texas took a little handmade stick horse he had named Gold Dust and set him on the "trail" to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Pony Express. Gold Dust bore an explanatory note that stated his mission and asked people who came in contact with him to serve as riders. Gold Dust was left beside the road on Hy. 66 while Roddy was on vacation with his family in New Mexico.

Apparently it was a few days before he caught his first rider but once on the trail he really moved. People, all strangers, were so cooperative in playing the game that Gold Dust rode to hundreds of places on five continents in seven months.

Everywhere he went he was received royally. Many of those he contacted wrote to his master telling of experience with the pony.

In March of 1961, Gold Dust was sent in from Johannesburg loaded down with souvenirs. He was a VIP (very important pony). Reporters called for appointments and friends came to see him.

After several weeks Roddy felt that Gold Dust ought to ride out again in the interest of goodwill. Not wanting to risk such a famous pony on the trail, Gold Dust was created to go in his place. This new pony was an exact replica of Gold Dust but he carried a motto: "My business is to make friends."

The manager of a Dutch airline agreed to help get Gold Dust II on the trail. With his daughter serving as the rider, he went to Amsterdam in November of 1961. After a few weeks stay in Holland he rode over the North Pole to Japan where he made friends. Then he turned south visiting most of the major islands of the South Pacific. On one occasion he visited the interior of New Guinea where very few white men have ever been. He found the natives very friendly. He traveled extensively in Australia, riding every mile of Trans-Australia Airlines route of 45,000 miles, stopping in every port. In many of these places he was welcomed by the dignitaries of the town. He was featured by the press and appeared in special programs on television. Entries in his log book were made by hundreds of people, the great, the near great and the common folk.

After Gold Dust had exhausted the places of interest in Australia, it was decided that he should head for home stopping in some of the major places along the way. He was featured on a television program in Sydney, put on a plane headed for Bangkok and rode away. A clipping in the "Sydney Morning Herald" telling all about it is the last record Roddy has from those that had contact with his famous pony. He has heard rumors but that is all.

Roddy was disappointed but he did not let it stop there. The outpouring of messages from all corners of the globe inspired another thought. Why not use flowers sent in with these messages to create a great and lasting wreath symbolic of the friendship that binds people of goodwill everywhere? It was begun and has grown every since.

One person who had been touched by the magic of venture had this to say: "In this old world so filled with bitterness, strife and hatred, it is refreshing as a summer breeze to find someone whose only concern is to promote goodwill among men. May God bless you in your efforts, and somehow in the months and years to come, may the human family find its way through the maze of ugliness which surrounds to a period of kindness and understanding that will enable men everywhere to live together in peace and goodwill."

The people of Australia were so impressed by the visit of Gold Dust II to their country that a group has had a kangaroo made up special as a present for Roddy. "Lucy Leaper" as she was christened, is on her way to the United States right now via Alitalia Airlines. She is making stops along the way visiting the leaders in the towns. Some of the children are being invited to write a message of goodwill to Roddy. Lucy's pouch is serving as her mail bag.

The whole thing has been like a great big dream to Roddy. He is concerned now how his "World Friendship Wreath" can best in the interest of improved human relations. Do you have any ideas?

Here is an orchid to greet you on becoming the new manager of the new Virginia Beach Sun. Congratulations both to Virginia Beach and to you; for you do indeed inherit a staff which will prove a joy to you.

Everyone on your staff seems to possess courtesy, understanding, informed minds, and a sense of humor. All seem to have a heart.

And speaking of hearts, this letter is to thank the Sun for its untiring efforts and excellent publicity given to the month-long Virginia Beach Heart Fund Drive. The Sun was right "with us" from the start to the last wrap-up.

And so, at Lent's beginning season of new life and hope and joy, accept a hearty "Thank You" from the Tidewater Heart Association in general and the Virginia Beach Branch in particular. May the Sun grow and prosper.

THE KEEP HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY

Historic briefs about the area now known as Virginia Beach.

In the early days of the Virginia Colony dissenting ministers to the Anglican Church had difficulty preaching their faith. Yet the Rev. Francis Makemie, of Scotch parentage, the Father of the Presbyterian Church in America, in 1684, wrote to the Rev. Mather in Boston that he preached to the people of Lynnhaven "assured of liberty . . . resolving to submit to the sovereign providence of God, who has been pleased . . . to drive me to his poor desolate people." However, a few years later, he knew much hindrance to his "liberty." Taking the matter to the Virginia Council in 1699 he won the following decree: "Mr. Francis Makemie . . . shall have liberty provided he use it civilly . . . and not disturb the peace of the Government." He married Naomi Anderson of Accomac, settled there, and preached happily ever after. Data taken from Virginia's Mother-Church, Vol. 1, by the Rev. G. McLaren Brydon.

SUNDAY FORUM

VIRGINIA BEACH—"From Mystery to Meaning" is the title of a talk to be given at the next Sunday Forum of the Association for Research and Enlightenment, 67th Street and Atlantic Avenue on Sunday, at 3:30 p.m.

The speaker will be J. Everett Irion of the Association staff. His talk will be based on his extensive reading in the Book of Revelation and the Cayce readings on the subject.

Irion has given many courses of study on this Book both in Dallas, Texas, where he was formerly a resident, and in Virginia Beach.

Responsible Planning

It is now two weeks since we arrived at Virginia Beach, after an eight year absence. Even before we came here to live, we were aware of the superficial changes that had taken place, making the city all the better. But upon closer inspection, the underlying changes which have made the superficial ones possible, have begun to come to light.

The most unskilled can drive along the main and secondary streets of the city and note tremendous growth, but the growth now appears to be taking on a plan and a purpose. The City Planning Commission has taken on a mammoth job, a necessary one and a difficult one. Simply keeping up with the new streets in the new subdivisions, and finding appropriate names for them with no duplication is a great task in itself. Adequate zoning standards and a good building code are both making Virginia Beach a better place—a city with a purpose and an ultimate goal.

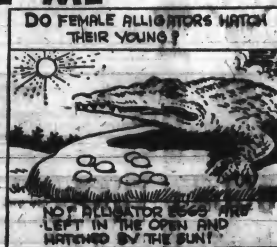

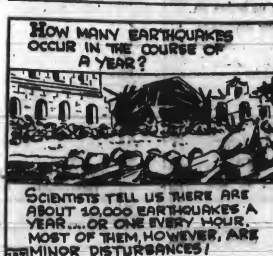

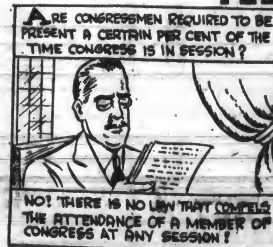

It is unfortunate that many dwellings were built and occupied before the purpose was put into effect, and before it was implemented. There are some areas of the city that can only qualify as organized slums. This is a pity. In the not too distant future, these areas will not even be liveable, and must yield to the bulldozers. It is not our purpose to point a finger of accusation at anyone or at any area. We all know where they are, and why they are there.

The needs of a fast-growing city are many and complex. Supply of anything has had and will continue to have a rough time catching up with the demands. It will take time. It is only unfortunate that lack of prior planning has made this necessary. Could the mushroom growth of Virginia Beach have been foreseen? We say, yes, it could have been. Perhaps all of the problems of an adolescent city reaching for maturity can not be predicted, but we feel that more of them should have been met—sooner. The net result probably would have been less organizational planning now. The military element of our economy is large, and it is welcome. We have had the military with us for more years than most care to remember. They are not leaving. They are temporary permanent residents. They are a large part of our economy. We have been aware for a long time that no reduction in personnel and dependents was forthcoming. In fact, even the most casual observer has been able to watch the military force in the area grow and prosper. And yet, for years no planning was done to meet increased demands. Yes, the planning is underway now. In many cases, the planning stage is over and actual implementation is underway.

We will recover. Supply will catch up with demand. The supply will be good. There is no need to cry over spilled ocean water. The major problems are in the past, hopefully, but there is still much to be done to make the consolidated city of Virginia Beach the sophisticated, cosmopolitan operating municipality it MUST be.

GIRL SCOUTS HOLD MEETING

BAYSIDE — The Bayside Neighborhood Girl Scout Cadette Troop No. 203 held an International Meeting recently, with special guests Commander and Mrs. Pierre L. Duran and their daughter Beatrice from France, and Mrs. Arthur J. Ireland and Miss Linda Mair from Canada, who brought information about scouting in other countries.

Linda wore her Canadian Girl Guide uniform which consists of a blue shirt and culottes, topped off with a handsome neckerchief representing the new Canadian flag. In Canada and France the Scouts are called Girl Guides but their promise and organization while different is essentially the same as in the United States. Their promise honors the Queen in addition to the usual.

The Girl Scout Cadettes in No. 203 who attended the meeting were Vickie Allen, Madeline Blume, Mary deLaurel, Karen Gresham, Sue Keller, Donna Pullen, Chris Rush, Carolyn Sherlock, Lynn Smith, Patricia Tylor, and Arline Waylor.

Little Joe's Car Home

DARLINGTON, S.C. — Little Joe's Traveller has finally come home.

Much like the famous steed that carried Marse Robert E. Lee through the War Between the States and to final defeat, the last race car Little Joe drove before his death now reposes in the swank stock car museum at Darlington Raceway that carries Little Joe's name.

Factory officials from Dearborn and Atlanta, Mercury dealers from South Carolina, Raceway officials and friends watched as master mechanic Bud Moore and Little Joe's pit crew tenderly unloaded the red and black number 8 and pushed it through the spacious doors into the $100,000 edifice.

Moore spent six months restoring the race car and the result is an immaculate work of art. Moore said, "Little Joe must have the best. If there is a better car here we'll take this one out and do it over again."

Bob Colvin, Darlington president and Little Joe's close friend, revealed the two-time champion's attitude on the much-discussed subject of retiring from the dangerous sport. Little Joe, himself, brought up the subject shortly before he left for that ill-fated race at Riverside, California.

"Pops," Little Joe said, "these ink boys are having quite a time retiring me and that's a lot of pigeon rattle. Some day I want to quit at the top but no one told me the holes in my head were showing. No one quits at the top. That's where the money is. Me and this Merc are going for the title again and if we miss then we'll make with the bed slippers and rocking chair chatter."

Little Joe didn't make it. The big museum will be opened to the public in May, during the Rebel 300 at Darlington and will eventually house some dozen historic race cars.

True to tradition the little champion's is the first.

Other exciting matches in the field of over one hundred grapplers included George Sansone's 1-0 victory over Mark Honaker of Maury in the 123 pound class and John Bilbo's overtime decision past Lindsey Suggs of Princess Anne at 180. The only pin of the finals was scored by Bernie Grimes of Craddock over Frank Kiefer of the Old Dominion Frosh in the heavyweight division.

ETHERIDGE OUTLINES CHANGES

CHESAPEAKE BEACH — The Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach held their regular meeting last week at the Shore Drive Inn. The Luncheon meeting was presided over by club president, Mrs. Colon L. Powers.

Program of the day was under the direction of the club's public affairs department, Mrs. Elwood A. Hudson, chairman. V. Alfred Etheridge was introduced as speaker following the viewing by club members of the film, "Yours for the Choosing," the Virginia Beach story.

Speaking briefly on the City's effort to adjust government to the changing times, he cited differences in problems today and those in the past and called for constructive thinking of the citizenry and those in leadership.

"Few of us realize, in these fast changing times, the vast difference even in our thinking between today and fifteen years ago," the treasurer said, and added, "80% of the products which we will buy 10 years from now have not even yet been thought of."

Etheridge went on to say that today's citizen lives in an age which trends towards services due in part to synthetic changes in the products we use.

"People have more leisure time due to the 40 hour work week. More money than ever before is in the hands of the people, building is at an all time high. Suburbia is now a way of life and some workers spend more time traveling to shopping centers and to the golf course than it takes to go back and forth to work."

Thus he stressed the importance of greater development of city recreational facilities. He referred specifically to the Rudee Inlet and Lynnhaven River dredging proposals.

"The Tourist business is our big business and expansion and improvement in our natural resources for this reason and for our own fast growing population is of the greatest importance."

Etheridge declared that big industry as such was not eminent for the City, and that if Virginia Beach is to continue to offer the services provided by all first rate cities, the fact must be faced that the tax rate will always have to increase accordingly.

Mrs. Lonnie B. Jarvis, membership chairman, announced that a Coffee would be given for new club members on Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Roy M. Harsen on Thoroughgood Drive.

Mrs. J. A. Holland was elected Delegate to the Virginia Federation State Convention in April.

PLAZA P-TA MEETS

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA — The next meeting of the Plaza P-TA will be held on Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Salinity Project Probably Ready In Few Weeks

VIRGINIA BEACH — The pumping of ocean water into Back Bay in an attempt to raise the salinity is expected to be in operation by the end of April, City Treasurer V. A. Etheridge, chairman of a 5-member committee named to the project, said Wednesday morning.

Officials signed a contract Tuesday with Hooker & Spruill of Elizabeth City for the construction of a pier and installation of the pump and lines. It will be located at the Little Island Coast Guard Station.

Exact amount of the contract was not known but Etheridge said it was "well within" the $35,000 appropriated recently by City Council for the project.

Some of the equipment is scheduled to be moved to the site today and construction will start immediately. The work is expected to take 21 to 25 days and, if the weather permits scheduled effect "before the end of April," Etheridge said.

The project is an experimental measure to improve silt conditions and the lack of waterfowl food in Back Bay by the introduction of salt water.

Biologists have advised that a higher percentage of salinity in the fresh water bay will settle suspended silt and allow sunlight through the cleared waters so that grasses and other natural foliage will grow. Hunting and fishing has been seriously impaired in the area in recent months by these conditions.

After extensive study into possible solutions to the problem, the council-appointed committee decided on the present plan which will pump 10 million gallons of ocean water into the bay each 10-hour working day.

The length of time the pumping will continue will depend on daily salinity tests to be made by qualified biologists. Once the percentage is up to par, however, the committee expects only to use the pump to offset heavy rain run-off.

Construction plans call for a wooden pier approximately 300 feet long, about 150 feet of which will extend into the Atlantic Ocean. The pump will be installed on a platform at the end of the pier.

The wooden structure will be built wide enough to allow a vehicle, so that the pump can be brought back to land in case of a severe storm or hurricane.

The pier will also be laid along the pier which will prohibit its use for fishing or any other activity. Etheridge said that, because of the pipe, the pier will remain locked at all times.

"The pier was not designed for fishing or any purpose other than the pumping operation and, for the protection of the public, it must remain locked," he said.

By Doris Padrick

Behind the papered-over windows at 317 Laskin Road is the hum of activity of two enterprising young men who plan to bring the best of the traditional fashions for men and women (from teens and up) in Virginia Beach and vicinity.

April 1 is the target date for opening. Much has gone before, and much is left to be done, but ambition combined with youth is an unbeatable combination overcoming all obstacles.

A. O. Clark III (Butch) and Fred Derring are the home-town boys who believe in Virginia Beach as the best possible area in which to live and to work. Clark is the son of Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Clark, Jr., and is part owner of THE CLOTHING CHEST with his father. Derring is the manager; he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Derring. Both are graduates of Virginia Beach High School and have attended the college of their choice.

Freddie went to VPI and is a fraternity brother in Delta Kappa Sigma (Deeks), and Butch belongs to Sigma Chi at UNC. Both are bachelors. But one half of the combination has been spoken for, girls! ... Fred is pinned to Miss Sharon Johnson of Mary Washington College. "I'm still available," declares Butch with an impish grin crinkling the corners of hazel eyes.

Each one has a good background for the position of proprietors in a sportswear haberdashery, having worked in local clothing stores during vacations and part-time.

They recently returned from an extended buying trip to New York and are understandingly impressed with the styles which they selected. Traditional fashions from the New England style centers will, cloth residents with taste and chic.

Exclusive lines from Stanley Blacker (outstanding sports coats), Kahala (a select surfing category of original Hawaiian prints in bathing suits, shorts, shifts, and cocktail dresses), Sol Newman slacks, and many other well-known labels will be found at THE CLOTHING CHEST.

Quietly elegant is the decor... Williamsburg green combines with antique gold and masculine walnut stain panelling. An open cupboard effect will display the clothing and there will be no racks on the floor. A bulletin board has been erected for the public service of displaying posters, announcing community and civic affairs and coming events.

A complete line of accessories will be available as well as apparel, and personal service to each and every customer is guaranteed. "If we don't stock it, we'll get it," emphasized Derring, "even if it is only a pair of socks."

Surfers, both male and female, will find everything they need and want in the way of wearing apparel at THE CLOTHING CHEST. ## NAVY NEWSPAPER WINS CERTIFICATE OF MERIT

CHARLES WHITEHURST PROMOTED

NORFOLK — Charles A. Whitehurst, assignment editor and newscaster for WTAR Radio and TV, in Norfolk, has been appointed Director of Public Affairs and News for WFMV-TV, in Greensboro, N.C., according to the Vice-President of the Broadcast Division for both WTAR and WFMV, Harold Seldinger. The Greensboro station has recently been acquired by WTAR.

A native of Norfolk, Whitehurst joined WTAR in 1958 as a member of the Public Affairs and News staff. He has served as writer, reporter, editor and producer of newscasts and documentaries. He has received numerous awards for outstanding reporting, and one of his documentaries, dealing with the Cuban missile crisis, was selected for national recognition.

Before entering the broadcast field, Whitehurst was a reporter with the Savannah, Georgia Morning News. A veteran of five years as an Air Force jet pilot, he is a graduate of Armstrong Junior College in Savannah, and has completed studies leading to a degree at Old Dominion College this spring.

He is married to the former Mary Elizabeth Weldon of Savannah. They have four children.

Whitehurst will assume his new duties in Greensboro the end of this month.

CITY OFFICIALS WILL OPEN FLOWER SHOW

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mrs. Andrew Johnson, Jr., chairman of the Third Annual Spring Flower and African Violet Show to be presented by the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach, has announced plans for a formal opening.

The show which will take place on March 27 and 28, at Linkhorn Park Elementary School on Laskin Road, will be opened officially at 3 p.m. on Saturday with a ribbon cutting attended by Mayor Frank Dusch and City Manager Russell Hatchett, Director of Parks and Highways Richard Webbon, President of the Tidewater District, Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs Mrs. Herbert Ellis, and a representative of the Garden Club of Virginia.

Also in attendance will be W. Earl Willis, a representative of the Virginia Beach Hospital. The beautification of the grounds of the new Virginia Beach Hospital has been adopted by the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach as a project for the next three years and a percentage of the receipts from the Flower and African Violet Show will be placed into this fund.

The show, one of the largest ever held in the area, will have several very interesting and unusual displays in the Educational Exhibit. Perhaps the most unusual will be a rare exhibit of fossil which is the art of drawing trees. The growing of miniature living trees planted in a shallow container is a genuine art and great skill is needed to train the plants into tiny forms that will resemble their normal shapes and habits of growth. Also included in the Educational Exhibit will be a unique display of o-rhids and a conservation exhibit presented by Seashore State Park.

Another vital portion of the show is the Junior Division headed by Mrs. M. J. Schwartz which is open to Junior Garden Clubbers and Girl Scouts alike. Their interest and talents never cease to amaze the more experienced gardeners.

Tickets for the show are now on sale for 75c from garden club members of the Council. After March 20th, and at the door, they will be 90c. Children under 12 years will be 25c.

Summer Sands Opens In June

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Summer Sands Playhouse will open for its second season late in June with an outstanding schedule of Broadway plays.

The schedule includes: "The Sound of Music," June 24-July 11; "The Seven Year Itch," July 13-18; "Anything Goes," July 20-Aug. 8; "GIGI," Aug. 10-15; and "Annie Get Your Gun," Aug. 17-Sept. 6.

The plays are lined up so that the season will open and close and hit mid-season with a musical. The other two are comedies.

The shows will be presented nightly, except Mondays, in the theatre-in-the-round tent at 19th Street and Arctic Avenue.

Season tickets will again sell for $12.50 which entitles one person to five performances. They may be used in one night for a group of five persons or may be spread out over the season for each of the five plays.

Single tickets will be $3.50 for musicals and $2.50 for comedies. Student tickets will be $1.50 per show for students under 21 years of age.

Only a limited number of season subscriptions are available. They may be obtained from the ticket chairman, Diane Liederman, 4200 Thalia Drive, Virginia Beach.

FIRING AREA SET BY ARMY

PENDLETON — The Virginia Army National Guard has announced that an area of the Atlantic Ocean off Camp Pendleton has been approved as a firing range danger zone for 10 days in June.

The zone, which will extend 8,000 yards into the ocean, will be adequately marked by red flags on the beach when firing is in progress.

There will be no firing after dark or during low visibility and it will be suspended as long as any vessel is within the danger zone. Look-outs will be posted during firing periods so that vessels may travel through the area but they may not remain in the area, except in an emergency.

Firing will be conducted from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily June 14-18 and on June 24-25. It will be discontinued June 21-23 while the Navy rehearses and conducts an amphibious landing exercise.

FIRM AGAIN CITES PULLEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S. last week honored Ragan Bradshaw Pulley of 148 Pinewood Rd., Virginia Beach, Va., at its five-day National Leaders Conference. Attendance was based on life insurance sales and service to policyowners during 1964.

Mr. Pulley was cited as a member of the Equitable Hall of Fame, an honor requiring a total of ten years' annual production of at least $1 million of life insurance coverage. He was also honored as a member of the Equitable Chairman's Council, an honor requiring the production of at least $1.5 million of life insurance coverage during one year. He is a member of the company's Ferebee Agency of Richmond.

Steven Tyler's "Sparky" was voted the "Cutest", behind it Jeffrey Carter with "Solo", and George Poffenberger with Miss Key.

SECOND GRADER'S HOLD PET SHOW

KINGS GRANT — Seven dogs, three cats, six turtles, three goldfish, a hamster, and a guinea pig all went to school last Friday morning. And surprisingly enough they seemed to know how to behave in a classroom. A few excited yipes from a young dachshund, some deep warning growls from the throat of a Siamese cat were infrequent additions to the murmurs of their proud owners and interested spectators.

Miss Key's second grade at King's Grant elementary school was the miniature menagerie scene at 9 a.m. when the beloved pets began to make their appearance accompanied by the slightly harried but willing mothers of the children.

As each new arrival was noted from the windows, the children were hard pressed to remain in their seats and to remain quiet, especially when the more fortunate ones closer to the windows would "oh" and "ah" and giggle before the rest of the class could see what was coming in.

The mothers sat on the small size chairs near the front of the room with the four-legged animals securely leashed, or in cages, or in bowls, depending upon their genetic heritage. Each was greeted with delight by the class and shy bashfulness by the master or mistress...

The dogs were curious and investigated the strange surroundings as far as the taut leash would let them; the cats surveyed the whole goings-on with sardonic boredom while comfortably relaxing on laps; the turtles poked heads out to look and as quickly retreated when approached.

Each child had a printed sign proclaiming the pet's name, and in turn proceeded to the front of the room to show off its beauty or ability. Ribbons were awarded to the Prettiest, the Funniest, Best Trick, and the Cutest.

The mothers were the judges. Casper, the white Persian cat, took the blue ribbon for the Prettiest; second was Gretchen, a lovely brown dachshund, and third went to Miss Key's Siamese cat, Funnies first prize went to Snaps, another dachshund; second was Droopy, a big spaniel; and George, John, and Ringo, who had neither hair nor sang a note (they are goldfish).

Princess, a black and tan dog, took first prize with her trick of sitting on a beg; Tommy the turtle had the next best trick as he showed his agility by walking across a bridge of pencils; and Spooky, another turtle, took third by living up to his name and looking across the display table. Only one prize was awarded the Cutest, and Sparky, a little black and white puppy, was the popular choice of all.

Though everyone's pet could not be awarded a ribbon, the uncommon addition to usual classroom routine delighted the children, the mothers, and the teacher. And lessons of appreciation for all living creatures and their habits along with good sportsmanship were learned that morning.

ARTHUR S. EHLMANN VISITS LOCAL EAGLES

Arthur S. Ehrmann, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Editor of Eagles Publications for the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will address members of Virginia Beach Aerie, on Friday, March 26, it was announced today by Leonard Boetcher, Worthy President of the Aerie.

The occasion will be a free spaghetti dinner for members and their guests in the Aerie Home, 2537 Pleasure House Road, Virginia Beach, to honor Mr. Ehrmann.

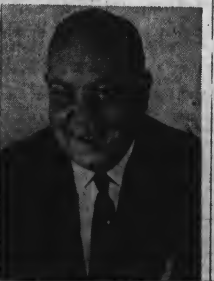

Ehrmann has made three trips to Europe and Africa — the first one under the auspices of the United States Navy in which he served 34 years with 27 months of combat duty included. Since then, he has visited the two continents, first as a representative of the Eagles in conducting a tour of a group of Broadway entertainers which played for military personnel stationed overseas; the second in which he was a member of a party of representatives of 69 organizations which made on-the-spot visits to Radio Free Europe installations on a tour conducted by Crusade for Freedom, which sponsors Radio Free Europe.

Ehrmann is a Past President and Past Secretary for the Wisconsin State Aerie. He is editor-in-chief of the international magazine of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. He served two terms as Worthy President of Milwaukee Aerie — interrupted by Navy service and for a good number of years served as Assistant City Attorney of Milwaukee and acted as its Legislative Counsel.

Long been active in national programs of the Eagles, Ehrmann was first chairman of the Fraternal's Damon Runyon Cancer Fund committee. Through the activities of the various Eagle units throughout the land, the committee of which he has remained the Executive Secretary has encouraged local units to raise more than one million dollars for the cancer research.

Currently, he serves as Director of the Max Baer Heart Fund for Coronary Research. The fund is named in memory of the late, World Heavyweight Champion, Max Baer, a life member of the Eagles.

STRONG CHURCHES...

make STRONG COMMUNITIES

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

We don't consider it eavesdropping to "hear" our children's prayers. Nor is it too much trouble! In fact, it is part of our responsibility to God.

For Mollie and Ted are His children, too. Parents are partners with—not substitutes for—our Heavenly Father.

It is this sense of partnership that has brought faith and the Church into the life of our family. We are not foolishly depending on our mere adulthood to inspire character in them. We do not command that they do what we say, not what we do. And we never sit at home while they are in Church, as though the truth they have gone to seek weren't worth a grownup's effort.

We figure God wants us at the listening post, to monitor their spiritual searchings, to share with them the blessings He has given us all.

Assembly To Be Held At U-K

KEMPSVILLE — Russell Capps, overseer of the host congregation of Jehovah's witnesses along with the rest of the Blvd. Unit are making extensive preparation for the three day assembly to be held at Union Kempsville High School this week-end.

Many delegates in tidewater will commute whereas still others from longer distances will spend the entire three days in the Virginia Beach-Norfolk area. This will necessitate door-to-door solicitation of guest rooms in private homes to accommodate them.

Overall administration and resourcefulness are used to make the assembly a success. There are 21 departments set up months in advance to thoroughly assure the smooth working of the assembly. Such departments are: Rooming, Cafeteria, Auditing, Baptism, Cleaning, Music, Public Relations, Purchasing, Sound, Lost & Found, Check Room, First Aid, Etc. These are all maintained by volunteer workers who do so willingly.

In order for the assembly program to function properly, a Chairman is appointed to coordinate the program for each session. Each speaker or student is selected in advance. It takes preparation and practice for their parts on the program. The Friday program serves as a model ministry school. Saturday and Sunday morning calls will be made to promote home bible studies with persons interested in embracing a new way of life. Saturday afternoon baptismal services will be performed. A special evening program will be highlighted for all to benefit. The climax of the three day training program will be the highly advertised public discourse "The Moral Breakdown What Can Be Done About It?" To be delivered by Mr. J. A. Thompson, Jr. at 3 p.m. After which concluding comments will be given to aid all present.

REV. POWELL GUEST SPEAKER

VIRGINIA BEACH — Dr. Howard P. Powell from Raleigh, N.C. will be the guest speaker for the Evening Lenten Services to be conducted at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church commencing this Sunday evening, at 7:45 p.m.

Dr. Powell has spent over 40 years in the active ministry of the Methodist Church. His last pastorate was at the Edenton Street Methodist Church in Raleigh where he served for 15 years.

In 1963 he was retired at his own request for the privilege of giving the rest of his active ministry to the area of Spiritual Life and Evangelism.

Mr. Archie Twiford from Norfolk will be present each evening to lead the spirited congregational singing.

The Lenten Services will be held each night at 7:45 p.m., Sunday through Friday, during the coming week. Nursery services will be available in the church. All are cordially invited to attend.

NEWS REPORT FROM THE UNIVERSITY

Engineering Revolution
The engineering profession has been in recent years in the process of rapid change and development. Often the techniques a student learns while in school are outdated by the time he graduates. The University of Virginia School of Engineering and Applied Science has tried to modify its curriculum to keep up with the ever-developing science and technology.

For many years the University has offered bachelors' degrees in five basic areas of engineering, chemical, aerospace, civil, electrical and mechanical. In recent years, graduate instruction has been added in all these fields.

Other areas of specialization have been added at the graduate level, and the degree of doctor of science is offered also in nuclear engineering, applied mechanics, applied mathematics and computer science, materials science, biomedical engineering, and engineering physics.

Industry recognizes the importance of graduate study but must still draw many of its employees from the ranks of men having only bachelors' degrees.

To produce graduates who can enter industry in a useful capacity without additional graduate specialization means that some specialization must be introduced at the undergraduate level.

However, such specialization is not always the most desirable approach to graduate study. Thus a curriculum in engineering science has been introduced. This gives the student who expects to enter graduate study a broader picture of the engineering plan.

The University recognized the need for a program of development and design to give the engineering student a better perspective of the entire profession.

The Industrial Research and Development Center, which operates as a part of the Research Laboratories for the Engineering Sciences, was established recently to fulfill this need.

The center offers the University's facilities for specific needs of industries.

The problems which industries pose are a stimulus to undergraduate students through their professors and will provide research problems for graduate students.

For industry, it is a chance to benefit from the reservoir of technical manpower provided by the faculty and students of the University as well as from the physical facilities of the Laboratories of the school.

Government, as well as industry, benefits from the engineering school's programs. The School of Engineering and Applied Science, in cooperation with the School of General Studies, has been serving the state by offering undergraduate and graduate instruction in various industrial centers over the state.

It is possible for a student working in industry to get as much as half of his course work for a master's degree through evening classes and then come to the University for a semester to complete the course work.

TEEN TOPICS

By
Apt. Home Demonstration Agent

Have you ever wished that you had a little extra money? Perhaps you have been confronted with the problem of not having enough money to go on a weekend trip or to purchase a dress for a special occasion. If you have faced such situations no doubt you have already thought about saving money. A little money placed into savings every few weeks adds up, and it can be used to treat you to a special outing.

The best and safest way to save is to place your money in a savings account. You have probably all heard of incidents in which money was stolen from a cookie jar or removed from under a mattress, and therefore it is not a good idea to leave money in your home. So, why don't you begin your savings account now. A small sum of money derived from your earnings from babysitting and other employment or a part of your allowance can grow if you deposit regularly in a savings account.

Once you have decided to set aside part of your money for savings you will be confronted with the question of where to open your savings account. Basically there are two kinds of banks where you can open a savings account. First, there are commercial banks which are owned by stockholders and are located in most cities and towns in the United States. Some of the commercial banks are organized under federal law and are called National Banks. In addition, there are also commercial banks which are organized under state law and these banks are called State Banks. Both the National and State Banks offer a small percentage of interest which is usually 3 to 4 percent of your savings and it may be compounded annually, semi-annually or quarterly depending upon the bank. Many of these banks require minimum deposits of approximately $10.

The second type of bank is the Mutual Savings Bank. These banks are owned by the depositors and they are state chartered and located mostly in the northeastern United States. These banks generally pay 3 to 4 percent interest dividends, although they may pay more depending upon their own profits.

In addition to the commercial banks and the mutual savings banks there are local savings and loan associations. These banks are owned by depositors and some are operated under state law and others under federal law. The interest rates in the savings and loan associations are usually higher, generally 4 percent or more, since the money deposited with them is invested elsewhere so as to make money. Consequently, the dividends which you receive depends on the bank's profits. However, money deposited with savings and loan associations often cannot be withdrawn as easily or quickly as it can from the commercial banks, and you may have to give them several days' or weeks' notice.

Most of you no doubt have heard of the Christmas Clubs or Vacation Clubs which are operated by most of the banks. When participating in such a program, you deposit a regular amount each week or month. The main disadvantage to such a savings system is that these savings are generally short-term and do not earn any interest.

Now that you have learned something about savings accounts, I hope that many of you will decide to open one. Maybe if you stopped and added up all the costly little odds and ends which you purchased, perhaps you would decide to save a portion of your earnings or allowance for special occasions.

"FIGHT DIRTY WATER" WILDLIFE THEME

"Fight Dirty Water" is the theme of Wildlife Week being observed throughout Virginia and across the nation March 14-20. Game Wardens William Nance and G. C. Fentress of Virginia Beach announced today. The annual event is sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation and its state affiliate, the Virginia Wildlife Federation. Protecting our waters from pollution in the face of increasing industrial development and a growing population is a matter to take an increasing amount of vigilance and understanding on the part of residents of this community, Warden William Nance and G. C. Fentress said.

A great deal of progress has been made in cleaning up Virginia streams since the enactment of the State Water Control Law in 1946. Progress to date has been mainly in cleanup of large, obvious and esthetically distasteful pollution sources. The more subtle effects on stream environment have yet to be fully evaluated and plans formulated to cope with them. The battle to keep our waters in usable condition is destined to become tougher instead of easier.

Wardens Nance and Fentress will be working with representatives of other state and federal agencies and members of Virginia Wildlife Federation clubs to outline steps that people in this community can take to protect their livelihood, their health and their recreation from the ever-present danger of pollution. Groups desiring special programs or materials may contact R. S. Bernard, 1432 Hazel Ave., Chesapeake, Va., local Wildlife Week Chairman.

DR. SPRAGUE SPEAKS AT SYMPOSIUM

By Douglas Arnold Barnes
NORFOLK — A Symposium on cardiovascular diseases would not seem to be a humorous affair, but along with the serious discussions at the luncheon given recently to more than 300 heart specialists, doctors, their wives, nurses, and students, Dr. Howard B. Sprague, elder statesman of cardiology, entertained his audience with his lecture on the "Advantages of Stress".

Dr. Sprague was introduced by Dr. William A. Dickinson Jr., chairman of the professional education committee, speaking on the normalcy of stress and tension in every phase of life today, he stated that "no one can live without stress; there is no possible easy way of life today nor any definite security. Only making the most of what is given you and by your own efforts at adjustment can you achieve contentment."

"Domestic stress and home worries are worse than those in an office, and although fewer married males have heart attacks than the divorced or single ones, women and wives must not make a home a place to hang one's head" rather than one's hat. Man is a highly tuned animal with a definite non-capacity for nest-building. The dreaded chloroform is often built up by a wife's insistence on keeping up a social status, and the husband's attempt to please his "better half," temperance and moderation in everything is desirable," concluded Dr. Sprague.

The Symposium was held at the Golden Triangle in Norfolk and was hosted by Drs. Robert J. Robertson and Dr. William A. Dickinson of Virginia Beach.

Other distinguished speakers were Captain R. J. Pearson, Jr., MC USN, Dr. Robertson, president of the Tidewater Heart Association, Dr. Charles A. Hufnagel, Dr. Clarence A. Imboden, Jr., Dr. Dickinson, Dr. Alvin Margolius, Jr., Dr. Ray W. Gifford, Jr., Dr. Frederick C. Bantier, Dr. Eugene F. Poutasse, and Mrs. Paul Merzler.

Farmers— Look How Little it Really Costs To Avoid Crop Troubles

When you plant a crop and get a lot of weeds, that's trouble. When you get a spotty stand, that's more trouble. And when you get yields below the break-even point, that's the most trouble of all. By planting Southern States Quality Seeds, however, you can avoid these expensive crop troubles—for less cost than you may think. Did you know that Southern States Quality Seeds usually give you more pure live seeds for your money—than the cheap, inferior, unprofitable seeds that cause all the grief? Southern States Quality Seeds represent only about 5% of your total crop production expense. When the best costs so little, why plant anything less? See your Southern States Cooperative Agency now.

NBC TO PRESENT JUNIOR MISS PAGEANT

NBC will present first network colorcast of "America's Junior Miss Pageant," with James Franciscus as host.

James Franciscus ("Mr. Novak") will be host of the first network colorcast of "America's Junior Miss Pageant" national finals, which will be presented on NBC-TV live from Mobile, Ala., Friday, March 19 (10-11 p.m. EST.).

The ceremonies will climax four days of preliminary judging in which 50 "ideal high school senior girls," one from each state, will be evaluated in various categories. The finalists selected from this group will appear on the colorcast, during which one will be crowned "America's Junior Miss for 1965" and the four runners-up will be chosen.

The 50 seniors, who will arrive in Mobile a week before "America's Junior Miss Pageant," will be observed and rated in categories including Poise and Appearance, Youth Fitness, Creative or Performing Arts, Mental Alertness and Scholastic Achievement.

The special program will be sponsored by Scott Paper Company. The advertising agency is J. Walter Thompson Company. The colorcast of "America's Junior Miss Pageant" will be produced by Robert Bendick, whose production credits include the "Wide World" and "Today" NBC-TV series and such highly-rated NBC-TV specials as "Opening Night at the World's Fair" and "America's Cup" international yacht race.

The 50 semi-finalists for the title of "America's Junior Miss" are selected from among many thousands of girls through hundreds of local contests, which are followed by a pageant in each state of the Union. Substantial scholarship awards are made during the many local and state selections — more than $150,000 was awarded during the 1964 Pageant year. Other awards are also given by sponsoring civic organizations and representatives of "America's Junior Miss Pageant."

The final winners share $14,000 in scholarship grants which may be used at any approved educational institution. "America's Junior Miss" will receive a $6,000 grant, the first runner-up a grant of $4,000, the second runner-up a $2,000 grant and the third and fourth runners-up grants of $1,000 each.

(NOTE: "America's Junior Miss Pageant" March 19, will preempt "The Jack Paar Program.")

Gardner Comedy At Little Theatre

NORFOLK — Two leading actors in "A Thousand Clowns," the next production of The Little Theatre of Norfolk, will be making their debuts on stage as characters in their real professional field.

The central figure in the Herb Gardner comedy is a television writer, Murray Burns, to be portrayed by Gary Lawrence. Burns has walked out of the "Chuckles The Chipmunk Show" in disgust, and Leo "Chuckles" Herman, played by Bob Dean, wants him to return. Both Dean and Lawrence are local radio-TV personalities.

Sharing Burns' non-conformist one-room apartment is his nephew, precocious 12-year-old Nick, Leskie Adair's first role with NLT. The Bureau of Child Welfare concludes that this off-beat environment is not proper for Nick. Gretchen Adkins, as Miss Sandra Markowitz, susceptible fledgling psychologist, and Stephen A. Molasky, as hard-boiled social worker Albert Amundson, are therefore sent to investigate the case. Miss Adkins, with high school theatrical experience, and Molasky, in Theater Intime and Community Players at Princeton, and movie reviews and a jazz program on the University's radio station, are also newcomers to the NLT.

John Hancock will appear as Arnold Burras, a big-time agent pressuring his brother Murray to return to work. Hancock made his debut with NLT in "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof."

Jon Dawson is director of "A Thousand Clowns," which will be presented April 2 through April 10 at the Little Theatre of Norfolk.

FORSYTHE AND DAVIS STAR IN NBC COMEDY

"The Mr. and The Misses," a half-hour comedy series starring John Forsythe and Ann B. Davis, will be presented on the NBC-TV Network Mondays 8-8:30 p.m. NYT during the 1965-66 season, fully sponsored by Colgate-Palmolive Company, it was announced by Mort Werner, Vice President, Programs, NBC-TV Network.

The series revolves around an Air Force major, a bachelor who inherits and becomes headmaster of an exclusive San Francisco school for girls; his single-but-still hopeful woman assistant, and their 120 teenage charges.

Forsythe, who starred formerly in the "Bachelor Father" TV series, portrays Major Ponathan (John) Foster, 41, an unattached Air Force pilot. Foster inherits Miss Foster's School for Girls, and learns that the faculty expects him to become the headmaster for 120 exuberant young ladies who attend the school. His first act is to change its name to Major Foster's School for Girls.

Miss Davis, who had played Schultz in NBC-TV's "Bob Cummings Show," portrays the headmaster's assistant, Miss Ann Bradford, a cheerful spinster. Until Major Foster's arrival, Miss Bradford was so absorbed in her work that she hardly realized it had been many years since her last date.

"The Mr. and The Misses" Gene Sheldon, veteran performer of stage, night clubs and films, rounds out the regular cast as the only other man on the school's staff. He plays 68-year-old Eustice Canfield, caretaker and maintenance man extraordinary, who has both understanding and sympathy for Major Foster.

MARTIN, LEWIS IN SAT. MOVIE

Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis and Donna Reed star in a wild, romantic comedy, "The Caddy," on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night at the Movies" Saturday, March 20 (9 p.m. EST to conclusion).

(Martin will star in his own NBC-TV weekly variety series, "The Dean Martin Show," during the 1965-66 season.)

In "The Caddy," best friends Joe Anthony (Martin) and Harvey Miller (Lewis) would rather play golf than work. Though he is an excellent golfer, Harvey is too nervous to play before the galleries. Instead, he coaches his sidekick and does so well that Joe becomes a fairway sensation. But their dedication to golf is complicated by romantic involvements — Joe with socialite Kathy Taylor (Miss Reed) and Harvey and Lisa (Barbara Bates), Joe's sister — and a very unusual, important tournament.

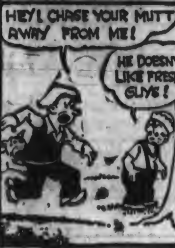

"The Caddy," a 1953 Paramount release, was produced by Paul Jones and directed by Norman Taurog. Edmund Hartmann and Danny Arnold wrote the screenplay from a story by Arnold with additional dialogue by Ken Englund. The film features six songs by Jack Brooks and Harry Warren, including the hit, "That's Amore."

Saturday Night at the Movies: "The Caddy" — Romantic comedy about two friends who would rather play golf than work. Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis and Donna Reed star.

COLOR SPECIAL ON NBC

For 25 years NBC's Ben Grauer has been in love with what he calls a "beautiful road" — the Inter-American Highway, now covering 3,600 miles between Laredo, Texas, and the still-unconquered Darien Jungle of Panama.

On the NBC-TV Network Tuesday, March 23 (10-11 p.m. EST), Grauer will narrate a portion of "Inter-American Highway: Bridge of the Americas," a full-hour NBC News, color special written and produced by Lou Hazam.

A long-time student of archaeology in Middle America, Grauer will describe the ruins of Copan in Honduras, once the leading city of the Mayan Indian culture.

"Copan was a thriving center a thousand years before Columbus saw America," Grauer says. "Silent, mysterious, the remnants of its glory today are but decaying stone. From 400 to 800 A.D. Copan was the Alexandria of the Mayan world. No one yet has solved the mystery of Copan."

RECITAL AT CENTER

SALES TAX IN HANDS OF THE CITY COUNCIL

VIRGINIA BEACH — Although official action on the city sales tax ordinance is still two weeks away, City Council Monday received copies of the complicated 51-page document for study and consideration.

Barring any unforeseen complications, the ordinance will probably be passed on first reading at the April 12 meeting and become official on second reading at the April 26 meeting. Between those two dates, however, the tax ordinance will be advertised and a public hearing will probably be scheduled.

It will go into effect on June 1. Collections will be due the 20th of each month for the preceding month's sales. Tangible items and merchandise purchased prior to June 1, either by cash, charge or mortgage, regardless of delivery, will not be taxable.

The ordinance places a two per cent tax on the sale of cost price of articles of tangible personal property over 14 cents. Its retail bracket system explains that items from 15 to 65 cents has a 1 cent tax; 66 cents to $1.24, 2 cents; and so on. It is a straight 2 cents, and so on. It is a straight 2 per cent on items between $10 and $200 and a flat $4 for purchase over $200.

The amusement, restaurant and lodging taxes, imposed earlier by the city, makes these items exempt. The new tax will

WEBBON SPEAKS FOR CITY AT HEARING

VIRGINIA BEACH — Director of Public Works Richard Webbon was asked Monday by City Council to represent the city before the Water Control Board at a public hearing in Richmond Tuesday on the emptying of treated sewage into the Eastern Branch of the Elizabeth River.

Webbon carried with him a resolution from council asking that no permanent discharge of sewage into any river or stream be permitted because the Hampton Roads Sanitation District will "eventually take over the entire area."

Many Professions Explored

A variety of professions were explored through individual consultations between students and guest professionals at a Career Night at Cox High School. Here Mrs. G. A. Atwood of Norfolk General Hospital discusses medical technology with a group of interested girls in one of the more than 100 consultations. The event was highly successful, drawing hundreds of students, parents and guest speakers. (Boice Photo)

MARINA HEARINGS PLANNED

VIRGINIA BEACH — City officials plan to hold a public hearing on the proposed marinas in the Lynnhaven dredging project before selecting their locations.

Council accepted Planning Director F. Mason Gamage's suggestion on the hearings at Monday's meeting. Time and date will be announced later.

Three possible marina sites have been submitted to council.

Narrows Marina would be located at the base of 64th Street on the Narrows connecting Broad and Linkhorn Bays. The marina channel would be dredged between the sandy beach along the Narrows and the shoreline of Seashore State Park. Plans call for ample parking space, a boat ramp, pier and floating dock, restrooms, picnic area and other facilities.

The Dolphin Marina, for commercial craft, would be located on the eastern shore of Long Creek, near Lesner Bridge, and would include a 16-foot bulkheaded walkway with gas pumps along the Creek and a 150-foot wide channel set in off an adjoining canal.

An Island Marina for recreational craft would be located on a narrow finger of land extending from the base of Broad Bay Road, separating Long Creek from Long Creek Canal, facing the existing Long Creek Marina. It would include a large parking area and a number of boat slips.

CHOICE OF SCHOOLS

VIRGINIA BEACH — The School Board's newly adopted freedom-of-choice system of placing pupils went into effect this week with the distribution of forms for school preference.

The forms enable parents and children living in a school district with more than one school to list the school of their choice. Students in districts with only one school will be assigned to that school.

SCOUT-A-RAMA

VIRGINIA BEACH — More than 42 units of Boy Scouts will be participating in the Scout-A-Rama which will open Saturday at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center at 2 p.m. and will run until 7 p.m.

Fire Claims Life

A volunteer fireman inspects the charred remains of a trailer near Chinese Corner in which Mrs. Jennie Linkenhog Hunt, 90, died last Thursday afternoon. Units from the Kempsville and Davis Corner Volunteer Fire Departments answered the call but the small metal trailer was already engulfed in flames. The victim apparently was trapped inside. Cause of the blaze has not been determined. (Photo by Don Fantone)

Norwegian Memorial Service Saturday

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Norwegian Lady statue will be a significant and silent witness to an annual commemorative service Saturday at 10:45 a.m.

After 15 minutes of music by the Princess Anne High School Band, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Virginia Beach Fire Department will pay annual tribute to "The Lady" with a ceremony memorializing the sinking of the "Dic-tator" March 27, 1891.

At 11:00 a.m. Mrs. William Hoggard, President of the Auxiliary will place a floral wreath at the foot of the statue. While the Norwegian flag is lowered the Reverend Hughes of London Bridge Baptist Church will give the invocation. City Manager Russell Hatchett, Virginia Beach's representative, to Moss, Norway for the unveiling ceremonies September 1962 of an identical statue there, will give a brief address. Mayor Frank Dusch and Norwegian Consul Rolfe Williams will also speak briefly on the significance of the statue and the memorial ceremony. Among other dignitaries will be Commander Bjorn Brundland of the Norwegian Navy, Saclant, and Chamber of Commerce officials, President A. B. Crews and Executive Vice President Albin Mailhes.

A group of the Ladies' Auxiliary in uniform will form an avenue, for Mrs. Beverly Hicks, their vice-president, to carry the wreath to a DUWK which will take Mrs. Hicks and members of the official party off-shore for placing the wreath in the water.

The wreath in the initial ceremony in 1963 washed ashore on the beach in front of the Sandbridge summer home of the Norwegian Consul, Rolfe Williams. The ceremony will be concluded by the Navy hymn played

Officer Attacked With Own Night Stick

VIRGINIA BEACH — Police Officer R. E. W. Sparrow was attacked and beaten with his own night stick late Monday afternoon as he investigated a disturbance on Washington Avenue.

Police said that the officer attempted to get an onlooker to move on when the man grabbed Sparrow's night stick and began hitting him about the head and face.

Isaac Collins of 804 17th Street was later arrested and charged with failing to move on, cursing a police officer, resisting arrest and felonious assault.

Sparrow was treated at Virginia Beach hospital for multiple abrasions and cuts about the head, nose and mouth. He was later released.

The beating took place about 2:30 Monday. Collins was taken into custody a short time later.

SHELL EXPERT CLUB SPEAKER

VIRGINIA BEACH — A joint meeting of the Whispering Pines Garden Club and the Cardinal Garden Club was held recently in the auditorium of Prince's at Hilltop for an informative program on functional and decorative uses for sea shells and other marine life presented by Zida Artup, operator of the Nautilus Shop.

Zida presented each one with a "sand dollar" (in reality, the skeletal remains of the sea urchin) and recounted the religious legend of the sand dollar.

Extraordinary displays of coral, oyster, abalone, sponge, conch, starfish, and the many-chambered nautilus were shown. Included was a carved shell showing the rendering of an authentic clam.

Suggestions for the use of the many sea treasures throughout the home as serving dishes and vases were given by Zida. The most surprising use was of a large bi-valve as a baking dish. The one on display was about 12 inches across and was only a small one, she said, she has used much larger ones for king beverages and baking fish recipes.

Relics of pre-historic times were also shown — teeth from the woolly mammoth which roamed the earth during glacial period, and equally ancient was a fossilized nautilus.

The 'Y' of It

By MARGARET EADY

The Virginia Beach Presbyterian Church has been the locale these past eight weeks for what has been one of the most successful YWCA Ladies' Day Out Series in recent months. There has been such a warm feeling of friendliness and informality among all the participants.

Likewise Mrs. Bryan's Trinitastics class won't put on a calisthenics demonstration, but a loss of inches in measurement is obviously there.

There will be nursery facilities during the luncheon period and besides exchanging pleasantries and observing what has been done in the various classes, there will be an election of officers of the Virginia Beach Council for the ensuing year. Immediately following the luncheon there will be an Evaluation meeting of the Council in the Ladies' Parlor of the Presbyterian Church.

'The Irregular Verb To Love' Try-Outs Set

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Little Theatre will hold tryouts Monday and Tuesday night at the Courtyard Playhouse for the final play of the 1964-65 season.

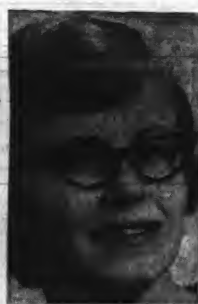

The Hugh and Margaret Williams situation comedy, "The Irregular Verb To Love" was first performed in England in 1961, and presented on Broadway in 1963 with Cyril Richard and Claude Colbert in the leads.

It concerns a woman, Hedda, who carries on a vigorous crusade against cruelty to animals. Deciding to take the situation in hand, she manufactures homemade bombs and blows up fur shops. The play opens on her return from a year in prison to find an unfaithful husband, a beatnik son, and a daughter with other problems.

Little Theatre president, Bill Britton, will direct the production which needs a cast of nine. They are: Hedda and Felix — the mother and father, a determined woman, and a gentle humorous man; Lucy, the daughter — an attractive divorcee in her early 20's; Michael — the proposed son-in-law; Andrew — an individualist, turned beatnik, in early 20's; Fedra — a young girl, 18 or so, who speaks Greek (not a word of English during the show); Mrs. Couter — a middle aged housekeeper; plus two minor roles of Rachael — a mannish woman columnist; and Mr. Andribo — a Greek waiter.

The production will open May 6 for five performances. Tryouts are scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Courtyard Playhouse on 17th street just off Atlantic Ave.

Party Line

By OLGA EDWARDS

The wearing of the green was in full array Saturday night at the Cavalier hotel ballroom with more than 250 guests attending the annual dinner dance given by William F. Foley.

Mrs. Colleen Foley, acting as hostess for her husband, resembled a mermaid with her beautiful tan and long gown of green sequins. I almost felt as if this lovely person would surely return to the waters of Ireland.

The buffet tables were not only filled with foods that would excite the appetite but were beautifully decorated with green candies and shamrocks.

Enjoying the buffet dinner were Mr. & Mrs. Robert Ballard, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Renze, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gearhart, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Garcia, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Hasler, Commander and Mrs. J. E. Honsinger, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Pulley and many others.

On entering the ball room my thoughts were, "Surely I must be in Ireland," as my eyes beheld the loveliness of the women either dressed in green or wearing head bands of shamrocks and the gentlemen all wearing hats of green. In lifting my eyes to the ceiling of the ball room I found to my amazement that even the chandeliers were dressed in green. Balloons of green and white were floating everywhere. Only the breaking of a balloon brought me back the realization that I was not in Ireland.

Among those dancing were: Captain Walter J. Baldwin and his guest, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carlo of Norfolk, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Casper, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hasler, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jacobs of Norfolk, Mr. and Mrs. William Kellam, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McGarvey, Col. and Mrs. C. E. A. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Nelliger, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Phillips, r. and Mrs. J. L. Roper, III, Captain and Mrs. A. W. Swan, and Miss Maureen Foley.

The Jaycees of Virginia Beach were celebrating at the Bay Harbour club Saturday night. While talking to Andre Evans, the president of the Jaycees, I asked what they were celebrating. The

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

The Tax Of Last 'Resort'

Now we know for sure. The sales tax is coming to Virginia Beach. We knew before that it was coming, but City Council had not received the actual implementing ordinance. Now the matter is in Council's hands, and in the hands of the public-spirited citizens of Virginia Beach. There is little doubt of the eventual passage of the ordinance, either in its original form or in a slightly revised version. It will be the law by the time the summer season at Virginia Beach begins. We look upon it as a necessary evil.

The tax is needed to balance the budget. It is needed to go forward. It is needed to meet present and future needs. We accept all of this, and we accept the imposition of another tax, but we don't have to like it. We seriously doubt that anyone is gladdened by having to shell out a few more pennies on most purchases, but at least a sales tax is less painful than some other taxes, where full amount must be paid all at once.

The ramifications of the proposed Virginia Beach sales tax are many and complex. The enabling legislation covers fifty-one single-spaced long typewritten pages. We have waded through the ordinance, and find it to be almost to the letter like most other local sales tax ordinances, either already passed or awaiting formal vote. Although we fear being repetitious, we still don't like it, but we consider it to be a fair and equitable tax. A sales tax, which involves everyone, is certainly more equitable than several other taxes already on the books. And it will bring in more money to the city coffers than some other taxes have managed to bring in.

Governor Harrison has called the sales tax on any level, "the tax of last resort." For many years statewide sales tax bills have been buried in committees. Virginia is one of very few states without such a levy. But there are others; just recently Idaho beat back a gallant sales tax attempt for the fourth time in recent years. We fully agree with the Governor. It is a tax of last resort. After the imposition of a sales tax, what next? The Governor says the next step will be to increase the sales tax. Again we agree. That's the only logical place to go.

"Backyards"—Thought-Provoking

An interesting question was raised at last Wednesday's School Board meeting. Should the board give preference to Virginia Beach firms on bids since they are tax-payers? In other words, should we keep our tax money in our own backyards? A thought-provoking question and certainly one that deserves careful consideration before making any policies, which is exactly what the board decided to do.

There are many sides to this question, both moral and monetary. But let's try to look at them realistically. The money we are speaking of comes from taxes which comes from all the citizens of Virginia Beach. Many can well afford their tax dollars. Others cannot. They shop on limited budgets and seek the most for their money. To expect the city to do the same with hard-earned tax money is not unreasonable. And it would be our guess

Up. That we cannot endorse or condone. The Governor says if a sales tax had been adopted ten years ago, the revenue would have been used up by now. We asked him should it be adopted in the next General Assembly session, if he believed it would be used up in the next ten years: His unequivocal answer was, "Definitely." Governor Harrison is absolutely against a statewide sales tax. So are many others high in state government. However, Governor Harrison says that the proliferation of local sales taxes is hastening the day when a statewide levy will come into being. Once more, we agree. It may very well come next year. There is no great push for it yet, but several legislators, who have been completely against, now appear to be at least more receptive to the idea. Probably one of the major reasons for the slight attitude change is the college crisis. The lack of facilities and classroom space for the great number of prospective enrollees is causing many to take a long look at income which could be gained from a sales tax. But, lest we forget, had Virginia Beach waited for the adoption of a statewide tax, the income would not have been as great to the city. The state would have benefited more.

Now the problem arises, what will become of local sales taxes in the event of eventual adoption on a statewide level? Certainly our legislators are not going to Richmond and vote for a tax that will bring less money to the localities than is already being received on a local basis. If the mushrooming of local sales taxes is actually hastening a state sales tax, this problem could well be met head-on next January. Most likely, it will be.

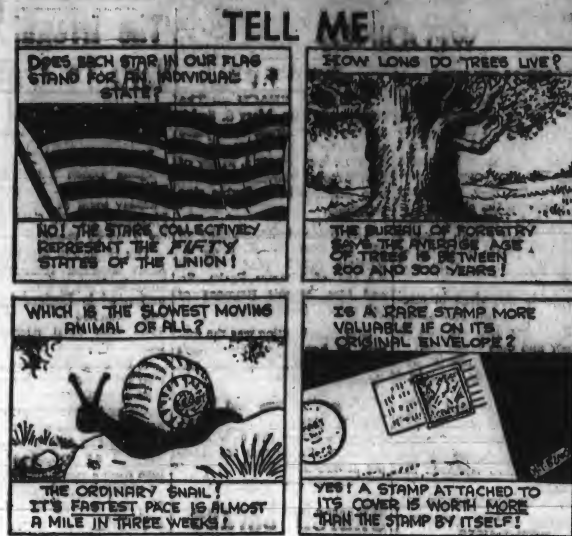

To the World's Largest Resort City, the two per cent levy, which is scheduled to take effect on June first, is truly a tax of last resort. We don't like it. But we understand the need for it, and, although it won't be cheerfully, we'll dig a little deeper, and pay. It will make the city grow and prosper, and we're glad it will be over and done with before the state has a chance to take a hand in it and possibly gives Virginia Beach less money.

that the citizens who can afford their tax dollars would also expect the city to economize whenever possible. Not economize falsely by purchasing inferior products but by accepting the lowest bid on specified requirements.

We are firm believers in shopping in our own backyards. The stores within our city are diversified enough for all incomes. But when it comes to the School Board or any other tax-supported department spending funds, we feel they should seek the low bidders. We would like to see more Virginia Beach firms win these bids. We would like to see the tax money stay in its backyard. But not at the risk of paying more. This would eventually catch up with us, though perhaps not immediately, so that it would require higher taxes to purchase or construct the city's necessities. We doubt if local bidding firms would approve of higher taxes.

cars involved in traffic violations, etc. they might easily lead police to the door of innocent people.

It would save the Police Department valuable time wasted on useless investigation and prevent some rather uncomfortable and embarrassing situations if the general public will keep in mind that the 1964 tags are still in force until after April 15 and they should, for the protection of their owners, be kept secured until the 1965 tags go into effect.

The Unsinkable Molly Brown

Newspaper people and all members of the various communications media have a reputation for being blasé. We are supposedly used to the unusual and unbroken by the spectacular. We would like to think that part of the reputation is well founded. It allows us to report the facts under the worst possible conditions, and it enables us to operate under the stress of the out of the ordinary. Part of the reputation, regretfully, is only a myth. We are not so callous, so unfeeling, so unemotional, or so unswayed by the magnificent, that we did not feel empathy, apprehension and even awe in the final moments before astronauts Gus Grissom and John Young blasted off to keep their appointment with fate and history.

Cape Kennedy is far from Virginia Beach. Gus Grissom and John Young are merely important names to us. But, as the Molly Brown soared into outer space, our outer facade—the blasé facade—was broken down. In fact, it completely disappeared. All work in this newspaper office ceased from 11:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. as we gathered, watched and waited as the long seconds ticked away. When orbit was achieved, the work began again for us. But, as we began anew, somehow, we felt uplifted, not necessarily because an odd-shaped craft was a hundred miles up traveling at five miles a second, but also because of the pride we felt in the achievements of America's scientists and technicians.

We had additional moments of apprehension as the craft was flown out of orbit on its return trip to earth some five hours later, and all work stopped again. When it was over, we could not help feeling glad that we were a small part of it all. We were only United States citizens, happy to be alive in such a magnificent era. Molly Brown, Gus Grissom and John Young are only symbols of the age. The two astronauts are heroes to us. They performed their mammoth tasks calmly and methodically, and to them, it's all in a day's work. But to us, they are the symbols of a new and different life to come. They are helping to conquer outer space and man's new vistas. The Molly Brown is just another success, but we at the Virginia Beach Sun at Virginia Beach, Virginia, are unashamedly proud that we are not too blasé to care. Thank you Molly, Gus and John for showing us that we really do still care.

Dear Editor:
I would like to say thank-you to all the people of Virginia Beach for helping to make me the happiest country boy in Georgia.

I am referring to my recent trip to Virginia that was given to me by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and Innkeepers Association. I will never forget the many people who were so nice to me in making sure that I had a good time. The many gifts I received, I will always treasure and especially the tie clip.

I like all the seashells I got, too.

I hope to visit Virginia Beach again this summer and get to play on the beach.

I am still getting mail from Virginia and I like that, too. My teacher says that you Virginians did something to me for I have a 91 average at school and I never did that before.

To all the citizens of Virginia Beach I say "thank-you". You have a pretty town and the greatest bridge in the whole world and I'm glad you invited me to see it.

Your truly,
Gregory Hanby

Dear Mrs. Padrick:

I am well pleased with the new "Virginia Beach Sun" and especially pleased with the outline you propose for your column "View of Virginia Beach." There are so many tragic and shocking things printed these days that the good things seem to get buried or are never brought to print. I commend you for planning to make your column a "happy spot" in the Sun emphasizing the "good".

A good thing in our Community is our Red Cross Blood Program which yearly helps many people and saves many lives. Since the month of March has been proclaimed Red Cross month I felt this enclosed timely news release should be shared with our citizens. Thank you for printing this and congratulations in your new endeavor.

THE KEEP HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY

The Keep
What's in a name? A great deal to the early Virginia Beach Settlers. For instance: London Bridge; a postage choice of nomenclature. Salisbury Plains; a similarity to the flat land of Salisbury, England, the homeplace of the emigrants, William Cornick and his father, "Simon Cornick." Wolfs Snare; the riverside where wolves were snared, their heads bringing bounty at the county court. Sea Tack; in the war of 1812 cannon balls from guns of the British Fleet fell there in an attack from the sea.
Pleasant Hall; the wealthy Peter Singleton, who built his home in Kempsville, was extravagant, reckless and delighted in ornamentation. Witch Duck Road; whatever name the road had before they took the witch, Grace Sherwood, along it, to be ducked in Lynnhaven River, was changed from that day forward.

Easter Seal Campaign

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Virginia Beach Chapter of the Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults held a meeting last week to complete plans of the Easter Seal campaign.

The field director of the Southeastern area, Mrs. Catherine Umbarger, and the state president, Maurice Unger, attended the meeting.

Mr. Unger stated that "Logic of the long-range goals of the Easter Seal Society have become a reality, which could not have been possible without the generosity of the Virginia people." He said that our own Easter Seal Society is concerned with the handicapped of our community. For many of these individuals, cures or preventions could come too late. They need help today. Whether the crippling is caused by illness, disease or accident, our State Easter Society tries to help by providing special equipment, therapy, summer camping for crippled children, speech and hearing clinics, and others.

It is the desire of the membership of the Virginia Beach Chapter, through their efforts to bring help and hope to crippled children and adults in the Virginia Beach area, through "The Open Door." Your Help means their future.

Blowing their horns and parading around the school, the members of the Interact Club launched another fund-raising project—the sale of shares of stock in the AFS exchange student program. By purchasing shares, sold for only a dollar, at a gaily decorated booth situated outside the school lunchroom, students will be able to become stockholders.

In addition to promoting international relations, each stockholder will be able to attend the Interact Club's dance, featuring the "Beachnuts" planned for Friday, free of charge.

Although students will buy the majority of the one thousand shares to be sold, the community is asked to participate and help develop better understanding and friendship with our world neighbors through education and fellowship.

SEAHAWKS SEEKING EXCHANGE

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Seahawks of Virginia Beach High school are making preparations for a foreign exchange student next year.

The student will be sponsored by the American Field Service and the Interact Club, a high school organization sponsored by the Rotary Club.

Several projects have been completed to raise the $750 necessary to bring the student to the halls of VBHS. One was a Bruce Brown film "Surfing Hollow Days" which was shown in the school auditorium Feb. 27. However, the profit from the project is still far from the desired goal.

VIEW of VIRGINIA BEACH

By DORIS PADRICK

Are you looking forward to the warmer weather, and cooler clothes... or does the mirror reveal a few unwanted bulges your winter garments so successfully had hidden? Don't despair. There is help all around you. And the only cost is your personal determination to improve and a few hours of time a week.

The Women's Trimmastics Class offered free under the new Adult Night Program began last Monday evening at Princess Anne High School gymnasium. Mrs. Doris French, instructor of Trimmastics, was overwhelmed at the response as hundreds of ladies showed up to register and exercise, and completely delighted.

Slim and small and in excellent physical condition, Mrs. French is a living example of what physical fitness means, present also were quite a few young ladies "in excellent shape" who evidently want to stay that way. But the majority knew they had problems and are participating with vigor to bring about the desired improvements.

So, no matter what your reason might be, the place to find fun and companionship while working on self improvements is the Trimmastics classes being held each Monday and Thursday night from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. for the next 10 weeks.

Going into a high school gym, for some inexplicable reason, creates a feeling of being young again and the cares of every day life disappear. You will find yourself giggling along with the groaning. You sprawl on the floor. You jump and jiggle. You kick and creak. But you are having a marvelous time! Exercising with a group turns it into a party...

It doesn't matter if you can't find a friend to go with you... once you arrive, you will find lots of friends. Everyone is there for the same reason you are, and mutual interests makes mutual friends.

Your presence there has a serious underlying reason and you will be given expert instruction in warming up exercises, conditioning exercises, and circulatory activity — all designed to improve your health and well-being as well as to make you look better when you wear less.

The group instruction takes care of the first part of your time spent in the gym, and after class participation, you also have the opportunity to indulge in individual activities such as skipping rope, shooting basketball, tossing the volley ball around. There will be time to work out on the parallel bars, trampoline, and when the weather improves, a few games of tennis, etc.

For two hours, twice a week, for the next 10 weeks, you have the opportunity to change yourself for the better, both physically and mentally, and give a big boost to your morale.

All you have to do is go... the rest is waiting just for you at Princess Anne High School at the Trimmastics classes.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S CLINICS

RICHMOND—The Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond will hold two spring clinics in April at its 2924 Brook Road, location. The Orthopedic Clinic will be held April 4, the Plastic Clinic on April 11. Both will open at 8 a.m.

Classroom Like Most, But Not The Curriculum

VIRGINIA BEACH — The classroom resembled most classrooms. It had tables and chairs and blackboards and charts and an instruction desk. But that's where the resemblance ended. The students were few. Only six. And the curriculum — well, that was different.

The six students weren't learning the three R's. They knew those. They studied instead how to use firearms, how to handle traffic and court procedures; and by Sgt. Terry in outlining laws of arrest and city ordinances.

Lt. C. R. Bailey told the group of the traffic problems and enforcement; Detective Doug McCloud instructed them in the handling of juveniles; and Lt. J. J. Waterfield covered a vast subject in the primary responsibilities of police officers and what is expected on routine patrols and in answering calls.

Receiving badges at the conclusion of the training school were Allen Sinclair, Joseph P. Vitale, Donald W. Pope, Howard J. Thomas, Ronald P. Jakeman and Blocher R. Scarborough.

These students were a select group. After undergoing strenuous tests, physical and mental, they had made the grade as new police recruits. They were attending Police Training School classes, at Police Headquarters.

Under the direction of the training officer, Detective Sgt. H. C. Terry, the men took a concentrated course on police procedures, sitting in class eight hours each day while various officials instructed them in many important subjects.

And the training school was just the beginning. Now that they have "graduated" and received their badges, they must continue with extensive on-the-job training.

Just to appreciate the territory the "students" had to cover in a limited time, here are some of the topics they explored:

Sgt. Terry launched the school by explaining the rules and regulations, orientation and organization, police ethics and public relations, of the Police Department; Discipline for policemen was Capt. R. K. Halstead's subject; Detective Sgt. C. W. Simmons told them how the Detective Bureau functions; and how to conduct preliminary investigations; search and seizures was Detective Lt. W. W. Davis' topic; and Lt. G. K. Bryan was their instructor in the proper use and handling of firearms.

The business end of the department was outlined by Lt. R. J. Hladky who discussed the function of central files and proper use of the police radios.

Technical information was covered by Lt. G. C. Riley in his discussion on rules of evidence.

HIGH'S STORE HELD UP FOR SECOND TIME

KEMPSVILLE — The High's Ice Cream store on Indian River Road was held up late last Wednesday night for the second time in three weeks.

A bandit wearing a lace doily over his head and face held two women and employees and their sons at gunpoint and demanded the money they were on their way to deposit.

One of the employees, Mrs. Nancy Virginia Onley, 57, was a victim in the first holdup on Feb. 23. She and Mrs. Mildred Kinnard had just closed the store and were getting into autos with their sons, Dempsey Onley, 22, and William Kinnard, 18, when they were approached by the masked man.

They told police the man came from the east side of the building, pointed a revolver at them and asked for the money.

Mrs. Onley handed the day's receipts, more than $90, to her son, who threw it out the window. The man then told them to drive off. They drove to a nearby grocery and called police.

THREE SPECIAL EVENTS SET BY CHAMBER

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Special Events Committee of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce has announced three Spring and Summer events it will sponsor or participate in this year, according to Mrs. Laura Lambie, chairman.

The first event will be the laying of the wreath at the Norwegian Lady Statue at 25th Street and the Oceanfront. The Chamber's special events committee will assist the Ladies Auxiliary of the Virginia Beach Volunteer Fire Department in this event Saturday starting at 11 a.m.

Highlight of the program of events planned by the Chamber committee will be the annual Easter Parade to be held on Easter Sunday along the boardwalk. The parade this year will cover eight blocks and prizes will be awarded in several categories.

Late in the summer season the committee plans to stage a Children's Week in Virginia Beach. This week-long celebration is scheduled for the week of August 29th.

Members of the Chamber's special events committee, in addition to Mrs. Lambie, include John McCombs, Sidney S. Kelam, W. J. Dekker, Mrs. Lucy Trafton, James Kitchin, John Maddox, Mrs. Lois Nelson, W. Russell Hatchett, Michael Savides and Al Mailhes.

FEED GRAIN PROGRAM HAS ADVANTAGES

PRINCESS ANNE — Growers who participate in the 1965 feed grain program will have definite advantages over growers who elect not to participate, according to Chris Khahenbill, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

First, he explained, the diversion payment earned for reducing the farm's 1965 acreage of corn, barley, or grain sorghum, assures the participating grower of a substantial income from the diverted acres, regardless of drought, flood, insects, hail, or crop disease.

This is also true of the price-support payment which is made on the acreage planted in 1965 to one or more of the three feed grains — no matter what disposition is made of the crop, the price-support payment is assured. And, third, price support is available through loans and purchases on the participating farmer's entire 1965 production of the feed grains. Furthermore, the Chairman added, if the farm operator requests it, an advance of one-half of the estimated diversion payment will be made at the time of signing up as soon as possible after that time.

Growers take part in the feed grain program by diverting at least 20 percent of the farm's feed grain base acreage into an approved conserving use and carrying out other provisions of the program. If more than the minimum acreage is diverted, a higher rate of payment will apply.

Maximum diversion is 50 percent of the farm's feed grain base or 25 acres, whichever is larger. The minimum rate of payment is based on one-fifth of the county's total price-support rate (the county loan rate plus the price support payment rate). A higher rate (one-half the total price support rate for the county) applies to diversion between 20 and 40 percent of the base. If 40 percent or more of the base is actually diverted, the higher rate applies to the entire acreage diverted.

Farm operators may file applications to take part in the 1965 feed grain program at the ASCS County office. The signup period extends through March 26.

"SHOW BOAT" BOUND FOR BEACH

VIRGINIA BEACH — "Show Boat", the third annual spring musical of the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus is to be presented this year at the Princess Anne High School for five nights, April 27 through May 1.

In 1963, the chorus presented "The Merry Widow" for two nights, last year's "Carousel" ran four nights, and the cumulative audience comfort would be better served by changing the locale, and the production problems will be considerably less using the staging facilities of the Princess Anne High School auditorium.

"Show Boat", by the Hammerstein team, was first performed in 1927, and was lavishly revived in 1947 in a new Broadway production. It is this version that has had a new vogue about the country recently and is being staged here by Charles Oliver, director of the Civic Chorus.

The large cast has the following singers and actors in the principal roles: Michael Heneghan as Cap'n Andy Hawkes, Vi Ragas as Parthy Anne Hawkes, Jane Garrison as Magnolia Hawkes, Ray Jerome as Gaylord Revere, Carol Hall as Ellie, Welton Smith as Frank, Mary Jane Utley as Queenie, and Fred Watkins as Joe. Set designer is William Utley, choreographer is Hugh Williams and John Steel is production manager.

The first course to be taught will be American Red Cross, Standard, which requires 10 hours. Upon completion, the American Red Cross advanced course will be taught.

TO GRAND JURY

VIRGINIA BEACH — Thomas H. Jennings, 18, was ordered held for grand jury last week on hit-and-run charges after two for manslaughter were dismissed in Virginia Beach Traffic Court.

The young Navy man was fined $25 on a reckless driving charge. The four charges were placed against him after a fatal accident Feb. 21 on Virginia Beach Boulevard in which two people, David Gordon, 24, and Alonzia Hines, 25, were killed.

ANNUAL TB MEETING

BAYSIDE — The annual meeting of the Southeastern Virginia Tuberculosis and Health Association will be held April 28 at 6:30 p.m. at the Shore Drive Inn.

Mrs. Randolph Whittle and Mrs. Stockton Tyler are in charge of the dinner arrangements and Mrs. J. J. Booker is in charge of the program.

CARD PARTY PLANNED

VIRGINIA BEACH — A card party will be sponsored by the Virginia Beach Classroom Teachers Department in order to raise money to award a scholarship to a teacher for summer study. The card party will be held April 1, 8 p.m. at Thalia Elementary School.

Donations will be one dollar. The public is invited. Door prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served. Tickets may be obtained from members. Call the nearest school for further information.

Guests are asked to bring cards. Mrs. Catherine Howell of Cooke School is chairman.

The scholarship is open to all members of the Virginia Beach Classroom Teachers Department. Interested teachers apply to the classroom teachers board. The Department plans to make a card party an annual event in order to raise money for scholarships.

BALANCE

It is said of a certain friend of ours that he went off the deep end.

Strange expression, that! It can mean that a person had a mental breakdown, or that he became a sort of fanatic; or it can mean simply that he got too interested in one thing to the exclusion of other important matters.

And the very fact that our generation has coined such an idiom is indicative of the fact that we see such tragedy every day.

One of the vital contributions of religion to life is its gift of balance. The knowledge of God helps a man see all else in its proper perspective.

In a day when millions are caught in turbulent crosscurrents, faith points to the true center of existence... worship steadies the mind and heart!

Termites aren't known to have a high school of their own, or even to run dances, but the springtime swarming of the termites is part of their courtship prior to setting up housekeeping.

TERMITES ARE ORGANIZED

If there's anything to the pessimistic theory that insects may some day dominate the earth, it's a good bet that termites, the insect world's fifth column, will play a leading part in pushing man out of his house and home.

The termite, species of which roamed the earth as long as 250,000,000 years ago, is without a doubt the most widespread, most persistent, most highly organized and most destructive insect pest in most of these United States, and all but the coldest areas of the globe.

That's the verdict of Aldridge & Chambers Pest Control which paid this dubious tribute to the termite at this time because in most of the United States it will soon again be "that season" of the year.

That season is the time when termite swarming is at the peak—in February in Florida and California, in March in Georgia, in May in Kansas—often, but not always, a sign that there is a nest of these insects nearby and that they are ready to start a new colony even nearer. The local firm notes that swarming time is a "smart" time to be on the lookout for this expensive pest.

Swarming time is a "coming out" time for the adolescent termite and the main objective of this activity is to locate a likely spot to start a new colony. In other words, the termites are starting a new family with progeny that may number in the hundreds of thousands.

Termites inhabit the soil throughout most of the temperate and tropic zones of the earth's crust and are constantly in search of their only foodstuff—cellulose. Since wood is the chief and most common source of cellulose, they are searching for wood and the beams in a cellar, the sill under a front door, or the studding which comes in direct contact with the concrete slab of a modern house will do very nicely for the termite throng.

Anyone who has left a stake in the ground for a few months and then pulled it out to see how it has been furrowed will realize how well the termites scout for food supplies. If, as they travel, they run up against a house foundation, they search out any possible openings—and usually find even the smallest crack.

Then they move in, for "what amounts to a continuous succession of tiny tunnels. They climb and build until they hit "pay dirt," a nice sirloin steak of a beam. They can go through concrete block walls with ease—if there is a tiny crack—and they almost always find what they are looking for unless proper remedial actions are taken.

Termite damage is big in this country, largely because of factors connected with modern housing make-life easy for this menace. Some experts claim that termite damage runs to better than $250,000,000 annually.

But, termite damage can be prevented. Modern scientific methods can keep termites out of buildings and can kill those which have gotten in.

To avoid trouble with this costly and universal pest, the firm advises regular checkups by experienced pest control operators—especially when termites have been seen swarming from a structure—and the hiring of a reputable and recognized pest control firm when the pests are discovered.

"There are no good bargain termite control jobs," Lee Chambers said, "but good control costs far less than many home repairs and the home owner who calls in a reputable firm will be surprised how reasonable his service can be."

Procedure Is Outlined For Clean Poultry Houses

"No germs—no disease" is the watchword to use in sanitizing poultry houses and equipment.

I suggest cleaning buildings and equipment in this order: Take all equipment out of the house. Remove all the manure and litter. Sweep or wash the ceiling, walls, windows, and floors to remove dust and dirt. (A steam jenny does an excellent cleaning job.)

Disinfect the house and equipment completely. Be sure to be thorough.

After the house has been thoroughly cleaned, permit only those persons having business here to enter it.

Place about three inches of dry litter on the floor just before you put the birds in the building.

After completing the cleaning, isolate replacement chicks—especially during the first eight weeks of their life—from older birds and visitors.

I also strongly recommend taking these steps:

Isolate the brooder and growing house from the breeder house. If both are on the same farm, the replacement house should be at least a hundred yards from the breeder house. Separate farms are preferred.

Use different laborers to attend the replacements and breeders where the units are large enough to justify it. If you don't have this much help, have the attendants take care of the replacements first each day.

Don't allow contaminated equipment to be brought on the premises.

Keep visitors out of the poultry house and off the range.

ojj bmbm bmbm bmbm bmbm comply with the Virginia Dead Poultry Disposal Law. (Those who have 500 or more birds a year must comply with it.) The law specifies that the farmer must have—and use—a disposal pit or incinerator on the premises large enough to handle normal mortality.

Don't forget also, that a lot of diseases are spread by improper handling of manure. Scatter the birds from under roost. Do not run them on pastures where poultry manure has been spread within the year.

Alfalfa Stem Nematode Can Be Serious Problem

Alfalfa stem nematode disease is a very serious problem once it becomes established on a farm.

The first symptom of the disease is the stunted growth of affected plants. The new buds are swollen and the leaves that develop on the affected shoots are crinkled and deformed.

The internodes are short, and on severely affected buds the scarcely recognizable. Buds and shoots with different degrees of injury may occur on the same plant, but early in the spring of the year there is a sharp contrast between the growth of diseased and healthy plants.

Farmers suspecting the disease on the farms should notify our office immediately.

The first recognized occurrence of it in this state was in 1948 on a Henrico County dairy farm. Then, in 1953, the disease was found in several fields on two other farms near Lynchburg.

The stem nematode is thought to have been introduced on infested hay from western states. Farmers who have used western grown hay in the past eight or ten years should be especially alert to the disease.

Salt Poisoning Can Be Fatal In Swine Herds

There is no specific treatment for salt poisoning in swine.

I do suggest, however, that the feed be replaced immediately when the condition does occur in a herd. A thorough examination should be made of the food that was removed.

As to preventive steps, the amount of sodium salt in the diet of pigs should be carefully controlled. The pigs should have adequate water with their feed and a liberal supply available at all other times.

Observations on experimental animals would indicate that pigs will not voluntarily consume enough sodium salt to cause poisoning if they are given adequate rough space and water is available in sufficient quantity.

It is not fully understood how the disease develops, although it occurs more frequently in swine than in any other domestic animal. This may be because some pigs eat garbage and other foods of unknown composition.

Field outbreaks of salt poisoning have been associated with the ingestion of salted fish, fallout from heavily salted hays, rock salt, pickling brine, and excess sodium chloride in buttermilk, whey, garbage, and commercial feeds.

Salt poisoning can be produced in pigs by adding the salt to their regular ration and limiting for a time the supply of water. It may occur in pigs that receive as little as two and a half percent sodium chloride of water if given only at intervals and the amount restricted. However, when a continuous supply of fresh water is available pigs may consume 10 to 13 percent sodium chlorides without becoming poisoned.

The two forms of sodium salt poisoning in pigs are the peracute and the acute. The peracute form occurs when a massive dose is administered. The acute form occurs when smaller amounts of sodium salts are consumed over a period of time and water intake is restricted.

The systems of peracute sodium salt poisoning are great weakness, muscular tremors, running movements, prostration, coma and death within two days following the consumption of salt.

First symptoms in the acute form of poisoning are thirst, intense itching, and constipation. After one to five days some of the hogs will appear blind and deaf and seem to be oblivious of their surroundings; they will show no interest in food or drink and won't respond to external stimuli.

Affected pigs will wander around aimlessly, bump into and push against objects. When it reaches a corner, a pig may attempt to continue walking and force its snout up the wall. Occasionally pigs will exhibit a bending of the body to one side and they'll pivot around on one front or hind foot. Forced circling is commonly seen.

At this stage in the disease the pig may recover, or become comatose, or die within a few days, or develop epileptic seizures.

Among Top 15 In Entire U.S.

CHARLOTTESVILLE—A Virginia Beach student is among 15 young men in the country to be offered Honor Awards at the University of Virginia this September.

He is James Calvin Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Kendrick Davis of 2278 Bayville Road. He is a senior at Norfolk Academy.

The students, whose College scores place them among the most gifted young men in the nation are also acknowledged as school leaders, not only in scholarship, but in activities of all kinds.

The University Honor Award program was inaugurated two years ago to recognize entering undergraduates whose secondary school records in all areas, academic and extra-curricular, are outstanding and who give strong promise of continuing all-around achievement and leadership in college.

The award carries a $1,000 stipend for the 1965-66 year for each of the five Virginia students and $1,500 for each of the 10 out-of-state students. Tuition is higher for non-Virginians.

MILLER'S BURGLARIZED

PLAZA—Miller's Department Store on Virginia Beach Boulevard was broken into recently, police said, and about $200 in cash and checks plus several items was reported stolen. Entry was made by breaking a plate glass in the entrance foyer. The missing items included three small tape recorders and a radio.

NEW CLUES FOUND IN LOST CITY SEARCH

MANTEO, N.C. — The neck of a glass bottle, fragments of Indian pottery and several ancient brick are the newest clues that may lead to the discovery of the lost "City of Raleigh" here on Roanoke Island.

Dr. Jean Carl Harrington, National Park Service archeologist of Richmond who found the location of the English fort here in the early 1950's and later discovered through diggings the layout of the Jamestown settlement site made the latest discoveries here that may lead to solving at least part of the mystery that has surrounded the "Lost Colony" disappearance almost 400 years ago.

He found at a depth of two to three feet the fragments of pottery, the bricks and the bottle-neck at Fort Raleigh National Historic Site which is currently being expanded at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars as an NPS Mission 66 project.

"The brick, and also the glass bottle neck which originally may have been filled with ale, are definitely of Elizabethan Era origin," said Dr. Harrington.

Discovery of the newest clues does not completely solve the mystery that has through the years has baffled historians. That a colony of men sent out from England in 1585 by the First Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh built a fort and laid out a town is an historical fact because the ill-fated settlers who came to Roanoke Island in 1587 occupied the houses of the town. The exact location of the community where lived the men, women and children who later became the "lost colony," is not known.

The newest clues seem to be a definite indication that the lost colonists' village was in the immediate area of the National Historic Site.

Thus the digging, under the direction of Archeologist Harrington will continue, with the thought in view that from beneath the soil at the site where Virginia Dare was born and where America's greatest "history-mystery" occurred will be found evidence of the habitation of the first English settlement in the New World.

Panel Discusses Potential Of Children

VIRGINIA BEACH — "How can we help our children to live up to their potential?" This question was given serious consideration at the March meeting of the Virginia Beach High School Parents' League. Mrs. Robert D. Wilson, Director of Friends School; Rev. Douglas Ebert, Minister of Foundry Methodist Church; and John Orr, President of the Junior Class were members of the panel discussion moderated by Mrs. Leo Hoarty.

Mrs. Wilson said that training of the mind makes for efficiency but not for wholeness. "The right kind of education has to inquire into the significance of life. If we lay too much emphasis on class standing, achievement tests, IQ scores and daily tests it leads to confusion and pressure. Our present education is geared to industrialization and war. If our education leads to nervous breakdowns, juvenile delinquency, dropouts, war within the mind and soul of the student as well as to cold war and nuclear testing; are we failing to bring about right education?"

"If we want to bring about right education we must first understand life, then understand ourselves and can then help young people to understand themselves. Education now awakens us intellectually but leaves us incomplete. It pushes us out of ourselves into a society that doesn't know where it is going or why. It turns out technicians, scholars, and doctors but are they integrated people, free of fear, willing to be involved with other people?"

Young people are under many pressures—pressure to excel, to get on the first team, to be cheerleaders, and the greatest pressure of all—to get into college. Cheating is the only way they know how to meet the situation we have created," Mrs. Wilson said.

John Orr quoted a recent Look Magazine article in which grading was done according to the individual's ability. He said parents should provide a suitable place for the student to work, be interested in the student's work, be patient, and be available. He quoted from the Teen-Parent Guide on discipline. John's main point was that he is working for himself and not for anyone else. He is the one who will benefit.

Big Minds—No Hearts

Mr. Ebert asked whether we are trying to get knowledge or wisdom. "Knowledge is the learning of facts and wisdom is learning how to use them." He said "many of today's great people would never be able to get into college today. We are creating big minds without hearts. We must learn to turn knowledge into wisdom and use it to help our fellowman."

Mr. Wilson said, "We are so busy teaching the dates that something happened that we forget to teach why it happened." "A teacher that belittles a child doesn't have a very good opinion of herself."

One parent says, "I have given my child everything. How have I failed?" He had failed to keep a communication with the child.

Mrs. Hoarty asked, "How do you discipline a child without making him think he is bad or do you want him to think he is bad?"

Mrs. Wilson suggested that we find out from him what took place. Listen to what he says and why he did it. He doesn't like what he has done any better than you do. Help him to see himself not as a bad person but as a person who has made a mistake. He should be able to keep his dignity. We have to leave the child with the feeling that he can become better.

BEACH MAN CHARGED IN HIT AND RUN

ARAGONA — Police have charged a Virginia Beach man with hit and run and reckless driving in connection with a two-car collision in Aragona Village recently that resulted in personal injuries to a 46-year-old woman.

Francis Evans Werner of 4605 Bunker Hill Lane is accused of running into a car driven by Mrs. Marilyn E. Graham of 405 Taldon Road then leaving the scene of the accident.

Police said that the collision took place about 9 p.m. Mar. 10, at the intersection of Aragona Boulevard and Kellam Road.

Werner reportedly was heading east on Kellam Road at a high rate of speed and failed to see the car. His car struck that of Mrs. Graham, who was headed south on Aragona Boulevard.

Mrs. Graham suffered lacerations of the right side of her face and multiple abrasions of the body, police said. There was several hundred dollars damage to both cars.

Werner was apprehended about 30 minutes after the accident through information provided by a passing motorist who followed Werner from the scene to his home.

Investigating officer was Patrolman H. H. Unroe.

NEWS REPORT FROM THE UNIVERSITY

Echols Scholars

Among the highest honors a first-year student can receive at the University of Virginia is to be named an Echols Scholar. Not just a token recognition of past excellence, the Echols Scholar Program is designed to challenge and stimulate exceptionally able students.

Participants in the program are excused from certain first-year requirements and are permitted to take other courses of their own choice. They also may enter more advanced courses not usually open to first-year students.

The Scholars live together during the first year in a dormitory named for William Holding Echols, a distinguished former teacher and scholar at the university.

This academic year, 58 of the 860 first-year men admitted to the College of Arts and Sciences were invited to participate.

The program, begun in 1960, is open only to students in the College on an invitational basis.

One recent Scholar said of the program, "I think it is a wonderful thing. enjoy associating with other fellows who share my interests, and we have very interesting and involved discussions."

Second-year Echols Scholars may conduct an independent research project in addition to their regular courses. In their third and fourth years, the Scholars may either pursue a regular course of study or do independent work in an honors program under the guidance of a tutor.

University professors and officials feel a particularly valuable feature of the program is its flexibility. The course of study of each Echols Scholar is tailored to his individual interests and abilities, so long as it meets the requirements of his degree program.

Participants may apply for any of the University's regular scholarships and aid programs, but they receive no financial awards from the Echols Scholars program itself.

The program is a challenging one, yet the number of scholars selected each year has doubled since 1960. It is an example of the trend toward individualized instruction that is taking place at all levels of education.

Ruritans 'Resemble' Rockettes

VIRGINIA BEACH — If the dancers in the 10th Annual Princess Anne Ruritan Minstrels step off with particular precision this year, it will be because they are getting direction from a former member of the famed Radio City Music Hall Rockettes.

Choreographer for this year's production is Janice Ferguson, who danced with the Rockettes in New York prior to her marriage to Thomas C. Ferguson. She now has the Jan Ferguson School of dance at Sunnybrook Day School, and the couple reside in Chesapeake Colony with their daughter Jan, a junior at Princess Anne High School, and a son Jay at University of Virginia.

Opening in the auditorium of Princess Anne High School on Thursday night, March 25, the minstrel show will continue on the four successive Friday and Saturday evenings, March 26 and 27, and April 2 and 3. Tickets for all performances are now on sale, with general admission at $1 on a space available basis, and reserved seats at $1.50.

Tickets may be obtained at the Ruritan office in the Cunningham Building, 3253 Virginia Beach Blvd., or from any of the 182 members of the Ruritan Club, according to ticket chairman E. Bruce McGuire, principal of the John B. Day School.

Original routines are being taught by the choreographer to the all-male dance line which includes: Mickey Darden, Paul Dunn, Wilson Johnson, Bob Lohr, Harry Moir, Gus Riganto, Tom Sawyer and Jim Simmons. With final dress rehearsals set for March 23, the show is rapidly getting into shape according to Homer W. Cunningham, producer and interactor. The script has again been authored by John S. McFall, veteran director since 1959 and also an end man. Charles W. Graves, musical director at Princess Anne High School, is scoring and directing the music.

The 10 end men in the augmented front line of this year's Ralph J. DeMarco, Henry L. show, in addition to McFall, include: Charles W. Cashman, Jr., Lam, Ryland T. Lowery, D. Murray Malbon, J. Frank Malbon, James N. Moody, John F. Skiffman, and Joseph R. White, Jr.

The Mixing Bowl

It's Fun To Cook

By LUCILE CLARK

Virginia Beach SUN Food Editor

"Cape Cod Turkey" is not turkey at all, but fish—in the vernacular of New England, that is. Although the term used to mean salt codfish, it now refers to any cooked fish dish. Of course, the cod does enjoy a unique place in the history and culinary traditions of New England. But today, lobsters, clams, oysters, scallops and all the members of the ocean tribe are equally at home on Yankee tables. Seafood combinations baked "en casserole" with a creamy sauce are a favorite on cold northern nights. This medley of scallops, lobster, fish fillets and shrimp is a particular favorite, according to the National Fisheries Institute.

New England Scalloped Fish
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1/2 cup flour
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons Worcestershire
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1 pound fish fillets (haddock, cod, flounder, sole or ocean perch)
1 pound cooked scallops
1 pound cooked and cleaned shrimp
1 small cooked lobster, or 1 small can lobster meat

Melt butter or margarine, add mushrooms and saute until lightly browned. Remove mushrooms and blend in flour. Gradually add milk and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Add seasonings and cook gently for 2 minutes. Cut fish fillets into bite-size pieces. Add to sauce along with other seafoods and sauteed mushrooms. Turn mixture into greased individual casseroles and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 to 20 minutes, or until mixture bubbles on top. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

No doubt many children think that sardines are caught in cans. The National Fisheries Institute tells us that "sardine" is actually a general term for any small fish with soft bones that is preserved in oil. This method of packing fish originated on the island of sardinia, hence the name sardine. Many different species of fish are sold as sardines; our own Maine variety is an infant alewife or herring. Sardines are the perfect all-occasion food. They may be used as hors d'oeuvres or sandwich fillings, and in a number of intriguing prepared dishes such as Sardine Karelites.

Sardine Karelites
1/2 pound processed American cheese or milk cheddar cheese
Trimmed bread slices
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 teaspoon mustard, if desired
Beat egg slightly and grate the cheese into it. Add salt and pepper to taste and mustard, if desired. Stir until smooth. Spread on trimmed bread slices. Top with 1 or 2 sardines. (If recipe is to be used for appetizers, cut each slice of bread in two, and place 1 sardine on each half.) Bake on top shelf of hot oven (450 degrees F.) until top is bubbly and slightly browned. Serve about 4 as a main dish, 6 to 8 as appetizers.

There are as many recipes for codfish cakes as there are cooks in New England, for every Yankee homemaker has her favorite. The traditional version calls for equal quantities of mashed potatoes and cooked shredded codfish, seasoned with a dash of ginger. Southerners are apt to add minced onion. But aficionados agree on one point: serving codfish cakes with tomato sauce is barbaric. If you must have a sauce, make it a bechamel, or cream sauce, or perhaps an egg sauce. Here is the National Fisheries Institute's favorite recipe for Codfish Cakes—oven-baked for ease of preparation.

Oven-Baked Codfish Cakes
Combine 2 cups cooked flaked codfish, 2 cups soft bread crumbs (lightly packed), 1 beaten egg, 1/2 cup milk, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon dried crushed thyme, 1 teaspoon minced fresh parsley (or 1 teaspoon dried parsley), 1/4 cup minced celery, 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Shape into cakes, using 1/2 cup of mixture for each cake. Coat cakes with 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs and place on greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Place in very hot oven (475 degrees) for 10 minutes or until hot and golden brown. Makes 8 fish cakes.

To prepare flaked cod, poach 1 pound fresh or frozen cod steaks in 1 quart boiling water to which 1 teaspoon salt has been added. Keep the water at a gentle simmer; cook 8 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Drain, remove center bone and skin and flake cod gently with a fork. One pound cod steaks makes about 2 cups flaked cod.

Fish portions, those popular stars of the frozen seafood family, are favorites with homemakers who like to add their own creative touch to packaged foods. You may find them labeled as "fillets" or "steaks," but they're all the same squares and rectangles of boneless white-fleshed fish. (Some are also cut in rounds now.) For added convenience, fish portions have been dipped in batter and breaded, then partially cooked; all they need is brief heating before serving. The National Fisheries Institute guarantees that Tomato-Topped Fish Portions will give a life to winter menus. Why not try them now while tomatoes are a good buy.

Tomato-Topped Fish Portions
One package of frozen fish portions (labeled variously as "fillets," "cutlets," "burgers" or "steaks") will make four servings. Arrange fish portions on greased baking sheet. Slice a medium-size tomato into 1/2 or 3/4-inch slices. Place a tomato slice on each fish portion, brush with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bake in hot (450 degrees) oven for 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Garnish with parsley.
